

ALDERMEN VOTE
40-HR. WEEK FOR CITY EMPLOYEES
EXCEPT FIREMEN

Cost Put at $400,000 a Year—Bill Approved to Obtain $316,000 From U.S. for Runway Extensions.

A bill providing for a 40-hour work week for all city employees, except firemen, was passed by the Board of Aldermen today without a dissenting vote.

Most persons affected are employed in hospitals and other city institutions. The other employees, not counting firemen, already are working 40 hours.

The board also adopted an opinion by the city counselor that the bill is illegal because it applies to wages and working conditions and did not originate in the Civil Service Commission, as provided by the city charter.

Putting the measure into effect would cost the city $400,000 a year for additional employees.

The board also adopted an ordinance authorizing the city to enter into a contract with the Federal Government under which St. Louis is to receive $316,000 to buy land for extension of runways at Lambert-St. Louis Field. The money was provided by the Department of Commerce.

Urges Aldermen to Act.
If the Board of Aldermen does not act soon on the bill for modernization of the city charter, the matter is likely to be submitted to the people in the form of an initiative proposal, which would be a reflection on the board, Alderman William A. Stolar asserted today.

The Twenty-eighth Ward alderman, who is a Republican, appealed to the Democratic majority in the board to bring the charter bill up for a vote.

A bill calling for a special election next March 13 to choose 13 freeholders to study modernization of the city charter is pending in the aldermanic legislation committee. Mayor Raymond R. Tucker had introduced last Oct. 6.

"When the Mayor of St. Louis, a Democrat, was elected in 1953," Stolar told his fellow aldermen, "a major plank of his platform was to lead the leadership on enactment of a new charter. That was a mandate from the people."

"Our responsibility is to put that in effect. The legislation committee would return the bill for charter revision to the floor. Unless the board acts, and preferably before Christmas, this charter matter is going to be submitted to the people in the form of an initiative proposal."

Would Involve Petitions.
The initiative procedure would involve circulation of petitions among the voters to force an election on a board of freeholders.

Previous bills for charter reform have been permitted to languish in the legislation committee. This committee for more than a year has been studying proposals to modernize the municipal charter by a series of amendments, an approach denounced by Mayor as piecemeal and obstructive.

Anton Niemeyer, Democrat, of the Eighth Ward, who is chairman of the legislation committee, said the committee intends to make public its recommendations as to charter amendments next Friday, and to present them to the Board of Aldermen Dec. 16.

He contended that it would

OFFICIAL USE OF SECRET RECORDER

A bill to prohibit any St. Louis public official from using a wire recording device without the consent of the person being interviewed was introduced in the Board of Aldermen today.

Alderman William A. Stolar, Twenty-eighth Ward Republican, said he decided to sponsor the measure after reading in the Post-Dispatch that Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd was using a wire recorder in his office when interviewing persons.

"I believe it is unfair and unconstitutional to permit officials to secretly record the statements of citizens without their knowledge," he declared. His bill would make it illegal for any public official whose salary is paid out of city funds to use a microphone, wire recorder or any other recording device without first obtaining the consent of the person interviewed. Violations would be punishable by fines of $25 to $500.

69 S-D DAY DEAD,
DAY WITH NO DRIVE

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (AP)—The nation's automobile traffic deaths on Safe Driving Day equaled a comparable recent day in which there was no concentrated campaign. It far surpassed last year's S-D day total of 51.

An Associated Press survey today showed a total of 69 deaths yesterday, equal to the number counted in an AP survey Thursday, Nov. 17, which was made for comparison.

The first observance of S-D Day was last Dec. 15, when the toll was 51.

Although fatalities on the highways were higher this year than in 1954 it appeared that nearly half of the states observed S-D day without a single traffic death. Four deaths were reported in Missouri, one in Illinois.

Most of the major cities, including New York, Chicago and Detroit, had no fatalities.

TYPHOON WARNINGS POSTED AS STORM NEARS IWO JIMA

TOKYO, Dec. 2 (AP)—Typhoon warnings were posted on Iwo Jima tonight and the tiny American island braced for winds of at least 65 m.p.h.

Fierce gales extended 250 miles in each direction from the center of typhoon Patsy. The United States Air Force said the storm center, with winds up to 140 miles an hour, should pass 70 miles northwest of Iwo at midnight.

WHITE HOUSE SCHOOL MEETING BACKS U.S. AID IN BUILDING 2-TO-1

President Will Ask Congress for Broadened Program in Wake of Indorsement—N.E.A. Hails Report.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—A new drive for federal school aid, particularly in construction, appeared to be rolling ahead today in the wake of its indorsement by the White House Conference on Education.

As the four-day meeting ended last night, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Marian B. Folsom told the 1800 delegates President Eisenhower was ready to ask Congress for "a broadened and improved" program of federal aid for school construction.

A few minutes earlier, the conference had greeted with ringing applause, a statement that the delegates had approved a stepped up aid program by more than 2 to 1.

N.E.A. Hails Report.
The leaders of the 600,000-member National Education Association hailed this report and five others as "nothing short of marvelous."

John Buford of Mount Vernon, Ill., N.E.A. president, labeled the conference "one of the greatest ever held."

Labor union leaders, who had threatened a floor fight if the conference's report on federal aid was not strong enough to suit them, apparently were satisfied with the outcome.

Following is a summary of the conference's major recommendations:

Federal Aid—Recommended federal aid for public school construction. The delegates split almost evenly on aid for school operating expenses. Opposed aid to private and parochial schools.

Federal Control—Opposed any federal control over educational programs.

State and Local Financing—Recommended more state aid, particularly to help poorer school districts. Favored easing of legal restrictions on state and local borrowing and taxing powers if necessary. Recommended uniform state-wide standards for property assessment.

Teachers—Called for higher pay and greater fringe benefits for teachers, more attractive working and living conditions for them, more money for teacher training schools, and more scholarships for students who want to be teachers.

School Organization—Recommended consolidations to reduce the number of small and inefficient school districts.

Office of Education—Favored strengthening the U.S. Office of Education.

School Courses—Said schools teach "character education" and "ethical behavior" as well as three Rs.

The report on federal aid agreed with Folsom's statement that such aid should be distributed among all the states and that the states should decide how it should be spent.

Need Should Be Apparent.
The report called on the states to spend the money "only on a basis of demonstrated needs."

Folsom's statement, which he said followed a discussion with the President, followed the same general pattern.

The Secretary said: "Federal assistance, while nation-wide in scope, benefiting all states, should be distributed according to need."

William G. Carr, the N.E.A.'s executive secretary, told a press conference he thought the conference would have three positive results:

It will help speed passage of a bill to provide $400,000,000 a year for distribution by the

"What is this, a gag?" the sheriff asked.

"No, go ahead. Call the number," he was advised.

Twitchell did. A woman answered and when he said he wanted a wash job he was advised: "Just take it to the parking lot next door to the county jail. Ask for Jake Enfield."

Business soon was all washed up for Enfield, jail trusty serving six months for burglary. So was his status as a trusty.

MORE HOME RULE

Report on Pay-Off Inquiry Praises Force, Finds Prisoners' Rights Denied, Court Space Insufficient.

More home-rule by the St. Louis police department, higher wages and shorter working hours for policemen, increased duties for the police inspector's office and a better pension plan were recommended today by the circuit court grand jury in its final report for the September term.

Jurors recommended more courtroom space and more judges for criminal cases, saying that "many defendants are being denied their constitutional right to a speedy trial by this limitation." Also recommended was some means by which prisoners in jail can contact attorneys or court officials more easily.

The jury asked the courts of the Bar Association of St. Louis to look into this problem.

The jury, which conducted an investigation into reports of pay-offs to some policemen by which prisoners in jail can contact attorneys or court officials more easily.

"How can we expect a high morale among our police officers if they feel that there is a callous disregard for their treatment?"

Pay-Off Cases Disposed of.
The jury said it has disposed of all the alleged pay-off cases brought before it.

Pointing out that in the last 25 years only six members of the police department's commissioned personnel have been convicted of felonies, the report said:

"We firmly believe that when a force of about 1800 police officers can produce this kind of a record over a 25-year period, they deserve commendation by our citizens and our press."

Calling attention to invited testimony by members of the police board and other authorities in law-enforcement work, the report said:

"The grand jury felt that time would be well spent in seeking some preventive measures that would minimize the probability of any further scandal, involving police officers."

Underpaid by 15 to 20 Pct.
Analyzing the salaries paid police officers, the jury stated:

"We believe that the wage structure of our St. Louis police force is between 15 to 20 per cent below what is fair and reasonable and necessary to attract and keep new good men."

"Presumably, the hours are 'out of line' and should be reduced either in the form of more days off each year or in a shorter working week, the grand jury stated in its report, made in the court of Circuit Judge J. Casey Walsh.

For the last 10 years, increases in the wage scales of St. Louis policemen have lagged about 18 months behind wage increases generally, and the salary of a patrolman here ranks thirteenth among the 19 major cities in the United States, it was stated.

"The maximum wage of a St. Louis patrolman is $200 less than that of a St. Louis fireman—this in the face of the fact that firemen can supplement their income with outside employment, whereas the police officer cannot," the report continued.

Strongly advocating more home rule for the department, the jury declared: "We believe that absolute state control over police wages, working conditions

42 Proof Fodder Puts Danish Pigs
In Gay Mood—And No Hangovers

KORINTH, Denmark, Dec. 2 (UP)—Thomas Rosenstand, director of an agricultural experimental school here, pointed enthusiastically today to a colossal bunch of drunken pigs lapping up 42-proof fodder and said they never got hangovers.

"When they've had enough," he said, "they usually stagger into a corner of the pigsty and sleep it off."

A heavy aroma filled the air. It came from a special mash of fermented sugar beet and barley grist which is being fed to the pigs.

Scientists figure a pig's daily ration in the experiment is equal to eight shots of aquavit, the fiery white Danish brandy.

"We have been trying to turn part of Denmark's surplus sugar beets into a useful pig fodder as a substitute for costly grain," Rosenstand explained.

"As a result, we are now able to produce bacon based on this fodder which is as fine as bacon derived from grain-fed pigs. Since the pigs evidently like it, everybody is happy."

Not everybody. H. Kirstein, chairman of the Union for the Protection of Animals, said in Copenhagen he was studying reports of the pig paradise and that it sounded "deplorable."

"Of course," Kirstein said, "when the experts say so, we believe that the pigs do not suffer—maybe even feel at ease. But we disagree with such methods."

P. Haagen Petersen, who has been doing part of the research on the alcoholic pigs, said "blood samples from pigs that consumed a large quantity of the mash did not show any alcoholic content. They must be able to break down the alcohol at a very fast pace indeed."

CIO CONVENTION VOTES MERGER

Overrides Transport Union Protest Against Going 'Under Thumb' of AFL.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—The AFL and CIO merged today into a single federation of 16,000,000 members — largest organized labor force in the free world.

The CIO voted overwhelming approval in its final convention session.

The AFL approved the merger agreements yesterday.

The AFL was busy today concluding its two-day convention by approving a number of resolutions, chief of which was one ousting the Airline Pilots Association from membership.

The AFL had charged the pilots with "strike-breaking activities" in a walkout by the AFL engineers union against United Air Lines.

The convention voted to oust the 8800-member pilots union if it disputes with the Association of Flight Engineers was not settled by Dec. 12. The action was taken by voice vote without debate.

Joint Convention Monday.
The combined organization, to be known as the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations (AFL-CIO) will meet in convention Monday in New York.

The CIO stamp of indorsement came over heated objections from Michael J. Quill, president of the 90,000-member Transport Workers Union, composed largely of New York City bus and subway employees.

In a rollcall vote, Quill recorded his union as opposed to the merger.

The only other dissenting votes came from Dominic Meola, of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, and William F. Knowland of California, neither of whom has seen Mr. Eisenhower since his Sept. 24 heart attack.

Hagerty said the two Republican leaders might see the President tomorrow.

Legislative Program.
Mr. Eisenhower will turn tomorrow to discussions of the Administration's legislative program for the new session of Congress convening in January. He has separate conferences scheduled in the morning with House minority leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts and Senate minority leader William F. Knowland of California, neither of whom has seen Mr. Eisenhower since his Sept. 24 heart attack.

Hagerty said the two Republican leaders might see the President tomorrow.

$600,000 SAID
TO BE INVOLVED IN MOVE TO KILL
ONE TAX PROBE

Officials in Truman Administration Reported Involved in Washington, Detroit, Omaha Actions.

Cases involving alleged pay-offs to former Government officials of sums much larger than those listed in yesterday's indictment of Matthew J. Connelly and Theron Lamar Caudle will be the subject of a continuing investigation by federal grand juries of tax scandals in the Truman Administration, the Post-Dispatch was told today.

One matter which had been under investigation was reported to involve a total pay-off of $600,000 to drop prosecution of an income tax case.

Harry I. Schwimmer, a former Kansas City attorney, named in a perjury indictment returned here Nov. 18, was indicted jointly with Caudle and Connelly yesterday, on charges of conspiracy to defraud the Government.

Schwimmer represented Irving Sachs, St. Louis shoe broker, who finally pleaded guilty of income tax violation in 1951 and was fined $40,000, after a prolonged delay in prosecution.

Sachs was spared a prison sentence by District Judge Roy W. Harper because of ill health.

$31,000 Listed.
Yesterday's indictment listed $31,000 paid by Sachs to Schwimmer in the course of the case, which is alleged to have been delayed by Caudle and Connelly. Caudle was chief of the Justice Department division, and Connelly was former President Truman's appointments secretary.

The perjury indictment against Schwimmer charged that the attorney knew that $10,000 he received from his client was a fund to bribe public officials.

Sachs, his firm, Shu-Stiles, Inc., and Ellis N. Slack, former Assistant Attorney General in the tax division, were named co-conspirators in the alleged conspiracy to defraud the United States. Slack was relieved of duty as a trial attorney in the Justice Department on Wednesday, it was announced in Washington.

Federal grand juries have gone into the records of other income tax cases in which defendants pleaded guilty, here and at Washington, Detroit and Omaha. Sums much greater than the $128,721 in the Sachs case were charged with evading taxes involved in the other cases under investigation.

The conspiracy indictment charged that Connelly was paid $1650 at Washington by Schwimmer in January, 1952, and also received an oil royalty.

While there was no allegation that Caudle received cash, the indictment charged that he, "influenced by the hope of reward and personal gain would recommend (to Sachs) he decline."

The alleged conspiracy was in connection with the delays in the Sachs case.

Bond Set For All 3.
Bond for Schwimmer was fixed at $20,000, to cover both indictments against him. Bond for Caudle and Connelly was set at $5000 each. To account for the higher bond for Schwimmer, it was explained he now lives in Puerto Rico, and "many persons have strong motives against his appearance in court."

Caudle was permitted to depart with his wife for their home in Wadesboro, N.C., yesterday afternoon. A bench warrant will be sent to the United States marshal at Asheville, N.C., where bond will be posted.

A bench warrant also will be sent to the United States marshal at New York, where Connelly will be held.

Connelly told reporters at his New York office that the indictment was the work of "a little group of wilful men now in power in Washington."

"They have called Harry S. Truman a traitor and because of my association with him, they are calling me a crook," Connelly said.

"I defy that group of wilful men or anybody else to produce one shred of evidence that I have committed any offense against God, morals or ethics, or that I have violated any law of the United States."

Connelly added, "I am a Republican and I am proud of it. I know the integrity with which I performed my official duties."

SOVIET LEADERS SURE THEY WILL RULE THE WORLD, ADENAUER SAYS

In First Speech Since Illness, He Declares West Must Show Freedom Is Stronger Than Slavery.

BONN, Dec. 2 (AP)—Chancellor Adenauer declared today that Russian leaders "are convinced that the Soviet Union will one day rule the world."

"Against this view the West must make clear its conviction that freedom is stronger than slavery," the Chancellor told the Bundestag, lower house of parliament.

Deputies cheered and applauded when the 79-year-old leader rose to speak in the foreign affairs debate. It was his first speech since he became ill early in October.

At the conclusion of the debate, the deputies approved by a show of hands a resolution appealing to the Soviet Union "to fulfill the obligation accepted by the Soviet Union for the reunification of Germany by free elections in accordance with the national interests of the German people and the interest of European security."

It said reunification would provide the basis of lasting peace between the German and Soviet peoples.

Opposed by Socialists. The resolution called on Adenauer's government to continue all efforts to attain reunification in co-operation with the United States, British and French governments.

Only the Socialists opposed the resolution. Their reason was that it contained a blanket approval of Government policy. The Socialists argued that West German membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has been an obstacle to German unity.

In a firm, clear voice, Adenauer commented briefly on the demand by Socialist leader Erich Ollenhauer for direct German-Russian negotiations on German unification. The Chancellor declared:

"Our policy is not standing still. I recognize the danger that the population of Communist East Germany could become accustomed to the division of Germany. A further greater danger is that the world will become weary of the continuing negotiations over the German problem."

Answers Ollenhauer. The Chancellor rejected a statement by Ollenhauer that Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano should have conferred with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov in Geneva during the Big Four foreign ministers' meeting.

Adenauer said that "a meeting of von Brentano with Molotov would not have influenced the negotiations in Geneva. Whoever knows Molotov knows this."

Ollenhauer, leading off for the opposition, ruled out any deal between Bonn and Moscow that would bypass the Western powers—even though he urged German-Russian talks. He called on Adenauer's government to explore through diplomatic channels the possibility of a new Big Four conference.

Ollenhauer said the Bonn Government should fulfill its agreement to establish diplomatic relations with Russia "loyally and without unnecessary delays."

"It should not devalue the political importance of this step as there must be a certain amount of trust on each side," he declared. Von Brentano told the Bundestag yesterday that relations between Bonn and Moscow could never be normal so long as Russia blocked German reunification.

The socialist leader said that putting the unification issue "on ice would create serious dangers in the long run. . . . If our people come to feel that the democratic forces in West Germany and in the West are resigned to the partition of Germany, then a dangerous nationalism may arise."

"I do not rule out the possibility that the Russians are thinking of such a development in the future. It would not be the first time that the Soviet Union had allied itself with nationalist forces."

Ollenhauer said the Communists already are waging a vigorous campaign to infiltrate his Socialist party and West German labor unions.

By the United Press. Adenauer denied his government ever claimed that German entry into the Western alliance would force Russia to accept reunification and said, "that is a great misunderstanding of the policy of strength."

"But a policy of weakness towards the Soviet Union would be much worse than a policy of strength," he added. "I want to emphasize that when one speaks of a policy of strength it is not merely military strength that is meant. A policy of strength also means being able to stand up for one's own position very clearly and decisively toward one's opponents."

KEFAUVER'S COONSKIN CAP MAY 'RUN' IF HE DOES

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 2 (AP)—Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem.), Tennessee, said yesterday if he becomes a presidential candidate again next year he will probably bring out the coonskin cap which he made famous in his 1952 campaign.

"Davy Crockett makes a pretty good running mate," he told reporters who brought up the subject.

The merger and 120,002 against. The vote of the Wilkes-Barre and Springfield delegates was announced as representing their entire councils, not the two delegates individually.

Quill argued that the merger would place the CIO under an AFL thumb. He charged also that the proposed constitution of the combined organization lacked sufficient safeguards against racial discrimination, racketeering and inter-union raiding.

Others Oppose His Stand. An array of other CIO leaders took issue with Quill's stand. They included Walter P. Reuther, CIO president; David J. McDonald, head of the Steel Workers; and Joseph A. Beirne, president of the Communications Workers.

They said that, even if there were disagreement over actual wording of the Constitution, the new organization could be depended upon to implement the words with spirit.

Then Gustav Faber, secretary-treasurer of the TWU, took the rostrum and opposed the arguments of Quill, his chief.

REUTHER SAYS AIM IS HUMAN DIGNITY

By SPENCER R. McCULLOCH A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 — Contrasting scenes were presented today at conventions of the AFL and CIO preparatory to merger. Delegates to the CIO meeting were seeing the demise of their organization after 20 years. AFL leaders were preparing to receive the CIO unions into an organization which will be basically controlled by the AFL because of preponderance of membership.

Men who grew up with the CIO sat glumly through proceedings as a cadre of relatively youthful enthusiasts joined with Walter P. Reuther, CIO president, in avowed expectation that the CIO would fulfill its destiny within the new group. Primary goal of the CIO, Reuther said yesterday, is to continue to afford "human dignity" to the wage earner, giving him a voice in his personal destiny as well as to press for broad social and economic objectives.

AFL Ratifies Merger. Three blocks away AFL delegates went through necessary procedure in relatively perfunctory manner. George Meany, AFL president who will head the new body, said that the split within labor's ranks should have been resolved within the AFL framework.

Pointing out that there are no free trade unions in dictatorial countries, Meany said that the merged federation may constitute "a built-in guarantee that there is going to be no dictator in America" and that this nation would continue to fight for human freedom.

Reuther spoke out against racketeering in the labor movement and told the CIO delegates not to "hang creeps" but to "shine up your ideals" and go forward in the united labor movement.

A New Philosophy. "In this struggle for 20 years we have developed a new philosophy for the American labor movement," he said, "for we rejected from the beginning the pure and simple trade union philosophy that would cast labor in a narrow economic pressure group. We rejected the doctrine of Marxist class struggle. We developed a new labor movement, a new philosophy that came out of the richness and great opportunities of America."

"If the new labor movement is just a big and more powerful pressure group, it will fail, because the problems that need solution will not be solved by casting a more powerful competing pressure group in America."

Reuther said that in going into the merger the CIO had not traded principles for political expediency but had reaffirmed them by writing them in the proposed new constitution. Such precepts recognize industrial unionism, bar racial discrimination and provide for action against crooks and Communism.

He said fighting against Communism and corruption involves the moral and social responsibilities of the merged labor movement.

Leadership an Obligation. "All I know is that the CIO has worked on the simple philosophy that when you take your position in the leadership of the American labor movement, you are assuming a sacred obligation," Reuther said. "No one has a right to be in the leadership if they are either a Communist or a crook. That is the spirit we are going to take into the new labor movement."

Reuther, retiring head of an organization which has not been plagued by labor racketeers to the extent experienced by some segments of the AFL, acknowledged that eradication of corruption was not an easy task and asserted that "corruption and corrupting influences are at work continuously."

PRESIDENT BUOYS G.O.P., PRECINCT DRIVES PLANNED

Promise to 'Do Everything in My Power' Leads Some to Think He Will Run.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (AP)—Republican leaders are mapping a vigorous 1956 campaign for every precinct in the nation, buoyed by President Eisenhower's promise to do "everything in my power" to help.

Some leaders think the President's assurances mean he will decide to head the ticket again in a bid for a second term. Others believe he is determined to take as active a part as possible, depending on the state of his health at the time.

New speculation arose over the President's 1956 role yesterday when he sent a message to a Chicago meeting of the Republican National Committee, saying:

"You have a splendid record to submit to the voters in 1956. I personally am proud of Republican achievements for the peace and the prosperity and the security of the American people. I shall do everything in my power next year to help you report the record accurately and fully to the country."

Applause and Cheers. Members jumped to their feet with applause and cheers when Chairman Leonard W. Hall read the message. He told the committeemen that the President "says he will lead."

The chairman said later there is not "the slightest doubt in my mind" but that the President intends to take the most active part he can in the Republican campaign to retain possession of the White House and regain control of Congress.

Commenting on the message, Morton H. Hollingsworth, Illinois state chairman, and Harry Darby, committeeman from Kansas, said they think the President will campaign for reelection.

Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland said he believed the President would do all he can to "report" and "continue" the record of his administration.

"I believe that if he is convinced he is the man to continue that record, he will be the candidate," McKeldin said.

Precinct Crusade Pledged. The committee wound up a two-day Chicago meeting with a pledge to wage a "precinct crusade for victory in 1956."

Hall said every precinct in the nation will be manned by G.O.P. workers.

The convention will have 1323 delegates compared with 1206 in 1952—an increase of 117. With the same number of alternates, the total will be 2646.

Of the 117 net gain, 13 southern and border states picked up a total of 96 delegates.

Texas, which went for President Eisenhower in 1952, had its delegation increased from 38 to 54. It now is topped in delegate strength only by California, Illinois, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Missouri with 15 other states, Alaska and Hawaii get bigger delegations under the apportionment. Missouri's delegates were increased from 26 to 32.

CONANT ASSERTS ALLIES INTEND TO REMAIN IN BERLIN

Envoy Insists on Freedom of Movement in All Four Sectors of City.

BERLIN, Dec. 2 (AP)—United States Ambassador James B. Conant declared today the Western Allies intend to remain in Berlin until Germany is reunified.

The Ambassador repeated the Western pledge as an answer to the new Soviet move which appears designed to end occupation status for East Berlin and include that quarter of the city inside the Communist East German republic.

Conant told a news conference that the incident created by detention of four Americans in East Berlin on Sunday was serious. He came here especially today to illustrate how serious the United States Government views it.

He said the West would continue to insist on the free circulation of not only Allied personnel in the four sectors of Berlin, but also of the German population.

As if to emphasize this stand the ambassador visited East Berlin this afternoon. He was not detained or disturbed.

Asked if he expected the next Russian move to include some kind of a blockade, Conant replied: "I certainly don't expect it."

Asked what he thought of Soviet Maj. Gen. P. A. Dibrova's offer to act as "mediator" between the United States and the East German Communist government, Conant asserted that the Western powers do not recognize that government and cannot agree with the Soviet position.

The East German Communists earlier today declared the four-power occupation status of Berlin now is "non-existent."

The declaration was made by Neues Deutschland, official newspaper of the East German Communist party, in response to a protest yesterday by the Western Big Three to Russia that Soviet contentions that East Berlin is sovereign and part of East Germany are "wholly inconsistent" with Berlin's four-power status.

The Western powers' protests were sent to G. M. Pushkin, Soviet ambassador to East Germany.

Conant, in his protest to Pushkin, said his Government must continue to hold Soviet authorities responsible for the welfare and proper treatment of all United States citizens during their presence in those areas, including the Soviet sector of Berlin, which are subject to Soviet authorities and control.

Noting the reaction from the West, Neues Deutschland said: "The gentlemen should not make themselves laughable. The (East) German democratic republic is sovereign and the occupying statutes exist only in West Germany and West Berlin where they still are imposed upon people with the pressure of bayonets."

The United States position on Berlin, shared with Britain and France, is that Russia still bears responsibility under the 1945 Big Four agreement for administering conquered Germany.

Chiang Delegate Will Oppose Admitting 5 Red Lands to U.N.

But He Doesn't Say Whether He Will Use Veto — Calls Outer Mongolia a Soviet Colony.

By ALVIN H. GOLDSTEIN A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

United Nations, N. Y., Dec. 2 —Nationalist China today declared it would oppose the admission of Outer Mongolia and four other Communist candidates for membership in the United Nations but did not say the veto would be used to keep any of them out if they attained the necessary votes for entry in the world organization.

Tingfu F. Tsiang told the special Political Committee that the Chiang Kai-shek government considered the "package" membership deal "blackmail" by the Soviet Union to obtain membership for Communist-dominated countries in return for the admittance of 13 non-Communist countries.

Russia has cast 25 vetoes against applicant states in the history of the U.N., Tsiang recalled. The U.N. Security Council now is asked in a joint resolution before the political committee, "to pay blackmail demanded by the Soviet Union," Tsiang said.

A 'Soviet Colony.' Tsiang said the package deal was a tactic of expediency in violation of the U.N. Charter provisions for admitting new members, the Chinese spokesman declared that "Outer Mongolia exists as an independent country only in Soviet propaganda."

He said that the people of the so-called Mongolian Peoples' Republic had no freedom and were to be compared with other Russian satellites.

"The independence of Outer Mongolia was created by the Soviet Union's policy of Soviet colonization," Tsiang said heatedly. "There was no independence in Outer Mongolia before Soviet subversion and aggression began. It was part of my country. Since it became 'independent,' Outer Mongolia is Soviet colony, exploited for Soviet purposes."

As to Albania, Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania, the other Red-ruled applicants sponsored by Russia, Tsiang recalled that four of the major powers on the Security Council previously had opposed their acceptance.

The grounds for opposing them have not changed, he said. They still fall short of charter specifications that only peace-loving, sovereign states, obedient of human rights are eligible, he declared.

'Halo of Approval.' "My delegation is not prepared to share in the responsibility for admitting these (Communist) states to the U.N. and thereby casting a halo of approval of them," he said.

He said his country had not been consulted on the package deal, a proposal by Canada and 27 other nations that the five Communist and 13 non-Communist countries be admitted to the U.N. in a group.

However, he made no reference to his previous declaration that he would use the veto "if necessary" to keep Outer Mongolia out of the U.N.

To attain U.N. membership, candidates must receive seven favorable votes in the 11-nation Council. Any negative vote by one of the five permanent members — Nationalist China, Russia, the United States, Britain and France—is a veto. Ratification by two-thirds majority of the 60-nation General Assembly also is required.

'Diplomacy by Accusation.' Anthony Nutting, of Britain, rebuked Vasily Y. Kuznetsov, Soviet first deputy foreign minister, for having revived the Russian cold war policy of "diplomacy by accusation" in his address on the arms reduction problem.

Nutting said Kuznetsov had contributed nothing to the already prolonged disarmament negotiation. His "polemics" were "sad reminders" of the debates of the cold war, Nutting said.

He complained that Russia had advanced by the west designed to end the impasse reached in the disarmament debate.

"It has been said, I know, that the consequences of modern war are so unthinkable that we need not worry if we fail to reach agreement on disarmament," he said. "Despite the accusations of Mr. Kuznetsov, I believe that to be so and I include the Soviet Union in this description. But that is not the point."

"The point is what guarantee have we that power of today will be the sole possessors of this ghastly secret in five, 10 or 20 years?"

A formal resolution, co-sponsored by the United States, Britain, France and Canada, was submitted by Nutting calling for prompt return to the debate in both the Disarmament Commission and its subcommittee, with priority in the discussion for consideration of the Eisenhower, Faure and Eden arms control suggestions, as well as Soviet Premier Bulganin's control points proposed.

Priority also is requested for "early agreement on such measures of an adequately safeguarded disarmament plan as are now feasible."

TOLL ROAD BOND ISSUE IN ILLINOIS IS HELD LEGAL

State Supreme Court Clears Way for $415,000,000 Financing by Dec. 20.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 2 (AP)—The Illinois Supreme Court today upheld legality of the Illinois Toll Road Commission's $415,000,000 bond issue for financing 193 miles of turnpikes.

The ruling paved the way for the commission to sign and deliver the bonds by Dec. 20 to the investment banking syndicate which purchased them. When the bonds are delivered, the commission then will receive the money.

In its decision, written by Justice Charles H. Davis of Rockford, the court held that the commission acted legally in authorizing a single bond issue for the three proposed toll routes in northern Illinois.

Orville Taylor, commission secretary, had refused to sign the bonds until a suit by Edward R. Humrich of Wadsworth was settled. Humrich had contended that the 1953 toll road law required the commission to issue bonds separately for each of the three routes.

The court ordered issuance of a writ compelling Taylor to sign the bonds.

Roads Planned. The toll roads to be constructed are the Northern Illinois route, from Chicago to Rockford on to the Wisconsin line; the Tri-State, from the Indiana line skirting Chicago on the west and then to the Wisconsin border, and the East-West, from Chicago to Aurora.

Humrich, in his appeal, argued that each toll highway should be financed separately so that it would become part of the free highway system in Illinois as soon as the bonds and interest were paid off.

The Supreme Court, however, said an examination of the entire toll road statute made it clear that Humrich's contention "does not reflect the intention of the General Assembly."

"Certainly it was intended that a single toll highway might consist of more than one route," the court said.

Weather—Safe-Driving Day Marred.

Snow, sleet and freezing rain that began glazing streets and sidewalks in the St. Louis area shortly after noon yesterday caused at least 163 automobile accidents, one fatal, slowed traffic and caused more than 60 persons to be sent to hospitals with injuries from falls.

The bad weather, general over the state, was a primary factor in the deaths of three other persons outside the metropolitan area, thus marring Safe-Driving day. President Eisenhower had proclaimed Safe-Driving day with a request that all citizens make an effort to avoid traffic accidents.

Miss Charlotte Neal, 3802 Castleman avenue, a secretary, was fatally injured when she was struck by a taxicab in the 2600 block of Shaw boulevard. She died three hours later at City Hospital of head injuries and a fracture of the left leg.

Driver's Explanation.
Clair Herche, 6104A Delmar boulevard, driver of the west-bound Black & White cab, said Miss Neal was walking in the street, apparently to avoid the slippery sidewalk. He said poor visibility kept him from seeing her until too late to swerve around her. She was 64 years old.

S. R. Aune, 18 South Tealwood avenue, Cave Coeur, was killed when the automobile in which he was riding skidded into a Trailways bus on snow-covered United States Highway 61 about seven miles north of Hannibal, Mo. Driver of the machine, T. B. Conlon, Overland Park, Kan., also was killed and four bus passengers required hospital treatment.

Aune, 51, an official of the American Excelsior Corp., was returning home from a business trip.

The other Missouri fatality occurred near Hartsville in the south-central part of the state when a pick-up truck skidded down an embankment. The driver was killed.

City, County Accidents.
In the 24-hour period yesterday, St. Louis police received 124 traffic accident calls and 29 were reported in St. Louis county.

In 12 of the city accidents, 18 persons suffered injuries. One of the most serious occurred when an automobile driven by Emil Mathis, 3943 Michigan avenue, skidded across the divider in the Chippewa street underpass beneath the Missouri Pacific tracks and collided with two other machines.

Mathis, his wife and a passenger, Mrs. Bertha Hildebrand, 2629 Michigan avenue, were taken to Lutheran Hospital.

None of the 11 injured in the county was hurt seriously. Three 16-year-old girl students at University City High School suffered minor injuries when their driver-educating car operated by a fourth girl was struck from the rear as it was making a left turn at Midland boulevard and Wilson avenue in University City.

3-Car Crash on Br'de.
A three-car pile-up on the east approach of Veterans Memorial Bridge resulted in injuries to Robert Presson, 3934 North Twenty-first street, and his wife. They were taken to St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis.

Most injuries from falls were suffered between 4 and 5 p.m., police reported. Of about 50 persons treated at City Hospital, nine suffered fractures. At one time, attendants reported, at UNITED STATES DISTRICT JUDGE GEORGE H. MOORE, the driving force behind the investigation of tax scandals in the Truman Administration.

MR. and MRS. THERON LAMAR CAUDLE, photographed yesterday at Federal Building.

CHARGED WITH MURDER IN KILLING OF MRS. HOLZER

Henry Moore Jr., 32-year-old laborer, was charged with first degree murder in the killing of Mrs. Rita Holzer last July 18 in an indictment returned yesterday by a Circuit Court grand jury.

Police said Moore, a Negro, signed a statement admitting he fatally stabbed Mrs. Holzer, 26, when she surprised him robbing her apartment after she got up to feed her 6-month-old son. Moore told police he drew a pocket knife when she attempted to prevent him from leaving. Mrs. Holzer lived at 311 North Whittier street.

Willie Murray, 61, also was indicted by the grand jury on a charge of assault with intent to kill Roscoe Tatum, 3510 Enright avenue, last Nov. 19. The indictment alleges that Murray shot Tatum during an argument. Both men are Negroes. Murray lives at 2730 Lucas avenue.

UNDERGROUND GAS STORAGE DAMAGES SET AT $71,174

Damages to 60 tracts of land in a St. Louis county area where Laclede Gas Co. plans to store gas underground were set at $71,174 in a report by three court-appointed commissioners at Clayton today.

The amounts ranged from $1 to $12,965. Circuit Judge Fred J. Mueller appointed the commissioners to assess the contemplated damages after ruling in favor of the company in its suit to condemn the underground rights.

The area consists of 6,000 acres owned by 200 persons. The company previously reached agreement with many of the property owners in the area on what should be paid.

YOUTHFUL REPEATER GETS 10 DAYS ON SPEEDING COUNT

Eddie Rodgers, 19 years old, was sentenced to 10 days in City Workhouse and fined $50 today by Police Judge Robert G. Dowd for speeding.

Rodgers, a Negro living at 3311 Pine street, was arrested Oct. 31 for speeding 70 miles an hour on the Express Highway. He pleaded guilty today.

Last May he was fined $20 for speeding. A fine of $75 on another speeding charge was stayed in July on the condition he attend the traffic school, which he did. Judge Dowd said the defendant indicated today he would like to return to school. He got the workhouse instead.

Least 20 patients were waiting at the X-ray room. Ten others were treated at Homer G. Phillips Hospital and six at St. Louis County Hospital for falls.

The death of Frank A. Reiser, 3503A Vista avenue, whose body was found yesterday afternoon on a concrete walk in the rear of his home, may have resulted from a fall on the ice, police said.

A relative who discovered the body of the 81-year-old man, said Reiser had left the house only a few minutes earlier to visit a neighborhood store. There was a bruise over the left eye. An autopsy was ordered.

Public Service Co. reported a general slowdown on all its lines in the afternoon rush hour as a result of slow moving traffic and the accident hazard to pedestrians. The company's fleet of salt and cinder spreaders was called out shortly after the snow began.

Union Electric Co. said it experienced a slight increase in trouble calls but the ice did not become heavy enough to break many lines.

Roads cleared somewhat throughout Missouri today but the St. Louis Highway Department warned that numerous icy sections remained, particularly in the northern and western portions.

A district office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. at 2200 Brentwood boulevard, Brentwood, was held up today by two armed men who fled with $2050, employees reported to police.

The robbers entered the office with drawn pistols shortly after 2 p. m. and ordered 12 employees against a wall. Then one of them took the money from an open safe behind the counter.

Police said witnesses told them the men ran outside and got into a late model automobile. They were last seen driving north in Brentwood.

SENATOR DOUBTS PRESIDENT SHOULD TAKE GIFT TRACTOR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—Senator Neely (Dem.), West Virginia, raised a question yesterday about the ethics of President Eisenhower's acceptance of a $4000 tractor for his Gettysburg farm.

Neely said during a Civil Service subcommittee meeting, that he recalled testimony in a previous Senate hearing that nobody in public life ought to receive a gift worth more than the price of a ham.

Neely said he was just bringing this up because he wanted "to protect the reputation of the Republican party and the only man they think has the shadow of a chance" of being elected President next year.

BRITISH PEER WOULD SCRAP FARTHING TO AID FOREIGNERS

LONDON, Dec. 2 (UP)—A Conservative peer wants to scrap Britain's currency easier for foreigners by scrapping the tiny farthing, but isn't having much success.

Lord Blackford claims a farthing costs more than a farthing to make, is worth only a quarter of a cent and doesn't buy anything. Government spokesmen contend milk and grocery trades need farthings because the prices of many goods include the coin.

BIG-STORE SALES IN DOLLARS RISE 9 PCT. FOR WEEK

St. Louis area department store sales rose 9 per cent in dollar volume last week compared with the corresponding week a year ago, the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reported today.

TRANSIT FARE RISE DELAYED FOR 120 DAYS

State Public Service Commission Wants
Time for Investigation and Hearings.

By BOYD F. CARROLL Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 2.—The Missouri Public Service Commission today suspended for 120 days a proposed $955,000-a-year fare increase filed by the St. Louis Public Service Co., which would have gone into effect Jan. 1.

The commission suspended the St. Louis transit company's new tariff proposal, calling for higher streetcar and bus fares, to investigate and hold hearings on the need for the increased rates. The first hearing will be held here Dec. 16.

The company filed the new fare schedule with the commission last Tuesday, contending that additional revenues are needed to offset the $1,000,000 annual wage rises, beginning next year, resulting from the new union contract agreed to last week.

Cities Can Intervene.
Chairman Tyre W. Burton of the Public Service Commission announced that all interested parties, including the city of St. Louis, St. Louis county and county municipalities, will be permitted to intervene in the proceeding if they wish.

It was indicated that the commission would attempt to dispose of the investigation and hearings as quickly as possible. The commission, under law, can order a further suspension of the new fare proposal for an additional six months, if the hearings are not completed within the initial 120-day period.

Under the proposed tariff, the present basic cash fare of 20 cents would be unchanged. There would be increases of 25 cents in the 75-cent weekly permit and in the $1 weekly express permit. Permit holders would continue to pay 10 cents for each ride.

Weekly Student Pass.
The weekly student pass would be raised from $1 to $1.25 and any rides after regular school hours or on non-school days would cost 15 cents instead of the present charge of 10 cents.

The company filed a tariff instead of making the usual application for a fare increase, which would have permitted the new rates to go into effect after 30 days unless suspended by the commission. The company had asked the commission for authority to put the new fares into effect before the expiration of the 30-day period.

Schleifer then resold the property to a syndicate headed by Daniel S. Levy of New York who leased it back to Schleifer for a long term of years.

Joseph Hilver, a New York real estate broker who handled the original sale, said the consideration paid by Levy was "close to" $5,500,000. The deal was financed through a $2,100,000 mortgage by the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Hartford, Conn.

Principal owner was Morton D. May, president of May Department Stores Co. The others were Leo J. Wiecek, vice president and treasurer of the May company, Norman Probst and Nat Koplar.

The Congress and Senate are 16 stories high and the Congress-West is five. The larger buildings were built in 1926. A two-level garage under them is accessible through the smaller unit.

Schleifer said the hotel and the two apartment buildings would be operated under the management of Joseph Wolf of New York City, who was associated with him in the original purchase.

Under the proposed tariff, the present basic cash fare of 20 cents would be unchanged. There would be increases of 25 cents in the 75-cent weekly permit and in the $1 weekly express permit. Permit holders would continue to pay 10 cents for each ride.

The company filed a tariff instead of making the usual application for a fare increase, which would have permitted the new rates to go into effect after 30 days unless suspended by the commission. The company had asked the commission for authority to put the new fares into effect before the expiration of the 30-day period.

ANOTHER BILL FROM GREENLEASE RANSOM FOUND

A $20 Greenlease ransom bill was found yesterday in the Federal Reserve Bank in Chicago, J. Earl Milnes, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation office here, announced.

The bill was the eighty-third ransom note to be found since the search for the missing money began in late 1953.

For about two months starting last Aug. 3, when the first bill was discovered, the $20 notes appeared in considerable number, but only two have shown up since Oct. 5.

The missing ransom originally totaled $303,720. It was part of the $600,000 paid to Carl Austin Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, kidnaper-killers of Bobby Greenlease of Kansas City.

SHOT 5 TIMES BY RAILWAY OFFICER, AWARDED $10,000

A jury in the court of Circuit Judge O. P. Owen awarded $10,000 damages yesterday to Quincy C. Davis, 1809 North Grand boulevard, for injuries suffered when he was shot five by a special agent for the Terminal Railroad Nov. 13, 1954.

The shooting occurred at night at the Fitzsimmons Coal Co., 416 South Compton avenue, property owned by the railroad. Judgment was against the railroad. Terminal Special Agent George Schlueter, who shot Davis, was not named as a defendant.

Schlueter testified he found Davis, a Negro, and three other Negroes in the basement of the office at the coal company. Schlueter said he ordered the men out of the basement and in self defense when Davis threatened him with a pistol. Davis alleged he and the other men left in an orderly manner when ordered out. He said he was a patient at Homer G. Phillips Hospital for six weeks. Davis was a yard foreman for Fitzsimmons Coal Co.

Fein, a convicted black market liquor dealer, told authorities that Clark introduced him to a Frederick P. Flower, posing as a Houston (Tex.) oil man, gave him the worthless securities as collateral for a $120,000 personal loan.

Fein, using the worthless "debentures," as collateral, borrowed $221,000 from Mutual Bank & Trust Co., $85,000 from Delmar Bank of University City; $200,000 from the United Bank & Trust Co., and $70,000 from the Southern Commercial and Savings Bank.

Fein paid the $221,000 and $85,000 loans when they were called by the Mutual Bank & Trust Co. and the Delmar Bank of University City.

He was charged in indictments with obtaining money under false pretenses in connection with the $200,000 loan from United Bank & Trust Co. and the $70,000 loan from the Southern Commercial and Savings Bank.

However, the indictments were not preceded by the circuit attorney's office last week, at which time it was announced that the remaining two loans had been paid.

St. Louis police received a report that Flower, named by Fein as the man who gave him the worthless securities, had died in Mexico.

be premature to bring the freeholders bill to the floor for a vote before the legislation committee presents a report on its long study.

In demanding action on the freeholders bill, Stolar hinted that an effort might be made to force the bill out of the legislation committee. "I hope it will not be necessary to invoke Rule 7 to take the matter away from the committee," he declared.

Committee Statement.
His comments were voiced after the legislation committee had presented a statement defending its position. This statement, made a part of the record by voice vote, denied that there was any move in the board to block modernization of the charter.

"The Missouri Constitution bestows on the Board of Aldermen the authority to propose charter amendments and we are very properly exercising that authority," Niemeyer declared.

Alderman William K. Gardner, Democrat, Twenty-fifth ward, seconded Stolar's stand.

It has been charged that some politicians oppose the movement for a new charter because they are afraid the governmental set up will be streamlined to eliminate patronage offices.

Olive Street Parking Bill.
A bill to prohibit parking between 7 a.m. and 1 p.m. on the north side of Olive street, between Ninth street and Twelfth boulevard, was introduced by Alderman Archie Blaine, Sixth Ward Democrat, with approval of the Parking Meter Commission and Traffic Commissioner Charles G. Gontier.

One-hour parking with meters now is permitted on that section of Olive between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. If Blaine's bill is passed, no parking will be permitted on this section between 7 a.m. and 1 p.m., meter parking will be allowed from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., and no parking will be allowed in the 4-6 p.m. rush period.

At present, because of the Christmas shopping season, no parking is permitted on Olive street between Fourth street and Twelfth.

Also introduced were bills to appropriate $500,000 in water division funds to complete improvements at the Chain of Rocks station, and $185,000 for rehabilitation of Benton and Hyde Parks and improvements in their recreational facilities.

A bill introduced by Alderman DeWitte T. Lawson, Nineteenth Ward Democrat, would authorize the transfer of women prisoners from the Workhouse to the City Jail, and commitment of women to the jail in the future.

In cases other than those in police court, the approval of the judge concerned would be required.

and pensions is fundamentally wrong.

"We believe that the state Legislature should limit its control to setting minimum standards and that local authorities should, by city ordinance, be permitted to raise wages above these minimum standards.

"We believe that the day-to-day administration of the department should not be hogged by statute. Matters are all the worse when it is realized that our state Legislature only meets each two years."

The jury noted that, under state law, the four police commissioners have practically unlimited powers of appointment, promotion, demotion and transfer of police officers, and serve both as a policy making and administrative group.

"We cannot help but wonder at the reaction of professional police officers to this concentration of power in the hands of even the four most talented, most conscientious citizens, such as our present commissioners," the report said.

Urges Limiting Power.
"We suggest that the exercise of this power be limited to that which able, conscientious citizens could reasonably be expected to perform without a background of knowledge of professional police work."

The jury said it was a "distinct source of discontent" in the present police pension plan, saying it is outmoded and compares unfavorably with similar plans in other cities.

In its report, the jury recommended strengthening of the office of police inspector, stating that "we see the danger of further scandal" if personnel are not allowed to "fearlessly police themselves."

The inspector of police should be "an internal auditor, the morale officer and special trainer" for the department, the grand jurors suggested.

The police pay-off inquiry has "seriously undermined the citizens' confidence in law enforcement and has damnably hurt the morale of police officers," the jury stated.

However, it was asserted that no evidence was received indicating the presence of organized crime or prostitution in St. Louis.

Comment on Circuit Attorney.
Concerning the criticism of Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd's office in holding some prisoners in city jail and the police holdover for long periods of time, the jury said, it felt that St. Louis wanted a circuit attorney who will examine each case, whether discharged at a preliminary hearing or not, and "bring new prosecution where he feels in good conscience the facts justify such action."

The jury visited the city jail and talked to as many inmates as would speak to the jurors, the report said. They found several who complained that their attorneys apparently had forgotten they were in jail.

"One inmate said he had not been visited by his lawyer in over six months," the report said.

"We believe that if these statements are true, a grave injustice is being done. We recommend that some direct channel of communication to the inmates of the city jail be made available through which they can get their questions answered. We believe the appropriate channel should be defined either by the courts or the Bar Association," the report said.

"We inspected the court docket for each week during our term. We were shocked to note the number of cases where the prosecution and defense were both ready for trial, but courtroom facilities of judges were not available and the case had to be postponed for want of time."

Record of Postponements.

The jury found that during the week of Sept. 26 there were 85 cases which were so postponed and 27 other cases disposed of in the trial division of the court. During the week of Oct. 17, there were 77 cases postponed for want of a courtroom or judge and 34 cases disposed of at trials.

"Only when the citizens of St. Louis are sufficiently aroused," the report said, "will this problem be solved. Many defendants are being denied their constitutional rights to a speedy trial by this limitation of courtrooms and judges."

The jury said it accepted "full responsibility for placing high priority on completing the investigation into the conduct of certain police officers at the cost of possible postponement of the jury's regular work."

Cities Report by Bar.
"We feared for awhile that our zeal to complete this special investigation had unwittingly caused the violation of the civil rights of certain individuals," the report said. "However, we have been reassured by the report of the Criminal Justice Committee of the Bar Association which has sustained the right of the circuit attorney to bring a second information or an indictment against a person discharged by a magistrate at a preliminary hearing."

The bar committee's report, released Nov. 19, made that point, but also was critical of the circuit attorney's office for the handling of some cases in which prisoners were held in jail for "inordinate" periods of time without getting preliminary hearings.

A new rule, suggested by the committee and put into effect at that time by Circuit Attorney Dowd and judges of the Court of Criminal Correction, provides for a preliminary hearing on a felony charge as soon as possible and in any event in not more than 10 days after the charge has been filed against the suspect.

Complaints of Work Load.
There was too much work for the jury to perform "conscientiously and satisfactorily," the report said. It recommended that state statutes be changed to create a special grand jury that might be impaneled and empowered to remain in session for as long as would be required to complete the handling of special investigations and hold special hearings.

St. Louis is deprived of the possible services of many desirable applicants for the police department because of an "archaic, obsolete and outmoded" city charter requirement that police officers be residents of the city for at least one year before appointment, the jury said.

It suggested the possibility of establishment of an "intelligence squad," resembling those in use in other police departments, as an aid to law enforcement here.

The question whether one-man police cars are of value is one that should be decided only by authorities in this field, the jury stated.

Jail Warden Praised.

The grand jury, whose foreman was John Casey, general training supervisor for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., praised Warden Peter Nicholas of the City Jail for putting into effect recommendations of previous grand juries.

The number of jail guards should be increased, since the practice of keeping one guard on each floor is "dangerously inadequate," the report said.

A traffic accident at Kingshighway and Manchester avenue, in which four city firemen were killed, was investigated by the grand jury and, as a result, two special instructors have been assigned to correct driving habits of fire equipment drivers through special training programs; traffic light synchronization has been improved; dangerous speeds by fire equipment has been discouraged and a plan has been started to classify fire department drivers as engineers.

The grand jury yesterday made a formal return of a bribery indictment against Detective Capt. William Greenspan in the pay-off inquiry.

Basis of New Charge.

In the latest indictment returned by the grand jury, Greenspan is charged with accepting a $20 bribe from Grace Cavitt to permit continuance of operations by a disorderly house. The date of the alleged offense was fixed as Oct. 21 to 27, 1954.

This indictment had previously been voted by the grand jury and announced by Dowd, but the name of the woman who allegedly paid the money to the police officer had not been disclosed.

In three other indictments, Greenspan is charged with accepting payments of $50, $25 and $25 from Mrs. Ethel Clift, operator of a disorderly house, in the last three months of 1954.

Other policemen under indictment in the pay-off inquiry are Police Lt. F. Lyman Davis and Cpl. George R. Wood.

This grand jury is the third to take up the extensive pay-off investigation, which began last June. Continuance of the inquiry by a new grand jury, to be impaneled next week, depends upon whether additional evidence is uncovered by investigators for the circuit attorney's office, it was said.

POST OFFICE OUSTS
JUDGE, NEEDS HIS ROOM FOR MAIL

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 2 (AP)—Santa Claus has shoved a United States district judge out of his courtroom in the post office building here.

Judge Frederick V. Folmer said that when the first of December rolled around the post office asked him to get out to make room for the flood of Christmas mail.

The Harrisburg courtroom is one of several used by United States court in Pennsylvania's middle district.

It was a sharply worded criticism of court facilities, composed by a grand jury, which prompted Judge Folmer to speak of his being dispossessed until after Christmas. He made it clear that he was all for the holiday spirit, and that he understood what the post office was up against, but thought it would be nice to have his courtroom all the year. As it is, he must call a December recess.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The United States Weather Bureau is going to see that former President Truman resumes his hobby of predicting the weather.

Recently Truman, replying to a letter, wrote that he was "still interested" in the weather; and I always will be, but when I left the White House the Weather Bureau ceased sending me maps.

Informed of this statement, Dr. Francis W. Reichelderfer, chief of the Weather Bureau, said: "I'll correct this right away. We'll start sending him the maps at once so he can keep up his hobby."

"There is no bitterness in our

The divorce was granted on grounds of incompatibility. Judge Agayo said he would mail Miss Darnell her final papers.

The couple was married in February, 1954, at Bernalillo, N.M.

AUTO MAY BE CLUE IN LEBANON MYSTERY Lights On in Missing Pair's Home When It Parked Sunday Night.

St. Clair county authorities today were seeking the owner of a two-tone blue automobile which was seen parked near the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold

A search for the missing pair was begun Tuesday following the discovery of five bullet holes and many blood stains in the house.

State highway police questioned a man yesterday, who said he saw the automobile pull off Emerald Mound Grange road Sunday and park in a drive near the Smith home about 8 p.m. Later, about 9:15 p.m., the machine was still parked there and lights were on in the Smith home, the informant told police. Authorities believe placing the automobile at the scene at 9:15 p.m. Sunday is significant because Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. Jacob Dressel, tried to telephone her daughter at 8:30 o'clock but got no answer.

Meanwhile, the investigation continued today with questioning of Smith's fellow workers in the hope of learning everything concerning his personal life.

Questioning of members of Mr. and Mrs. Smith's families yesterday revealed only that they are a model family, Chief Deputy Sheriff Clifford C. Flood said. "There is nothing in their background to indicate cause for their disappearance or any clue as to what has happened to them," Flood said.

State police broke the ice on frozen Silver creek yesterday, about five miles west of Lebanon, and dragged the stream in an effort to find bodies. The investigation so far has failed to reveal any clues that may be of help in locating the Smiths.

Smith, an expert cabinet maker, is 29 years old. His wife is 35. They have been married 10 years and have no children. Their home is a mile east of Lebanon, which is 22 miles east of St. Louis on U.S. Highway 50.

TRIAL SET FOR MAN JAILED 48 DAYS WITHOUT CHARGE

William Oliver Fleming, who was held in city jail 48 days before a formal charge was placed against him in circuit court, will be given a trial Monday on charges of passing bogus checks although he apparently is in no hurry to go to court, his attorney, Robert O'Hanlon, of the public defender bureau, said today.

Fleming, a switchman of Decatur, Ill., was ready for trial last Monday, but there was no courtroom available. On Wednesday when Circuit Judge

J. Casey Walsh called him to court, the circuit attorney's office and O'Hanlon said they were ready for trial, but Fleming said he was not. The Judge then set the case for next Monday.

A former convict, Fleming was held from Aug. 16 to Oct. 3 before the circuit attorney's office issued a new information against him in circuit court.

WHITE HOUSE MEETING BACKS FEDERAL AID

states to distressed school districts.

Carr approved the conference's stand on "elevating teachers' standards" and on refusal to "cut back to the three Rs."

"This conference," he said,
"demonstrates the steady civic demand that we go far beyond mere cheap literacy and have a broad comprehensive program in the schools."

Folsom Draws Applause.
Folsom drew applause when he said:

"If we are to meet our classroom needs soon enough, the Federal Government must help raise some of the funds for (school) buildings." He also was applauded when he told the delegates:

"I am confident in the weeks ahead this Administration will present to Congress a broadened and improved program of federal assistance to help erase the classroom deficit and dispel this shadow over our children." He gave no details.

It was Mrs. Pearl A. Wanamaker, Washington State Superintendent of Public Instruction, who announced that the delegates "approved by a ratio of more than 2 to 1 the proposition that the Federal Government should increase its financial participation in public education."

Of those supporting federal aid, she said, "the overwhelming majority" approved using federal funds for school building construction. But only about half, she said, supported federal help in school operation—paying teacher salaries, buying textbooks, etc.

"A very small minority," she said, "was opposed to federal aid for education in any form."

(According to the United Press, the report does not accurately reflect the view of the majority, the dissenters said, but is a misrepresentation drafted by professional educators who favor federal aid. The claim of the dissenters was that many of the delegates hedged their support of federal aid with several conditions which were glossed over in the final report.)

Folsom never went beyond the question of federal aid for school construction.

"We are moving much too slowly toward erasing the large backlog of classroom need," he stated.

Folsom said the Administration has these three "general principles" in mind in backing an aid program:

1. An aid program for school construction "should not reduce the incentive for state and local effort."

2. Federal money "should be distributed according to need."

3. The assistance should be given "without in any way endangering the freedom of local school systems."

The conference took no position on the question of aid to states which defy the Supreme Court's edict against racial segregation in public schools.

It noted only that one-tenth of the delegates favored giving no money to such states.

The conference opposed federal aid for construction of private and parochial schools. The delegates recognized that such institutions have financial problems, but recommended they be financed by "private and corporate gifts and grants and tuition fees."

President Eisenhower himself called the conference and Congress approved its being held.
The next step is for a 34-member White House Committee on Education to report to the President in January or February on what it thinks should be done. This committee will reach its own conclusions after studying its own research work, the reports of this conference and similar reports from all 48 states and five territories.

By the United Press.

Conference Chairman Neil H.
McElroy admitted there was a danger of over-generalization resulting from the round-table procedure. The conference committee, he said, will check on the reports of the original round-table discussions to see whether the final report accurately reflects the delegates' views.

But, added McElroy, "I don't think anything has been stacked anyway."

It was an ironic end to the conference for McElroy. He began the conference defending it against labor and some congressional charges it was stacked against Federal aid. He ended up defying the conference against Federal aid opponents.

National Council of Churches Opposes Aid to Church Schools.
OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 2 (AP)—
The general board of the National Council of Churches said yesterday tax funds should not be used for the support of church schools.

In a formal statement on public and religious education, the board said private schools ought to be entirely supported "by those who choose to maintain them."

The board made no reference to a statement on private schools and their right to tax funds, made recently by Catholic leaders.

But in their annual joint statement, 208 cardinals, archbishops and bishops of the Catholic Church said private and parochial schools have the right to benefit from those measures, grants or aid which are manifestly designed for the health, safety and welfare of American youth, irrespective of the school attended.

The general board of the National Council, which is made up of 30 Protestant and Orthodox denominations, said in its statement:

"Those who desire instead to maintain private schools in which general education and religious education are brought together in one institution are appropriately free to do so... the full support for such private schools should be provided by those who choose to maintain them."

"Asking for the support of church schools by tax funds on the ground that they contribute to the national welfare is not different in principle from asking for the support of churches by tax funds, for churches surely contribute to the national welfare."

"Such support would in both cases be contrary to the separation of church and state."

The National Council said it did not take the position that "the public schools are or need be Godless."

RED FUGITIVE SURRENDERS

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—
James E. Jackson Jr., 41, former southern regional director of the Communist party, surrendered today on a 1951 indictment charging him with conspiring to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the Government. Jackson had been a fugitive since the indictment was returned.

Arraigned before Federal Judge Edward Weinfeld, he was held in $20,000 bail for pleading to the charge Dec. 9.

Faure Dissolves Parliament, Starts Re-election Campaign

Denies Charge That Disbanding Assembly Is an Illegal Action—Elections May Fall on New Year's Day.

PARIS, Dec. 2 (UP)—Premier Faure dissolved the French National Assembly today and started at once his re-election campaign as critics accused him of a "coup de force."

The Assembly ceased to exist at 7 a.m. with publication of a decree in the Journal Officiel and France prepared for its first winter elections since February 1876.

Faure went before a press conference to outline his platform for the elections. The decree dissolving the Assembly may require the elections to be held on New Year's day.

Faure said he would reject the resignation of five radical Socialist members of the cabinet and stick to his job to "defend French interests" in the interim period before elections.

He fought back at his principal political opponent, Pierre Mendes-France, and said the constitution gave him full power to take any decision confronting the nation before the new chamber is elected.

Faure ridiculed opposition charges that dissolving Parliament was a "coup de force" (illegal action).

"I ask you how it can be called that because the dissolution was a strict application of the republican constitution," he said. He added bitterly that it was customary to have elections in a democracy.

Faure said the issue of the campaign will be whether to keep applying his economic policies which aim at doubling the French standard of living in 10 years and strengthening France's alliance with the West.

Mendes-France, though not mentioned by name in Faure's press conference, announced he would hold a press conference of his own next Tuesday on "the present political situation."

The Council of State, France's supreme constitutional court, called a session to try to find a loophole to prevent the elections falling on New Year's day.

The decree dissolving the Assembly, signed by President Rene Coty last night, became effective with its publication in the official bulletin.

Because the constitution requires the election be held on a Sunday within 20 to 30 days of the actual dissolution—Christmas or New Year's day in this case—Cabinet members had hoped to delay publication of the decree. However, legal experts decided this would violate the constitution.

Faure asked the Council of State to recommend a legal way in which the vote could be put over to Jan. 8.

The Premier, who was ordered expelled from the Radical Socialist party yesterday by his party's steering committee, neatly cut the ground from under his opponents who were planning to demand that the Assembly meet to consider a censure motion to force Faure to resign the premiership. Publication of the dissolution decree ended the Assembly's legal existence.

The Premier pledged himself to lead his government with "great reserve" in world affairs in the period before a new Assembly can take office.

Under the French constitution Faure would remain in office until the new Assembly meets the third Thursday after elections and chooses a new Premier.

The Radical Socialist party in Faure's home department (state), the Jura, assured him today of its "profound attachment" despite the expulsion action of the national party leaders.

RESERVE BANKS GIVE CHRISTMAS BUSINESS NUDGE

U.S. Securities to Pump New Money
Into the Economy.

By FRANK O'BRIEN
WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board has given business an encouraging "Christmas-as-usual" nudge offsetting somewhat the effects of its severely restrictive credit policy.

This was disclosed in the board's weekly statement of its monetary operations, which showed that reserve banks bought $368,000,000 worth of Government securities during the week which ended Wednesday.

This had the effect of pumping new money into the economy, helping member banks to meet the initial pinch on their funds of Christmas spending.

As a result, commercial banks ended the week owing the Reserve System $170,000,000 less than the week before, although average borrowings during the week were $159,000,000 higher. Apparently with more money available, they paid off some of their debts.

The reports gave no indication whether this easing would be continued as Christmas comes nearer.

More Credit Buying

Meanwhile, the Reserve Board announced that credit buying moved up again in October for the eighth consecutive month, although the October increase was the smallest in that period.

The October increase was $264,000,000, only about half the September increase of $544,000,000, which itself was the smallest of any month since March. Credit for autos went up by $382,000,000 in September—the smallest amount since January. In October, the auto debt increase was only $166,000,000, at a time of model changeovers and restricted credit policies.

From October 1954 through October 1955, total installment debt increased by just 5 billion dollars, and 3 1/2 billions of the increase was in credit for autos.

The Reserve system's apparent rush this week to rescue commercial banks from a new credit squeeze indicated that the Reserve Board doesn't want its restrictive policies to put a big crimp in Christmas buying.

Lendable Reserves Shrink

The board's weekly statement of the 12 Reserve Banks' condition and operations, for the week which ended Wednesday, Nov. 30, showed that over the preceding seven days the average amount of lendable bank reserves shrank by $173,000,000, from an average of $615,000,000 in the week ended Nov. 23, to an average of $442,000,000 in the week ended Nov. 30.

Details of the statement indicated that the shrinkage in average excess, lendable reserves over the week was caused by the onset of Christmas buying. A companion Reserve Board statement, on department sales, showed that dollar volume at department stores last week ran 10 per cent higher than in the corresponding week of 1954. Reserve bank purchases of government bonds apparently eased that situation.

CAPEHART URGES GIVING FOOD TO HUNGRY ABROAD

Proposes World 'Community Chest' Scheme, Crop Controls, 'Soil Bank' Plan.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)— Senator Capehart (Rep., Indiana, proposed today a farm program which would include production quotas on crops and the distribution of United States surplus foods "to hungry people throughout the world."

He called for creation of an international food community fund, patterned after this country's Community Chest idea, to help get surplus foods onto the tables of the needy both at home and abroad.

Capehart made public a telegram to Senator Ellender (Dem., Louisiana, and Representative Cooley (Dem., North Carolina, chairmen of the Senate and House Agriculture Committees, urging them to call their groups back to Washington by Dec. 12 to consider his program. Congress is to reconvene Jan. 3, and Capehart wired the chairmen "We cannot afford to waste coming four weeks."

8-Point Program.
Outlining to the chairmen what he termed the eight point
"Capehart farm program" he proposed:

1. "Eliminate the great agricultural surplus now deprecating food markets through furnishing food to hungry people throughout the world. This is to be done in a manner that furnishes food to people who otherwise could not purchase these commodities." He said the aim should be to do this without "displacing existing market demands for food commodities."

2. Establish an international food community fund to help distribute the food surplus.

3. Establish "rigid production controls to keep production within the reasonable limits of consumption" until surpluses are within bounds.

4. A 'Soil Bank' Plan.
Establish a "soil bank plan," presumably similar to one proposed by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson, who has used that term to describe his own program for joint production limits and soil conservation.

5. Recommend that President Eisenhower call a conference of food producers, processors, manufacturers and distributors
"to seek means for enabling the farmer to receive a larger portion of the amount the American consumer pays for food."

6. Set up a Government research laboratory to develop new industrial uses for farm products.

7. Promulgate a plan to advertise farm products, to be financed by producers' contributions based on some percentage of sales.

8. "Take out of production land owned by the Government both for the growing of grains and for grazing purposes." He did not elaborate on that point.

Baruch Offers Plan to Boost Farm Income.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 2 (AP)— Elder statesman Bernard Baruch yesterday released to the chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee a five-point plan to bolster sagging farm income.

Senator Ellender (Dem., Louisiana, the chairman, said Baruch's plan, includes:

1. Using some farm surpluses for relief abroad and the rest for a stockpile against emergencies in the United States.

2. Taking marginal lands out of production and planting trees there.

3. Keeping acreage restrictions.

4. Placing parity prices on a flexible basis.

5. Expanding markets.
Ellender said Baruch's plan follows closely the program of the American Farm Bureau.

dent together after their individual conferences. The talks with Martin and Knowland are preludes to the meetings Mr. Eisenhower will have Dec. 12 and 13 in Washington with G.O.P. congressional leaders and then leaders of both parties in Congress.

Increasing Work Schedule. The President's schedule for the past three weeks in Gettysburg has indicated he is gradually increasing his role in preparing the Administration program for the new session of Congress.

He has held several working conferences on his State of the Union message, first of the major policy papers to be presented in January. More recently, he has had sessions with Hughes on the budget message. Mr. Eisenhower looked serious and intent as he emerged from the two-hour National Security Council meeting yesterday afternoon.

No details of the meeting were announced, but the list of those attending indicated that foreign policy, national defense and fiscal matters were on the agenda.

Mr. Eisenhower returned to his Gettysburg farm immediately after the meeting. On the drive back he was accompanied by Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr.

The President will go to the mountain retreat 22 miles south of here again next week to preside at another meeting Thursday, then go back to Gettysburg and return to the camp the next morning for a Cabinet session.

This represents a change in plans. Originally, Mr. Eisenhower was to stay overnight at the camp. Announcing the change, Hagerly also said the NSC meeting would last all day, with two-hour sessions in the morning and afternoon, because of a heavy agenda.

The animal population at Mr. Eisenhower's farm continues to grow, the latest addition being a second pony for his three young grandchildren.

The pony was given by J. R. Lackey of Asheville, N. C., who presented it in person, accompanied by his young son, Tommy.

charged with murder and theft. She was charged with placing arsenic in a cup of water and causing the death of Miss Anetta Marx, a practical nurse, Oct. 20.

Mrs. Williams is a Negro. Both were employed by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Lewis, 9 Wydown terrace, Clayton.

Miss Marx was 69 years old. After having lunch with Mrs. Williams she was seized with severe abdominal pains and died in a hospital the following night, but the cause of her death was not discovered until Nov. 18 after a laboratory analysis.

In the theft indictments, Mrs. Williams was charged with stealing $900 from Mr. and Mrs. Lewis and $100 from Mrs. William Hazelgrove, their daughter.

S. KOREA READY TO FIGHT JAPAN OVER SEA VIOLATIONS

TOKYO, Dec. 2 (UP)—The Republic of Korea is ready to war on Japan to halt Japanese violations of the so-called Rhee "peace" line in the waters off South Korea, the Seoul radio said tonight in its first Japanese-language broadcast.

The broadcast beamed at Japan criticized orders by the Japanese maritime safety board to its coast guard vessels to continue to protect Japanese fishing boats in the area of the restricted waters set up by President Syngman Rhee.

It said the "shoot and sink" orders by the Republic of Korea joint chiefs of staff to South Korean patrol vessels last month was necessary to halt violations of the "peace" line and to keep smugglers and Communist spies from Korean waters.

AGED WOMAN AND SON FOUND BEATEN TO DEATH IN DETROIT

DETROIT, Dec. 2 (AP)—An elderly woman and her bachelor-son were found beaten to death yesterday in their home on Detroit's northwest side.

Police said Mrs. Ada K. Williams, 87 years old, and her son Alfred, 67, had been bludgeoned with a length of iron pipe found under the son's body.

At first police believed it was a murder-suicide because the son's body lay near a gun collection and his hands showed grains of powder from cartridges he had been loading.

However, evidence of the beatings was found after the bodies were moved. Mrs. Williams was in night dress and was found in her bedroom. Her son's body was in a basement storeroom.

Police found no evidence that the house had been ransacked.

ARAB SAYS ISRAELI SOURCES MISREPRESENT ARMS DEAL

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (AP)—The secretary-general of the League of Arab States declared today that Egypt's arms agreement with Czechoslovakia is "grossly misconstrued, misinterpreted and misrepresented in the United States by Israeli spokesmen and Zionist propagandists."

H. E. Abdulkhalik Hassouna, addressing the Institute on Middle Eastern States, said "it was Israel's aggression which made Egypt's need for arms vital and her requests urgent."

JAPAN ATTACKS
TESTS BY REDS

Foreign Minister Tells Parliament World
Tensions Are Mounting Again.

TOKYO, Dec. 2 (AP)—Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu today attacked the reported nuclear tests and "aggressive strategy" of Russia.

"There is little doubt that international tensions are once more mounting apace," he said in a report to the opening session of Parliament.

"In the face of Russia's aggressive strategy, coupled with reports of recent Russian test explosions of atom and hydrogen bombs, the free world has every reason to be ill at ease," Shigemitsu said.

"The Soviet Union is not only worming its way into Egypt and other Arab countries but also trying to reach out for the Middle East and Near East and for Asia."

It was one of the strongest official attacks against Russia here since World War II and the first time a Japanese Minister has pointed so sharply to Soviet nuclear tests and ambitions in the Middle East.

Continuing Demands. Shigemitsu said that in its London talks with Russia, Japan has been demanding immediate return of interned Japanese and of historically Japanese territory and will continue to insist "on what is right and just."

He declared that his nation "will pursue a policy of peace, keyed to the basic principles of co-operation with other free and democratic nations."

"Let me say that Japan has maintained and will continue to maintain, close contact with the United States and co-operate on all problems of mutual concern," Shigemitsu added.

He said the Geneva foreign ministers' conference "appears to have accomplished nothing but to show more clearly than ever the fundamental differences between the two camps and the impossibility, at least in the near future, of a settlement."

Both Shigemitsu and Prime Minister Hatoyama addressed the new Parliament session after it was convened by Emperor Hirohito.

Leadership Bolstered. Their conservative leadership was bolstered for the first time in three years by a majority in the House of Representatives—the result of a merger of the two right-wing parties two weeks ago. Hatoyama and Shigemitsu stayed on as the top ministers of a new cabinet considered cooler toward Japan's Communist neighbors than Hatoyama's earlier cabinets.

For the first time in recent major policy addresses, neither minister mentioned by name Communist China and the hope of many Japanese to open trade and diplomatic relations with Peiping. This was a major political question when Hatoyama took office a year ago with Socialist backing.

The closest reference to Red China was Hatoyama's vague statement to "do our utmost to effect an adjustment of Japan's relations with all countries of Asia."

ALLEGED PAY-OFFS FACE FURTHER INQUIRY BY U.S.

The indictment at his hotel, attributed the charge to "politics." "The Republicans have held me over as a scapegoat and public sacrifice, again, for the coming national election," he told reporters.

"I deeply feel that there should be a congressional investigation of my indictment and it should be open and free to the public."

Caudle said he was "exonerated" by the judiciary committee of the House of the Eighty-third Congress and held, in the committee's report, to be "a scapegoat" and offered as a "public sacrifice" to draw attention from other things mentioned in the report.

The indictments, returned to United States District Judge George H. Moore, charged that Connelly, Caudle and Schwimmer "willfully, knowingly and unlawfully conspired and agreed with Irving Sachs to defraud the Government."

The defendants were charged with conspiring to commit five violations of the United States Code—bribery, perjury, making false statements and entries, and violations of the corrupt practices act and the internal revenue laws.

The charge is a single count indictment with a maximum penalty on conviction of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

By their actions, the indictment said, the defendants conspired to defraud the Government of its "function and right to administer the internal revenue laws of the United States and regulations duly issued and pertaining thereto, free from unlawful impairment and obstruction and free from corruption, improper influence, dishonesty and fraud."

Further, they denied the Government its right of administering the office of appointments secretary, which Connelly held; the Justice Department's tax division, which Caudle headed; the internal revenue service and its predecessor, the internal revenue bureau, "free from unlawful impairment and obstruction, and free from corruption, improper influence, dishonesty and fraud," the indictment said.

Further Charges. Actions of the defendants were a conspiracy to make it impossible for the Government to "fairly, honestly and free of fraud, deceit, partiality, concealment, interference, obstruction and corruption," make dispositions in business matters effecting Caudle's and Connelly's offices, the indictment alleged.

By virtue of the defendants' "personal and pecuniary interests in the success of persons concerned and affected by the outcome" of Government decisions in matters pending before the tax division or the appointments secretary's office, the indictment said, they conspired to defraud the Government of its right to make "conscientious, faithful, disinterested and unbiased judgments."

The indictment said that during the course of the conspiracy, which allegedly continued to the present time, there was pending in the Internal Revenue Service and in the tax division of the Department of Justice an income tax fraud proceeding concerning alleged co-conspirators Irving Sachs and Shustles, Inc.

The indictment states that "it was an essential part of the conspiracy that Sachs, having willfully evaded large amounts of income tax over a period of years, should nevertheless escape indictment and, if indicted, should escape prosecution, and if convicted, should escape imprisonment."

Government attorneys told reporter; Slack and Sachs were designated co-conspirators, and not defendants, because they "are part of a small agreement, which is part of a larger conspiracy."

Following the hearing on bond for the defendants, Judge Moore disqualified himself from further connection with the indictment. It also was announced that the grand jury would recess for at least 10 days.

Special Assistant Attorney General Wyllys S. Newcomb informed the court that the evidence on which the indictment was returned was "part of a pattern."

"There was bribery in our Government close to the top," Newcomb stated. He asked that the case be set for trial as soon as is consistent with the rights of the defendants, and added that the grand jury would proceed "with full steam ahead."

"And damn the torpedoes," observed Judge Moore.

Warren Olney III, head of the criminal division of the Department of Justice and in over-all charge of the investigation, was here when the indictment was returned. He came to St. Louis three days ago.

Slack was appointed to the tax division in 1934. After military leave he returned to the same position in 1946 and served until July, 1948, when he was named an assistant to the attorney general in the tax division, one of the top jobs in the section. After the tax scandal revelations of 1952 and 1953 he became a trial attorney in the tax division.

It was Slack who reported back to Washington, concerning the complaint of Judge Moore of irregularities in the collector's office, that "there was some smoke but no fire."

The jury began its lengthy investigation with an inquiry into efforts by former high officials to whitewash the official conduct of former Collector of Internal Revenue James P. Finnegan here. More recently, the jury has been seeking to learn whether politically influential lawyers were able to block prosecution of income tax violators.

24 Overt Acts Charged. The alleged conspiracy was outlined by the grand jury in a series of 24 overt acts involving some men not named in the body of the indictment.

Two of the acts named Chris Rhodes, Tulsa (Okla.) attorney. One said defendant Schwimmer about Dec. 30, 1949, drew a check in the amount of $3600 payable to Rhodes and the other said that about July 17, 1950, Schwimmer drew a check in the amount of $3300 payable to Rhodes.

Rhodes, the Post-Dispatch was told, purchased oil royalty interests for Schwimmer.

Rhodes refused to discuss details of his association with Schwimmer when questioned by reporters following his appearance before the grand jury last Tuesday. He denied that he represented any oil companies, but acknowledged being an attorney for Schwimmer.

"All I ever got out of the business I did with those Kansas City people is a lot of trouble," he said.

Two letters written by Arthur B. Cunningham Jan. 11, 1951, while Cunningham was an attorney in the Justice Department's tax division, also were listed among the overt acts.

Cunningham, now a Miami (Fla.) attorney, told the Post-Dispatch today that the letters, which he wrote to Internal Revenue Commissioner Schoeneman and Schwimmer related to the Sachs investigation.

He said he was directed by Caudle, his superior, to inform Schoeneman that the Sachs case, which had been referred to the Justice Department for possible criminal prosecution, was being returned to the old Internal Revenue Bureau without action by the Justice Department. The other letter advised Schwimmer that this disposition of the case was being made, he said.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH Fri., Dec. 2, 1955 13A

2ND BAPTIST CHURCH APPROVES BUILDING

$300,000 Structure in Richmond Heights to Be Contemporary in Design.

The congregation of Second Baptist Church last night approved architect's plans and ordered construction of a $300,000 church on its property at Clayton and McKnight roads in Richmond Heights.

Ground will be broken early in the spring, and construction of the new building is expected to be completed before the end of 1956.

Second Baptist Church, one of the oldest Protestant churches in St. Louis, moved last March 6 from its former property at Kingshighway and Washington boulevard. It now occupies the former Wade Childress estate on Clayton road.

The new church will be contemporary in design, built of brick painted white to match the present residential property, which has been converted to church use. Monumental windows on the north and south sides will extend from floor to roof line.

The sanctuary will seat 400 persons, and the choir loft in the rear will provide for 55 persons. The Avis Blewett memorial organ will be removed from the former church building on Kingshighway and installed in the new church.

The Rev. Leon R. Robison is pastor of Second Church and Howard B. Kelsey is minister of music. G. Frederick Newhard Jr. is chairman of the church building committee.

INHERITS $144,932, DIES BEFORE HE GAINS POSSESSION

Theodore E. Hagist, a shoe salesman, of 3403A California avenue, left an estate valued at $147,979, but he possessed only a small part of it, it was disclosed in an inheritance tax appraiser's report filed yesterday in probate court.

Hagist, who died in June 1954, inherited a one-fourth interest in the estate of his father, who died in 1938, as well as a one-fourth interest in his father's 20,000-acre Texas ranch. The combined value of the two was placed at $144,932 but Hagist was not eligible to receive his share of the estate until last January, six months after his death, because it was involved in lengthy court litigation, his son, Eugene Hagist, reported.

Hagist continued to work as a shoe salesman at a $3200-a-year salary until his death, his son said. His father, E. R. Hagist, was founder of the First National Bank of Mascoutah, Ill., and operated a general store there for 58 years.

Theodore Hagist's estate will be divided equally among his wife, Mrs. Frieda Hagist, and two sons, Eugene and Howard Hagist.

SCHOOL BOARD'S PRIVATE DINNERS TO BE CONTINUED

President Decides Not to Drop Practice After Issue Is Debated for Hour.

The Board of Education's practice of holding private dinners each month was upheld yesterday by board president James F. Morrell, after board members debated the matter at a closed meeting for more than an hour.

Morrell announced after the meeting that he had exercised his prerogative as president by ordering that the dinners be continued. Board members did not vote to over-rule him and there was no vote taken on the issue, he said.

Schlaflly Opposes Practice.

The board, meeting as a committee of the whole, decided to argue the dinner question in private shortly after the subject was raised by Daniel L. Schlaflly, one of the members. Schlaflly said he was prepared to offer a motion that the dinners be discontinued as being contrary to the spirit of the board. A motion to take the board into closed session was then made by Mrs. Irma H. Friede, who in October was honored on her retirement as board president at a dinner which cost $244 and included champagne and cigars.

Mrs. Friede's motion was carried, 8 to 2. Opposed were Schlaflly and Charles H. Christel. Voting with Mrs. Friede were Morrell, Louis H. Antoine, H. Lee Bruns, Edward C. Donnelly, Charles J. Dyer, Mrs. Edward M. Harrington, and Dr. Walter A. Young.

Morrell said later he felt

Fr. Reinert Criticizes Missouri's Preparation for School Meeting

St. Louis U. President Acclaims Results of White House Conference but Says State Did a 'Miserable Job.'

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Missouri did a "pretty miserable job," compared with other states, in preparing for the White House Conference on Education, the Very Rev. Paul C. Reinert, S.J., president of St. Louis University, said last night.

Father Reinert acclaimed the results of the conference, in an interview before returning to St. Louis, but said Missouri is losing out on the chief benefit—state and local discussion of educational problems in preparatory and follow-up meetings.

He described as "pretty much of a joke" a single preliminary meeting held at Columbia, Mo., last August, "when everyone was on vacation."

Poorly Planned. "It was very poorly planned and very poorly attended," he said. "Some statistics were presented by Hubert Wheeler, state superintendent of education, and these could have been useful as a basis for study."

"But there was no study or discussion. There was no real participation. The whole thing came pretty much right out of Wheeler's office."

Father Reinert said he had that the dinners, which are held prior to the board's regular public meetings, give members an opportunity to get acquainted informally with each other and with board problems.

He said a certain amount of board matters are discussed at the dinners, but added that no decisions can be taken then. Members can talk about school affairs "over a cup of coffee anywhere," he remarked.

Roberts' Rules for Members. At the public part of the meeting, the board approved Antoine's proposal to have each member supplied with a copy of Roberts' rules governing parliamentary procedure.

Antoine, who said he himself was guilty of unwitting violations of proper procedure, said he thought the board "would profit by a more orthodox application of rules than at present."

He proposed that paper-bound rule books be purchased, "so that the board would not feel it necessary to buy gold-embossed books."

School Buildings Commissioner V. Harry Rhodes said bids for construction of an elementary school on South Fourteenth for the M-17 (Dart) housing project would be sought soon. Contracts would be let in January, he added.

been impressed here with the series of advance meetings held by many states and the continuing state committees that some states had set up to publicize the work of the conference in the coming months.

He said he hoped the state could take steps now to stimulate discussion of school needs.

Praising Procedure. Praising the round-table procedure followed in the conference, Father Reinert said this system enabled delegates to learn about each others' local problems and tended to "keep education centered at the local level, where it belongs."

He denied that professional educators had dominated the four-day conference, which ended last night. Some of the parents who attended exerted a strong, wholesome influence, he said, although the professionals understandably often were given the task of drawing up reports.

Father Reinert said he was satisfied that non-tax-supported schools had been well represented at the conference.

"The mingling of representatives of both public and non-public schools was extremely beneficial in putting the total educational problem into proper perspective," he said.

LOS ANGELES SAID TO BE MISERLY IN FIGHTING ITS SMOG

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 2 (AP)—The president of California Institute of Technology says Los Angeles is trying to solve a "billion dollar problem, smog, with peanuts."

Dr. Lee A. Dubridge told the Pasadena Kiwanis Club yesterday that it cost $750,000,000 to get pure water in Los Angeles and "don't be surprised if it costs that much to get pure air."

"You and I are the smog producers and you and I are going to have to pay for the gadgets which somebody will invent some day to put on our cars to reduce their polluting effect," said Dr. Dubridge.

"Right now, nobody has a gadget to reduce the polluting effect of gasoline burning, nobody knows how to make one, and even if one were invented tomorrow it would take a year of testing and developing to get it in producible form to be sold for a modest price. Fortunately, the automobile companies are working hard on this problem."

LONDON, Dec. 2 (AP)—The International Wool Secretariat announced today the discovery of a virus it said can wipe out the common clothes moth.

Smith headed a unit at Cambridge University which discovered the virus. The International Wool Secretariat backed the project.

EISENHOWER ORDER 'FRONT,' MORSE SAYS

Statement on Dollar-a-Year Men Branded Effort to Hide Violations.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (UP)—Senator Wayne Morse charged today that President Eisenhower's recent order on certain government employees who serve without pay is just a front to hide "failure to comply with the law."

The Oregon Democrat said the order, and a press statement accompanying it, "is another example of the administration's continuing use of press agent tricks to hide its failures."

Morse contended, in a statement, that the order simply puts into effect amendments of the Defense Production Law enacted by the Democratic-controlled Congress. The accompanying statement is "misleading," he said.

"The press release does not point out that WOC's (men who serve without compensation) have been employed for more than three months without compliance with the filing and publication requirements contained in the 1955 amendments; it does not point out that the 1955 amendments require the chairman of the Civil Service Commission to report to Congress at least once every three months on appointments of WOCs and almost four months have gone by without a report," the Senator said.

A House Judiciary subcommittee will hold hearings on the adequacy of the President's order next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Text of Education Conference Report on Federal School Aid: 2 Out of 3 Delegates Favor It Majority Says Government Funds Should Be Used to Help Build Schools, but Conference Split Evenly Over Other Assistance.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP).

Following is the text of a report of the White House Conference on Education, dealing with "how can we finance our schools—build and operate them?"

LOCAL SCHOOL SUPPORTS.

EACH STATE has the responsibility to provide for all its children an opportunity for a minimum of 12 years of public school education. The organization of administrative units should be such as to eliminate or reduce to a minimum the inefficient and ineffective school districts in both the elementary and secondary fields, and to provide the most desirable unit for the offering of an adequate educational program for all elementary and secondary pupils.

Districts should be organized on the basis of natural areas of communication, geographic manageability and in keeping with the best interests of the community and the pupils.

It was agreed that an adequate organization of school districts was closely related to any fair and adequate program of finance for schools.

There should be a re-examination of the legal restrictions on borrowing and taxing powers for school purposes leading toward the easing of such restrictions but safeguarding the credit of the state and local communities.

It is noted that a small minority favored the removal of all restrictions.

Where legal restrictions exist, they should be periodically reviewed.

Each state should base its taxing power on property through an equalized assessment and on the basis of statewide, uniform standards, thereby providing a fairer base in terms of ability to pay. Better trained people, better administrative processes, and more scientific methods are needed to insure fairness in assessment procedures and practices.

All taxable property should be kept on the tax rolls and there should be continuous reappraisal of property values.

STATE SCHOOL AID.

There was consensus that state aid should be increased to provide, after a fair local levy, a basic program on an equalized basis. Some favored a combination of equalization and flat grants. There was a general agreement that initiative to exceed the basic program should be encouraged.

A re-examination should be made in each state of the constitutional and statutory restrictions on the bonding and taxing powers of the state governments. These should be eased to the extent necessary to provide an adequate program of education. There was some opinion that, if necessary, constitutional restrictions should be removed.

FEDERAL AID FOR SCHOOLS

A substantial majority felt that some states do not have sufficient financial resources to take care of the essentials of the schools.

The participants approved by a ratio of more than two to one the proposition that the Federal Government should increase its financial participation in public education. Of those favoring such increase, the overwhelming majority approved an increase in federal funds for school building construction. On the issue of federal funds to the states for local school operation, the participants divided almost evenly. A very small minority was opposed to federal aid to education in any form.

A majority agreed that all states and territories and the District of Columbia should be eligible for federal funds but that they should be granted only on the basis of demonstrated needs.

Federal aid should never be permitted to become a deterrent to state and local initiative in education.

The administration of federal funds should be through the appropriate state agency for education. This state agency should determine the relative needs of local school districts. There was some opinion that federal administration of financial grants for education should be vested in the United States Office of Education.

The delegates almost unanimously opposed any federal control over educational use of funds in local school districts.

Accounting by the states to the federal government for fiscal purposes was not interpreted as federal control of education.

One table in 10 recommended that federal aid should be made available to states only for those districts certifying that they are conforming to Supreme Court decision prohibiting racially segregated school systems.

NON-PUBLIC SCHOOL SUPPORT

The groups that considered the question whether non-public schools have sufficient revenue to meet present and anticipated needs agreed that the non-public schools were probably having financial difficulties in meeting their needs.

While the participants recognized the right of parents to educate their children in non-public schools in accordance with American tradition, a large majority of participants did not favor the use of tax funds for support of non-public educational institutions.

A small number of participants discussed the matter of health and welfare benefits to pupils of non-public schools. Among these participants there was considerable sentiment that such services should not be denied to these pupils.

As means for increasing support of non-public schools, private and corporate gifts and grants and tuition fees were suggested.

FINANCING EDUCATION IN THE FUTURE

The costs of education have risen because of the increased expenses for labor and material, inflationary pressures, growing population and the improvement of school programs.

The problem of financing our schools, however, is not lack of capacity to support education adequately. The problem is national determination to apply enough of our available resources to the job.

The people of America need urgently to re-examine the allocation of tax funds at all levels of government. The destiny of our children and our free society demands that we use more of our wealth for education.

PEARSON

Sherman Adams Will Ditch Dr. Scheele, Health Chief

By DREW PEARSON
(Copyright, 1955.)

WASHINGTON.

ASSISTANT PRESIDENT SHERMAN ADAMS has decided to ditch the embattled surgeon-general and scapegoat of the Salk polio vaccine snafu, Dr. Leonard Scheele. Adams already has Dr. Scheele's successor in mind—Dr. Jack Masur, chief of Public Health's medical services.

Dr. Scheele became a front-page figure during the controversy over the Salk polio vaccine. Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, then Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, tried to pin the blame on him for the bad batches of vaccine.

While the Public Health Service was responsible for testing the vaccine, the fact is that Dr. Scheele had urged Mrs. Hobby to begin preparing months before. At the last minute, she was responsible for rushing the Salk vaccine to the public and actually got sore when newsmen and photographers were not able to take pictures of her on schedule because Dr. Scheele urged more time.

Now he will be dropped as public health chief when his term expires in March.

Dr. Scheele, having got wind that he may lose his job, is doing his best to ingratiate himself with the Republicans. He attended a ceremony in Kansas City to watch some subordinates receive the annual

NO TAX CUTS—You may write it down as almost certain there will be no tax cuts. Congress is sure to talk a lot and perhaps vote for a tax cut, but President Eisenhower has given private but definite assurance to Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey that there will be no tax cut. In brief, he has promised to veto any tax reduction voted by Congress.

Humphrey's ambition is to get the budget balanced. He expects to pull the Treasury out of the red by next June 30. Only after this happens will Humphrey consider cutting personal income taxes, which will come ahead of corporate or excise tax reductions.

FLEESON Palace Guard Set to Select G.O.P. Nominee

Move on to Name
Nixon if Eisenhower Won't Be Candidate.

By DORIS FLEESON
CHICAGO.

THE destinies of the Republican party are at this moment in the light and virtually unchallenged control of national chairman Leonard Hall and leading figures of the Eisenhower Administration.

They intend to name the next G.O.P. candidate for president, and they hope he will be Eisenhower. If he declines to run, however, they expect to nominate Vice President Richard Nixon.

Their strategy of delaying their request for the President's decision until March or later is ostensibly designed to give him plenty of time to recover from his heart attack, to get the advice of his physicians, and to show him that the burdens of the presidency can be substantially reduced.

What it does also as a practical matter is to freeze out other aspirants, reduce the early primaries to meaningless formalities and shorten the time for shaping outside challenges to administration control of the situation.

First Primary March 13.

For example: The first presidential preference primary takes place March 13 in New Hampshire, where Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts might logically seek to bolster his favorite son status in case Eisenhower does not run. It is reliably said that Herter would beat Nixon in that primary, which would be a severe blow to Nixon's prestige right at the start.

But 100 New Hampshire voters can put up Eisenhower's name and, unless he asks that it be withdrawn, it stays. Hall & Co. will plead that Eisenhower's intentions are not yet known, it is too early to force them and they will urge him to the silence that gives consent. This will discourage Herter and avoid a possible tarnish on the Nixon luster.

Minnesota is next, on March 20. There too the President could take his name out but need only fail to take action and it will stay on the ballot. Thus the plan is to repeat the New Hampshire maneuver which takes care of that state's former governor and perennial presidential candidate, Harold Stassen, now a special assistant to the President, who has been making ambitious noises again.

The large and jovial national chairman, Len Hall, is the perfect front man for this operation though it is widely suspected that a Thomas E. Dewey-Sherman Adams brain trust mapped it.

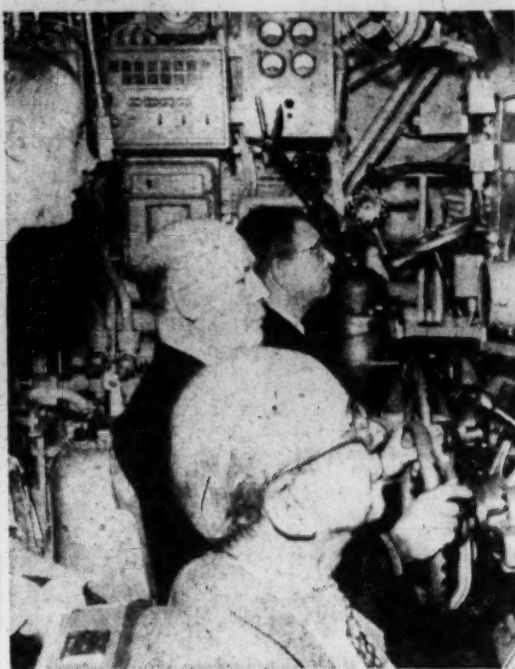

Radiating confidence, the chairman has dropped roseate hints but never really any promises. In dull moments he has sung the old Eisenhower and Nixon campaign train songs made up by reporters, and his quip-record threatens to outdistance Adlai Stevenson's.

He has induced a state of euphoria in upward of a hundred men and women of proved ability that makes them stick their heads above the crowd. They have laughed and played and given remarkably little thought to the morrow. They are not really sure that things are as Hall makes them appear, but since most of them hope Eisenhower will run, they refuse to worry.

This atmosphere was pierced to some degree in the closing of the Old Guard on the committee, mostly men who supported the late Senator Robert Taft.

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N.J., Dec. 2. THE Democratic party is still the preferred party of voters under 30 years of age, a just completed Institute survey shows. Half again as many in this age group regard themselves as Democrats as Republicans—a ratio that has remained constant since four years ago.

Fewer young voters claim to be Independents. In November 1951, a survey found 35 per cent of the voters in this age group claiming to be Independents. Today the figure has dropped to 26 per cent.

Interviewers put the following question to a cross-section of adults of all ages:

"In politics, as of today, do you consider yourself a Republican, Democrat or Independent?"

The tabulated results:

	21-29	30-49	50 Yrs. & Over
Republican	29%	30%	43%
Democrat	45%	45%	39%
Independent	26%	25%	18%

The comparable vote in Nov. 1951:

	21-29	30-49	50 Yrs. & Over
Republican	24%	30%	39%
Democrat	41%	41%	38%
Independent	35%	29%	23%

The figures indicate that the G.O.P., as a party, has not done a good selling job among young voters and that one of the problems facing the Republicans in 1956, if President Eisenhower does not run, will be to find a candidate who is more popular than his party in this group. In 1952, Mr. Eisenhower polled 49 per cent of the vote in the 21 to 29 age group, compared to Adlai Stevenson's 51 per cent.

Year	Percentage
1948	41%
1944	42%
1940	40%
1936	32%

By contrast, in 1952, 53 per

ALSO Administration to Stand Firm On Farm Price Support Issue

Democrats Plan Strategy for Fight in Coming Session of Congress—Humphrey Will Carry Ball.

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP
WASHINGTON.

THE biggest, noisiest and most politically explosive domestic issue of the coming session of Congress is almost certain to be the farm issue. It is already fairly clear how both the Eisenhower Administration and the Democratic congressional leadership mean to handle the issue.

The present intention of the Administration is to make one rather reluctant gesture of appeasement towards the farmers and to stand pat otherwise. The gesture will take the form of a "soil fertility bank," which is an elegant way of saying that farmers will be paid to take part of their land out of production, and put it into grass or trees.

No less than 18 different plans for doing this have been considered. The final version is expected to call for an annual outlay of about half a billion dollars.

Firm on Main Issues.

There will be other small gestures, but on the two central questions there is not now the slightest apparent disposition to back down.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson and fixed high price supports have become the twin symbols of farm discontent. But Benson has no intention whatsoever of abandoning his flexible support program. And President Eisenhower has no intention whatsoever of firing Benson.

The President is, of course, perfectly aware of the explosive nature of the farm issue.

His attitude is much influenced by his brother Milton, who greatly admires Benson. As for Benson himself, he is quite simply convinced that high fixed price supports are a snare and a delusion, and that farmers are beginning to see the light.

Agriculture Department surveys indicate that farmer sentiment is in fact turning against fixed supports, particularly in the South, where high supports cent of persons between the ages of 30 and 49, and 62 per cent of those 50 years old or more, voted Republican. Even outside the South, the Democratic party today holds a 4-to-3 margin over the G.O.P. as the preferred party of young voters.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Price of Bread

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
The high cost of bread was attributed by a letter-writer to the cost of labor in processing wheat. Such a statement should not be allowed to go unchallenged.

The neighborhood baker, who performs most of his own labor, would starve to death if he had to live on the profit from the sale of bread.

A business analyst recently stated that an average of 37 per cent and in many cases more than 50 per cent of the cost of products is the cost of distribution.

THEODORE J. DIERKER.

The baker today receives the lowest wages among the skilled trades. The drop in the price of wheat has little to do with the price of bread; flour is still high. The only cheap ingredients in bread are the baker's wages, salt and water.

Bread has to be delivered daily, sometimes twice a day, so the customer will have it fresh. It has to be sliced and wrapped. This requires costly machines.

The price of bread is still low in St. Louis, compared with prices in other large cities. Bread is still the cheapest and most nutritious of foods.

CHARLES WILLIAM BARCH.

Make Begging Unnecessary

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
We have the United Fund. "Give Once—For All" is the slogan. Fine! Let's give liberally, generously, adequately, cheerfully.

But why do blind or crippled persons or paupers roam the streets and beg for gifts of mercy? Do the beggars not know about the relief agencies? Do the agencies turn them away? Is the relief and assistance inadequate?

Or are some beggars profiteers, begging in spite of the relief offered by the proper agencies? Are some beggars swindlers or lazy, not entitled to organized relief?

Every beggar is an accusation against the city and its relief agencies and charitable institutions, a constant embarrassment of its citizens.

Let us take decent, adequate care of all sufferers in need of relief and worthy of our charity, making begging unnecessary. Let us also prosecute and punish all profiteers and racketeers. WALTER T. KOCH.

Another Forbidden Topic

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
The politicians who would like to keep foreign policy out of the '56 election campaign. With farm prices at rock bottom and farm commodities sky high to consumers it would be very helpful to keep farm policy out of the election also.

Essex, Mo. DOC DUNCAN.

He Calls It 'Mississippiism'

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
The recent acts of violence against Negroes in Mississippi prompt me, when referring to these prejudicial actions, to use the term "Mississippiism."

What is "Mississippiism," you ask? It is a social doctrine dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal—except Negroes.

In the jargon of "Mississippiism," a jury is a judicial body composed of 12 members of the white race, their sworn duty being that of rendering justice to all who pass before them—except, of course, in cases where justice might threaten that bulwark of Southern society, white supremacy.

Practical jokes such as kidnapping and murder are quite popular among those who practice "Mississippiism"; after all, boys will be boys, you know!

To a casual observer, it would seem that the advocates of "Mississippiism" have adopted this motto: "We reserve the right to refuse justice to anyone of non-Caucasian descent."

GEORGE WARFIELD, Sullivan, Mo.

Call for the Particular

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
We are Americans. But we should begin calling ourselves United Statesians to distinguish us from Canadians or Mexicans who also are Americans—North Americans, to be sure, but Americans nonetheless. So let's see what can be done about being more explicit when talking about ourselves.

HARRY STEINMANN.

Waiting for an Express

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
What happened to the express bus service for the people of South St. Louis, who are employed in the vicinity of Twelfth and Market?

A large number of riders wait in the cold on Twelfth and Market from 5 p.m. until 5:15 and sometimes until 8:20 before they can board an express bus. Two buses pass this spot between 5 and 5:15 p.m., but they fly by filled to capacity with passengers who board the buses in the downtown section.

South Grand Express buses with service through Holly Hills were rerouted over the Third Street Highway and seven South Side buses were rerouted over the Third Street Highway on the Affton Express line leaving federal, city, state and other people working in this vicinity stranded both in the morning and evening.

How about putting spotters on the breezy corner of Twelfth and Market at 5 p.m. on the evening and observe the wonderful service the Public Service Co. is giving the people?

MARIE HECHLER.

New Start on Tax Scandals

Indictment of three men offer proof that the federal investigation of tax scandals did not die on the long vine of delay and intermittent effort. The federal grand jury in St. Louis has indicted Theron Lamar Caudle, Matthew J. Connelly and Harry I. Schwimmer on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government, and has named Ellis N. Slack and Irving Sachs as co-conspirators.

Such a roster will take readers back to the days in 1951 when the federal tax scandals erupted. Caudle's name was prominent enough when he was head of the Justice Department's Tax Division. Connelly was appointments secretary for former President Truman. Slack was then Assistant Attorney General.

In brief, the jury accuses these men of conspiring to dispose of a tax fraud case against Sachs, who is head of Shu-Stiles, Inc. It is charged that Schwimmer, as attorney for Sachs, paid $1650 to Connelly, and that Caudle also was "influenced by hope of reward." Indictment is not conviction, of course, and trial is bound to arouse national interest.

One of the shocking things about the case is a date. Connelly is accused of taking money from Schwimmer in January 1952. Yet by that time the public was thoroughly aroused by the tax scandals, and the Truman Administration itself was trying to clean up the debris.

Mr. Truman had already named a new Internal Revenue Commissioner, John B. Dunlap, who was firing suspect employees wholesale and working on a complete reorganization plan. Later a new Attorney General, James P. McGranery, undertook to reform the Justice Department's tax division.

Yet the tax scandals were allowed to lie dormant for nearly two years after the Republican Administration moved into Washington with a promise to "clean up the mess." There was even an attempt to gag Republican Senator John J. Williams, who demanded that the tax inquiry be pursued regardless of where the trail might lead.

Not until late 1954 did a new federal grand jury begin work in Omaha, and last January the tax inquiry was placed before the grand jury in St. Louis. Again, much of the credit for resuming the long-delayed task goes to Chief Judge George H. Moore of United States District Court.

Judge Moore had pressed the inquiry in the first instance, more than four long years ago. And when the present investigation had proceeded for months without much result, Judge Moore attempted to blast it loose.

The judge asserted that some officials who had tried to obstruct the tax investigation had not been fired but had been retained in office and even promoted. He did not name names. But Ellis Slack has just been relieved of duty as a Justice Department trial attorney. The public may wonder about this, and also wonder why Slack was named a co-conspirator yet was not indicted.

Judge Moore's demand for action came less than a month ago. Now there are indictments. These should indicate that the Government does not intend to stop investigating until the tax scandals are brought fully to light and up to date, and obstructionists are dealt with.

The three indictments certainly do not end the tax inquiry. They are a new beginning.

La Prensa Lives Again

The restoration of La Prensa, the great newspaper in Buenos Aires, to its rightful owners, is a victory for the free press everywhere. Nearly five years ago La Prensa was seized by the then dictator Juan D. Peron and turned over to the General Confederation of Labor. It then became a propaganda medium.

Now Provisional President Pedro Aramburu's caretaker government has returned the newspaper to the Gainza family, and Alberto Gainza Paz is returning from exile in New York to resume the editorship. His staff, which refused to work for the Peronistas, will take over again.

While La Prensa is free, there may be oppression in Argentina but it will not go unrebuked. That is why a free La Prensa is a cause for celebration all over the free world. The Buenos Aires newspaper would be outstanding for other qualities, but it is its independence which has made La Prensa great. The democratic principles for which it has long stood have survived dictatorship and revolution, and La Prensa's renewed functioning lights one of the brightest hopes for the eventual triumph of popular government in Argentina.

Thousands of Boys and Girls

Have ever as many teen-agers come to St. Louis from as many parts of the country for one meeting as gathered here for the third convention of the National Council of Catholic Youth? If so, the occasion does not come to mind. The experience has been a very pleasant one for us all. Downtown streets have been filled with youthful laughter and gaiety as hundreds of boys and girls trooped from their hotels to Kiels Auditorium. And it has been possible to identify many groups of the merry-making but with serious young visitors at a glance—those from Kansas by their sunflowers, those from Connecticut by their three-cornered colonial hats, and so on. St. Louis is not at its best the first week in December, but we are sure the Catholic Youth have had a good time anyway. Judging by the "school's out" sounds from their parades they wouldn't be bothered by Sahara heat or Alaskan blizzard.

Last Echo

Secretary McKay has taken the way of constructive compromise in dropping Echo Park dam from the Upper Colorado River Development Project.

The general project is vital to the future of a whole tier of Western states which share the waters of the Colorado river system. Echo Park dam, since it would have been situated in Dinosaur National Monument, would have set a dangerous precedent of invading the national parks and monuments. The jettisoning of this one project therefore not only is desirable from the standpoint of national policy but also, as the Secretary observes, makes the program for the Upper Colorado politically more feasible.

The Interior Secretary came to his present action the long way around, and after repeated assertions by his department that Echo Park was the indispensable dam, but the important consideration now is that the questionable aspect has been dropped from a needed project.

The successful fight against the proposal to build a dam in Dinosaur National Monument was waged by an imposing array of organizations and individuals.

The late Bernard DeVoto was one of the first publicists to call national attention to the danger, in his department, "The Easy Chair," in Harper's Magazine.

Senator Richard Neuberger of Oregon led the Senate fight for omission of Echo Park dam.

Among the organizations lined up against Echo Park were the Council of Conservationists, the National Wildlife Federation, the National Parks Association, the National Council of State Garden Clubs, the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and the Wilderness Society.

Newspapers which fought vigorously against the dam included the New York Times, the Chicago Daily News, the Washington Post and the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

All this amounted to a convincing demonstration of the seriousness with which Americans are concerned for the preservation of their national parks and monuments.

Behind Bonn's Vows

Official West German vows of friendship for the West are all very well, but it would be a mistake to assume that they tell the whole story about a delicate and complicated situation.

Just one day before Chancellor Adenauer's Foreign Minister Brentano made his speech to the Bundestag, in which he renewed Bonn's pledges to NATO and seemed to reject direct talks with Russia on the question of German reunification, a very different approach was being taken by other Adenauer lieutenants.

One of them, Kurt Georg Kiesinger, chairman of the Bundestag's Foreign Affairs Committee and foreign policy expert of Adenauer's Christian Democratic Union, actually came out for direct "talks" with Russia, though he added that "negotiations" must of course be excluded.

How to reconcile the two attitudes among Adenauer's own supporters? It is unnecessary to suppose that they represent insincerity or double dealing. The simpler and more plausible explanation is that they simply express the realities of internal German politics.

Since Geneva failed to advance the cause of reunification, there has been growing sentiment in Germany for an effort to advance the cause by direct talks with Moscow. Not only the Socialists, but many members of Adenauer's own coalition lean in this direction.

Much as Adenauer himself might prefer to hold aloof from any contact with Moscow, he may be compelled by German opinion to take some steps toward explanatory talks.

This is, at any rate, a possibility that should be taken into account by Western policy makers. When France was debating the European Defense Community, Washington for many months based its policy on the erroneous belief that French opinion favored EDC. Nothing can be gained by deceiving ourselves similarly about German opinion today.

If it should turn out that Foreign Minister Brentano was speaking mainly for Washington and London ears, and that Bonn is being driven steadily toward direct talks with the Russians, our diplomacy should be prepared for rapid adjustment to that new situation. Since we no longer possess full power to control events in Germany, we must base our policy on prudent expectations of what is likely to happen, not on what we would wish to happen.

Increasing Safety on Airlines

The Civil Aeronautics Board has at last issued orders that will make it mandatory for all scheduled and nonscheduled airlines to put in force several safety regulations that many carriers delayed long ago. It is indeed a reflection upon the minority of negligent lines that, as the CAB puts it, "crew duties and training are not adequate in the event of a crash landing or ditching."

After May 31, 1956, each airline must have assigned emergency duties in the event of plane evacuation to each crew member and must brief each passenger before any long over-water flights, on emergency exits, and location and use of life vests and rafts. After next Jan. 1 outside service of each airliner must be marked to identify clearly all the emergency exits. Eighteen months is allowed for completion of installation and marking of other emergency equipment.

This long delayed safety program has been pushed for years by the Air Line Pilots Association which includes the pilots of all the scheduled airlines and many of the nonscheduled airlines. And there have been accidents on sea and on land in which more lives would have been saved had the program been in effect. Air safety would be enhanced if the few carriers not observing the program would put it into effect without waiting for the dates set by the CAB.

A Much Needed Conference

Missouri is a natural playground. Its rivers and streams, its Ozark uplands, its many state parks and resorts entertain hundreds of thousands of people every year.

But those who have come to enjoy Missouri's recreation facilities are only a fraction of the number to whom the State should be introduced. It is for this reason that Gov. Donnelly has served Missouri by calling the First Governor's Recreation Conference, meeting currently in Jefferson City.

More than 100 leaders in varied aspects of recreation assembled at the State Capitol to see what Missouri could and should be doing beyond its present inadequate and unco-ordinated program. This state has been falling behind in the national procession. Here is a way to do some catching up.

It is an evidence of leadership on the part of Gov. Donnelly that is welcome. We hope he assembles more conferences to look at Missouri's stake in the national future.

Reference Is Made

Now the United States Government is keeping a file of miscellaneous and unproved but derogatory information on 2,000,000 citizens, or about one in every 80 persons in the country, or perhaps one in every 50 adults. And it is called a "reference file."

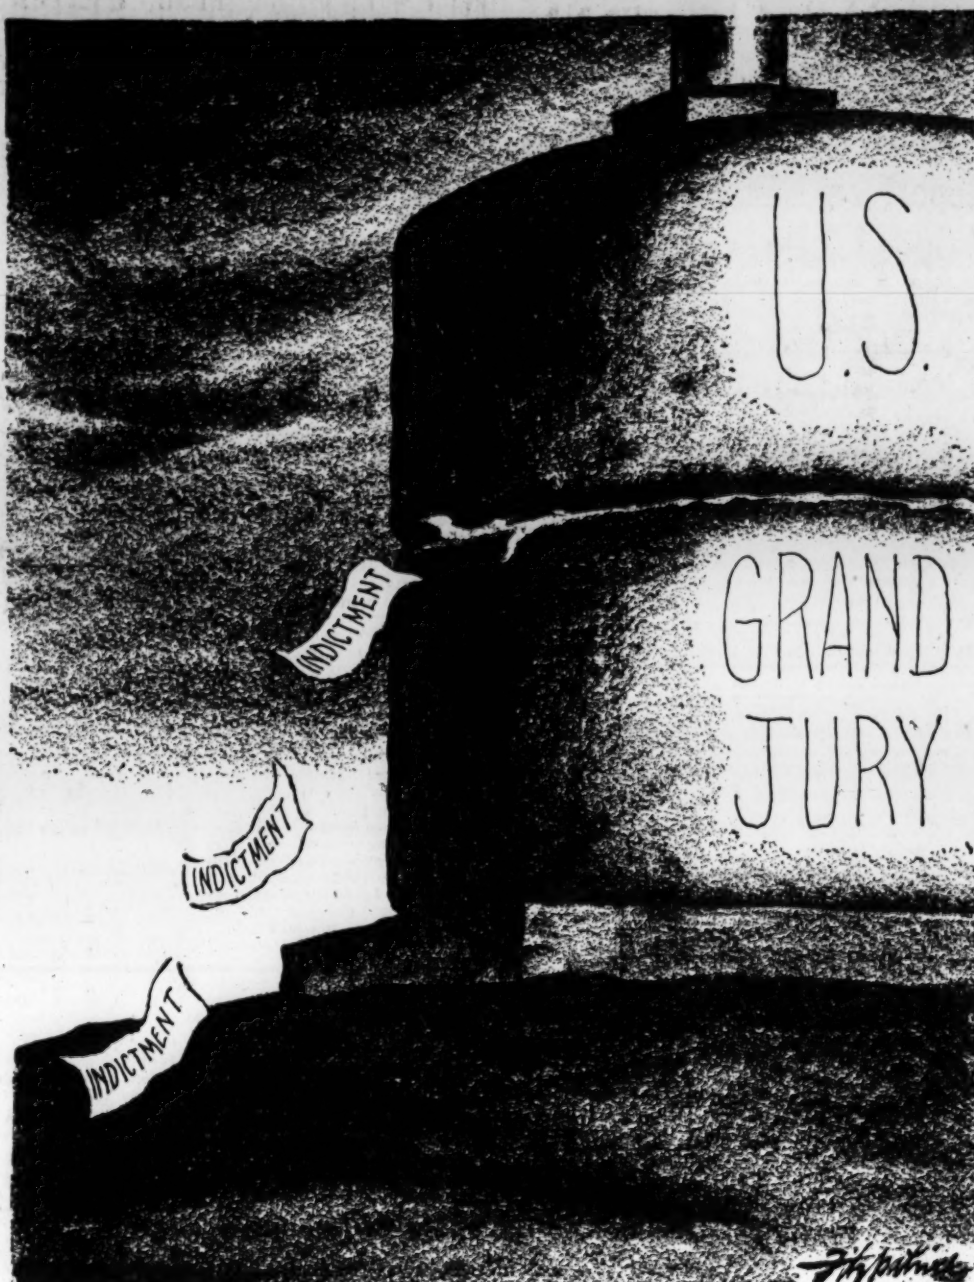

Chairman Philip Young of the Civil Service Commission described this file, up to a point, in a Senate hearing on constitutional rights. He said the file is made up of information from newspapers, hearings and other sources, but he did not say this information was necessarily correct.

He said various security agents use the file 5000 times a day, but he did not say how they evaluate the information, if they do.

He said the file is a storehouse of material on persons who might apply for federal jobs, but he did not say how the Government could possibly know who might apply for jobs, or where the constant filing would stop.

The Government has a right and duty to keep an honest and fair security check on its public servants. But the business of assembling more and more unchecked derogatory material on the public which our government is supposed to serve is certainly something new in American life. Reference might be made to the methods of foreign nations which do not trust millions of their citizens.

Can it be that the American people want this police state practice to continue?

Unsolved Dixon-Yates Mysteries

Between Book Ends

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Court trial should disclose who ordered Budget Bureau to omit Wenzell's name from "complete" history, who advised President to "instruct" an independent agency, why AEC was singled out, and who, if anyone, has been reprimanded for bungling the job.

Arthur Krock in The New York Times

Edgar H. Dixon will incidentally be performing a public service if he takes to federal court his claim and that of his partner, Eugene A. Yates, for reimbursement from the Government for the canceled Dixon-Yates contract with the Atomic Energy Commission.

The court may deny the claim by finding that the contract was worked out in violation of the "conflict of interest" law, thus affirming the "substantial question" which caused the AEC to cancel the contract and refer settlement of that issue to the judiciary.

But, though this outcome may impose a loss of several million dollars on the private utility partners, the testimony should at last disclose all the facts about one of the worst mishandled items of official business in the record of this or any other Administration. And that will be in the public service.

Among the mysteries which a thorough court trial of the Dixon-Yates claim should resolve are these:

On whose order did the Bureau of the Budget omit, from what the President ordered to be a complete history of the contract and the bureau represented as such, the part played in its drafting by Adolph H. Wenzell, a New York banker, who, while a consultant on certain aspects of the contract for the Bureau of the Budget, conferred with Dixon on its financing and helped to arrange the terms that later, without fee, were handled by Wenzell's then ex-employer, the First Boston Corp.?

Who advised the President that the AEC, only one of several government agencies with contractual powers, should make the contract, and persuaded him personally to "instruct" an independent agency to do that?

What were the reasons that influenced these advisers to select the AEC to contract directly with Dixon-Yates for power, not for itself, but for the Memphis area, to replace power the AEC was to draw out of the Tennessee Valley Authority?

When Democratic Senators Kefauver, Anderson and Gore, with assists from Senators Hill, Douglas and Morse, and Republican Senator Cooper, brought these curious matters to light did the President reprimand any members of his Administration who were responsible for the personal and political embarrassments? If so, whom?

If, as Chairman Strauss of the AEC has said, he supposed Wenzell to be only a consultant of the Bureau of Budget of Our Teeth" helped make this country's "Salute to France" a great success in Paris.

Love for the theater and respect for its audience, pride in her profession; warmth, helpfulness and understanding—these have long been the characteristics of Helen Hayes. It is only fitting that her name should shine every night in the lights of a New York theater.

YESTERDAY'S JAWWALKER.

From The Chicago Tribune.

The modern auto is twice as durable as the car of 30 years ago, says the American Automobile Manufacturers' Association. Alas, the only thing about the jawwalker that remains comparably irrefragable is his tombstone.

Renaming the Fulton Theater on Forty-sixth street the Helen Hayes Theater was a gesture which all theater-lovers will applaud. Famous men and women—actresses no less than anyone else—usually have to die in order to have things named after them.

It's a foolish rule, and no more pleasant exception to it could be made than for Miss Hayes who has adorned the American stage for so many years, now that one hesitates to count them up.

Even though Helen Hayes made her first stage appearance at the age of 5 and would be entitled to be a little weary of it all by now, her zest, like her talent, shows no sign of diminishing. Last summer, for example, her glittering performance in "The Skin until the Senators disclosed the other connection, what explanation for this, and for the omission in the "complete" record, did the bureau make to the President, assuming he ever asked it to make one?

Not until the answers to these and other questions are known can the public determine how and why the perfectly sound concept of saving public funds by forestalling unlimited expansion of the TVA with the Dixon-Yates plant at West Memphis, Ark., was permitted by the Administration to fall into disrepute.

The consequence of this mishandling, of which official evasion was a part, is to present the Democrats and the public-private-power doctrinaires with a political issue that need never have arisen in the degree it has.

Senator Kefauver now suggests possible "crime." That is a popular word when a matter of congressional inquiry concerns activities in an area where public service and private capital are both involved.

The Republicans used it without change of pitch during the Truman Administration, though official misdoings ranged from corruption to merely low official standards in the acceptance of mink coats and deep freezes.

But nothing as yet suggested by the Dixon-Yates contract encourages the presumption that "crime" figured in any way in it.

It may be that the conflict-of-interest statute was technically breached by the use of Wenzell by the Bureau of the Budget; this the courts will decide if the proposed claim is brought.

But the Administration's "guilt" seems to consist of a series of indefensible blunders, including an effort to cover up errors which, even before the Democrats captured the Congressional machinery of inquiry in November, 1954, it should have been obvious would be exposed at the Capitol.

And, as Napoleon cynically remarked, a blunder is worse than a crime.

The Democratic attack on the Dixon-Yates contract began as a purely partisan effort to convict the Administration of favoritism for private power over public power at the expense of the consumers and the taxpayers, and of using the contract as part of its design to destroy the TVA.

That campaign was not progressing, and even when the Administration canceled the contract on Memphis's decision to build its own plant it could prove by the record that this met the President's stated objective.

But the series of blunders has obscured the original merit of the contract, built up its most partisan critics and alienated its defenders—among these Senator J. W. Fulbright, who championed the contract against his Democratic colleagues.

His Blood Was Mixed

THE LOTUS SEAT, by Victor Chapin. (Minhart, 274 pp., $3.50.)

When Molly Hull became engaged to Derek Sturdevant in New York City, she found him to be elegant, charming, courtly and well-educated; a man with superior taste and apparent wealth. She thought him a "typical Englishman" with his fair good looks, and when he talked of his overseas possessions, she naturally thought he meant England, a country she knew well. They had originally planned that Derek was to dispose of his holdings and return to America, where he and Molly would marry and settle down.

Molly's first surprise was when she learned that Derek's possessions were not in England, but in an eastern country which had just recently won its independence from England. Her second surprise came when Derek asked her to come to his home for the marriage. Molly set out for the East in a spirit of adventure and longing, as it had been months since she had seen her fiancée. Her joy at meeting him was dampened by his formal attitude and Molly's reaction was that he no longer loved her.

But when Molly met Derek's relatives, the reason for his attitude was made clear. Derek was not only Dutch and English blood, as Molly knew; but also of native blood. Derek, who wanted nothing more in life than to be an "English gentleman," was a Eurasian and he hated the dark blood that ran in his veins. Although Virgin-born, Molly soon recovered from her shock and told Derek she still loved him and wanted to marry him. Derek's pride and self-hatred still stood between them and it was not until tragedy struck Derek that Molly was able to make him face himself and accept himself for what he was.

"The Lotus Seat" is a beautifully written, moving story of East and West, and those people in whom the blood of several races flows. It shows very clearly the problems of Eurasians, who, instead of being a bridge between the two races, are rejected by both. Although shocking in certain parts, the book deserves serious consideration and understanding of the problems involved, for which the white race cannot escape its responsibilities.

Still in the Funny Business

A CENTURY OF PUNCH CARTOONS, edited by K. E. Williams. (Simon & Schuster, $4.95.)

When a humor magazine stays in business for over a hundred years, it must be funny, and Punch is funny, even for those whose laugh-responses have been conditioned by our brasher native humor. Until Malcolm Muggeridge (who writes the foreword to this book) took over the editorship of Punch several years ago, its humor tended to be traditionally British and thus less than shocking to certain parts of the book deserves serious consideration and understanding of the problems involved, for which the white race cannot escape its responsibilities.

The Muggeridge era has changed all that, as it has changed even the appearance of the magazine. His long stay in the United States and his admiration for subtle humor of The New Yorker type has wrought a major improvement in Punch's cartoons. As a reader will note for himself, Mr. Williams has drawn very effectively on Punch's files, and the end result is an anthology that is good to handle and a delight to read.

Life With a Fawn

A DEER IN THE FAMILY, by John Hartmann. (Dutton, 19 pp., $2.50.)

This true story, which is adapted, tells how a Danish family near Copenhagen adopted a newborn roe fawn abandoned by its mother. Growing up as a spoiled member of the family, she never wanders far from home. One day she returns with a roe buck, and later with twin fawns. The next year she brings a second set of twins which she quickly settles down with the family.

Their life with the family is pleasantly told, and will interest all friends of animals.

WALTER LIPPMANN

Moderation and All That

ALTHOUGH words like moderate, constructive, non-partisan are hard to define, it does not follow that they do not mean something important. There is in fact every indication that these adjectives express qualities which a preponderant majority are looking for in the next President.

We need not boggle too much over the definitions. There are lots of things in this world which are hard to define in the abstract and yet are obvious enough in the concrete.

Take, for example, an egg. There is hardly an egg eater in the country who could tell a press conference what a good egg is. But it is no problem at all to recognize a bad egg. It is just about as easy to recognize an immoderate, destructive, and partisan politician.

If, as we all hope, there is to be an honest, serious and public-spirited discussion of foreign affairs, there is only one way to go about setting it. That is to see to it that each party nominates the kind of man who does not and who will not stoop to extremism, violence and demagoguery.

Reappraisal Is Essential.

If either of the candidates is the kind of man who thinks that he is entitled to do anything to win, no amount of pious talk now will save us from a poisonous campaign. The character of the coming campaign, will, in short, be determined by the character of the candidates.

During the months to come the country, regardless of the campaign, will be hearing a great deal about foreign affairs. That is because of reappraisal, looking to a revision and a reinforcement in several sectors of our foreign policy, has become necessary.

Our basic commitments to the United Nations, to our allies in NATO, to our neighbors, are not in question. But there is little doubt that we shall have to re-examine and to debate such matters as our German policy, which is perilously near being at a dead end, and certain aspects of our containment policy in the Middle East and South Asia.

Aimless Talk Easy.

The over-all characteristic of the situation is that, as of now, there is no clear issue on which Americans are divided and can take their stand and argue their side of the case. The old bipartisanism consisted of a coalition of Republicans and Democrats who were for the United Nations, who were for the Marshall plan and NATO and the like.

The crux of the present situation is that the policies are not yet formed, that the policies have still to be hammered out, around which a bipartisan coalition could be rallied.

This peculiar situation lends itself all too easily to aimless and irresponsible political talk. We shall not avoid that kind of talk by exhorting one another to be constructive.

The bottom fact of the matter is that neither party and none of the candidates now has the answer to the questions that need to be answered. They are all seeking, or ought to be seeking, answers that have not yet been found.

WASHINGTON.

The character of the campaign on foreign affairs will in the main be determined by the way the party leaders approach the search for these policies that have not yet been found.

The primary responsibility is with the Administration, with the party in power.

If they choose to stand pat, as Mr. Dulles seemed to be doing this week, they will precipitate a severe Democratic assault on the record of the results.

Choices for Republicans.

Our position abroad has in fact deteriorated. It is easy to prove it. It is known to every disinterested observer. Mr. Dulles will be making the mistake of his life if he stands pat on his policies and the record.

The alternative is for the Republicans to take the lead in recognizing that the world situation has changed and is changing, and that United States policies must be adapted to these new developments.

This is not only a sound approach, it is the best political approach. For if the Republicans stand pat, the Democrats have only to criticize. If the Republicans reappraise, review, and prepare to revise, the Democrats have to be "constructive," have that is to say, to propose answers to the unanswered questions.

Some Democratic Errors.

On the Democratic side, the question is also whether they choose to stand pat or whether they put themselves in the position of looking honestly for the answers to the new developments. Standing pat for the Democrats means, of course, standing pat on the Truman record and pretending that everything was going splendidly until the Republicans came in.

In my view, the acid test of whether a Democrat is being bipartisan and "constructive" is whether he admits that at least some of our worst problems today originated in mistakes made by the Democrats.

I refer, for example, to the premature attempt to rearm Germany in 1950 which has ruined the promising movement towards a European community, to the irreparable mistake of crossing the thirty-eight parallel in Korea which turned a U.N. police action into a Chinese-American war, to the over-militarization of the containment policy which has jeopardized our relations with India and several other uncommitted nations.

Perhaps we should add to our specifications, saying that in addition to moderation, constructiveness, non-partisanship, we are looking also for some self-criticism and that most unpolitical of all qualities, a saving humility.

HEBREW UNIVERSITY FUND

DISCUSSED AT LUNCHEON

Plans to launch a campaign to obtain $150,000 here next year for reconstruction of the Hebrew University at Jerusalem were discussed yesterday at an informal luncheon meeting of 20 leaders in the St. Louis Jewish community at the Columbian Club, 1124 Locust street.

The campaign will be part of a $300,000 drive for the university. $100,000 of which will be sought in this country. $150,000 from Israel and $50,000 from other countries.

The group was addressed yesterday by Samuel N. Katzin, of Chicago, national co-chairman of the American Friends of the Hebrew University, an organization sponsoring the campaign. Original buildings of the university were partitioned off in 1948 into the "no-man's-land" between Israel and the Arab nations.

SUGGESTS PART-TIME POLICE

FOR SCHOOLS IN COUNTY

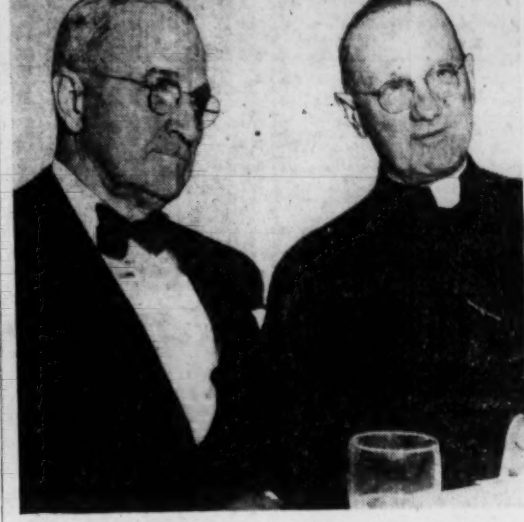

Recommendation that a part-time police force be employed to watch school crossings in unincorporated areas of the county has been made to the County Council and County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews by Walter L. Metcalfe, chairman of the St. Louis County Board of Police Commissioners, it was announced today.

Metcalfe suggested in a letter that elderly men or adult women be employed for four hours each school day at the crossings. He said that the county police department never has more than 13 officers on patrol duty in any one shift, so it is impossible for the department to provide the necessary protection in the vicinity of the 55 school buildings in the unincorporated areas.

Austria, Spain Resume Ties. VIENNA, Dec. 2 (UP)—The Government announced last night that Austria and Spain had agreed to resume diplomatic relations.

Truman Gives 1400 Young People

A Lesson on Their Government

Former PRESIDENT HARRY S. TRUMAN with ARCH-BISHOP JOSEPH E. RITTER at National Catholic Youth Council banquet last night at Hotel Statler.

President Can Get Nomination or Pick

Man for It, He Says—'I've Tried It Twice and It Works.'

The President of the United States has the power, as head of his political party, to obtain re-nomination for the presidency for himself, or he can dictate his party's choice for nomination to his successor, former President Harry S. Truman declared last night.

This is one of the powers of the Presidency which Truman outlined in a breezy and informal address to 1400 young persons and leaders of the National Council of Catholic Youth, at a banquet last night at Hotel Statler.

"He Knows It Works." The former President indicated he was speaking from experience when he spoke of the tremendous political power of the President and his ability to control the nominations voted by his party's national convention.

"I know," he said, "I've tried it twice and it works." Truman did not elaborate on his exercise of this influence in party matters. But he apparently was referring to the fact that after succeeding to the Presidency from the office of Vice President, he won nomination for a new term in 1948.

And again was instrumental in the nomination of Adlai E. Stevenson in 1952.

Study of Constitution.

Assuming the role of a friendly schoolmaster, Truman held the attention of his youthful audience with an informative discourse not only on the Presidency, but on the United States Constitution, which he declared is "the greatest document ever devised for the purpose of running a government."

Truman urged his listeners to "read, re-read and study" the Constitution, particularly the Bill of Rights and the Preamble, which he described as "the most beautiful sentence ever written."

He emphasized that the objectives of the Constitution, as set out in the Preamble, included the important phrase: "Promote the general welfare." He declared that the United States Supreme Court "took 150 years studying the Constitution before finding the general welfare."

Violinist to Appear With Orchestra Tomorrow Night, Sunday.

Jascha Heifetz, famed violinist, will appear as soloist with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in concerts at Kiel Auditorium Opera House tomorrow evening at 8:40 o'clock and Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The concerts will be under direction of Vladimir Golschmann, conductor and music director of the orchestra. Golschmann returned recently from a guest appearance with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Heifetz, who made his American debut in Carnegie Hall, New York City, at age 16, will be heard here in the Brahms Concerto in D Major. The orchestra also will play "The Capital of the World" Suite by George Antheil, and Max Regers' "Variation on a Theme by Mozart."

Heifetz will take a long sabbatical leave from concert touring at the end of the current season. He has traveled more than 2,000,000 miles in his career. He has made four motion pictures and a large number of recordings.

Tickets for both Saturday and Sunday concerts are on sale at the symphony box office at Kiel Auditorium and at the Aeolian Co. ticket offices, 1004 Olive street and 7754 Forsyth boulevard, Clayton.

WINNERS ANNOUNCED

IN BRIDGE TOURNAMENT

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Dec. 2 (AP)—Mrs. Helen Sobel, New York, and Sidney Silodor, Philadelphia, teamed to win the National Contract Bridge League's winter tournament yesterday.

Mrs. Sobel and Silodor scored 267 points in the field of 120 pairs. Mrs. Ralph Kempner, Santa Monica, Calif., and George Raper, New York, won second place with 262.

Mrs. Paula Levin, New York, and Albert Weiss, Chicago, were third with 261.

More than 1500 bridge players are playing in the nine-day tournament.

Convention Closes.

Last night's banquet was the concluding event in the Catholic Youth Council's third national convention. A highlight of the meeting was the celebration of a pontifical solemn high mass at Kiel Auditorium.

Truman refrained from making any political statements during his visit to the city yesterday and a scheduled press conference was canceled. He attended a luncheon at the Statler given by Mark R. Holloran, Democratic National Committeeman for Missouri, at which plans were discussed for a fund-raising dinner here for the benefit of the Truman Library.

About 25 business and professional leaders attended.

PAUL MUNI BACK

IN ROLE HE LEFT FOR EYE SURGERY

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—Paul Muni returned last night to his starring role in the Broadway play, "Inherit the Wind," which he had to leave three months ago for an eye operation.

Muni received a thunderous ovation when he first appeared on stage in his portrayal of lawyer Clarence Darrow in the drama based on the Scopes "monkey" trial 30 years ago in Dayton, Tenn.

It was announced last night that Melvyn Douglas, who substituted for Muni, will star in a Chicago production of the same play.

FRATERNITIES' INCREASED

CIVIC SERVICE IS CITED

Fraternities are performing more civic and philanthropic services, and colleges and universities are becoming more aware of these purposes, Herbert L. Brown, chairman of the National Interfraternity Conference, said today at the group's opening session at Hotel Jefferson.

Past hazing of fraternity pledges has been replaced by work on community projects, Brown said at the organization's forty-seventh annual meeting. He summed up progress made by the Conference in bettering the relationship between fraternities, their colleges and communities in the last year.

"The fraternity system's future depends on success in proving its invaluable to institutions of higher learning," Brown said. Fraternity problems will be discussed tonight and tomorrow. The meeting concludes tomorrow night with a banquet and address by Dr. George A. Bowman, president of Kent State University.

WOMEN TO CAMPAIGN

FOR MENTAL HEALTH

Club Federation Seeking Periodic Psychiatric Examination of Teachers.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—The president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs yesterday announced a drive to "mobilize for mental health."

Included in the promotion of state legislation requiring periodic health and psychiatric examinations of school teachers, Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman, Jerseyville, Ill., who heads the world's largest organization of women, told a press conference the campaign will be carried on with the same intensity as the federation's drive to rid newsstands of comic books dealing with crime, horror and sex.

"That campaign got results as we expect this one will," said Mrs. Chapman.

She said the mental health program had been worked out in co-operation with the National Association for Mental Health, the American Psychiatric Association, the National Institute of Mental Health of the United States Department of Welfare, the National Education Association and leading psychiatrists.

The National Education Association has appointed a committee to work with the federation on phases of the program affecting teachers.

Mrs. Chapman stressed there was no thought of singling out teachers as a group who should be required to take health and psychiatric examinations. In fact, the program calls on the clubwomen "to promote your own mental health"—but explained that schools are basic to efforts to help potentially maladjusted youngsters early.

The program is under the direction of Mrs. Van Hook Stubbs, Wortham, Tex., chairman of the federation's mental health division.

SHOE STRIKERS TO RETURN TO JOBS MONDAY

Pacts With International and Brown Approved by Union Representatives.

Striking production and maintenance employees of International Shoe Co. and Brown Shoe Co. will return to work Monday following approval yesterday by representatives of AFL and CIO shoe workers of similar two-year contracts with each firm.

The new contracts affect 20,000 workers in 38 International plants in Missouri, Illinois, Arkansas and Kentucky, who walked out Nov. 7, and 9,000 workers in 21 Brown plants in Missouri, Illinois, Arkansas and Tennessee, who have been on strike since Nov. 8. Both firms have their offices here but neither manufactures shoes in St. Louis.

The new contracts provide for an immediate base pay increase of 5 per cent, retroactive to Oct. 3, and an additional 3 per cent on April 2, 1956. Present average hourly wage is $11.22.

Pension Proposals.

One provision still subject to future union approval is a pension plan amounting to an additional 3 per cent rise. The companies are to submit pension proposals to the unions no later than April 1, 1957.

The contracts also provide for a union shop in states where it is legal. Arkansas law forbids the union shop.

A spokesman for International said an estimate of the cost of the wage increase was not immediately available. The unions originally sought an 8 per cent increase immediately and a 4 per cent hike in the second year of a two-year contract. At that time the company estimated the cost of that increase at $16,000,000.

The contracts also provide for the closing of all plants for a two-week period each year in June.

There is no change in the number of paid holidays, which now total six a year. All employees will be paid for the two holidays, Veterans day and Thanksgiving day, that occurred during the strike.

Brown Pact Approved. Approval of the contract with Brown Shoe Co. was reached at 5 p.m. yesterday at a meeting of representatives of the AFL Boot and Shoe Workers' Union and CIO United Shoe Workers with Commissioner A. E. Johnson of the Federal Mediation Service.

Announcement of the settlement with Brown was withheld until approval of the International contract proposal was made at 9:15 p.m. at a meeting of union representatives of the 38 International plants at the York Hotel.

Members of locals of each of the unions will vote on whether to accept the contracts, but approval by their representatives is considered tantamount to a final settlement.

Pickets at International offices, warehouses and other buildings here were removed yesterday and the company shipped shoes all day yesterday. Other pickets will be removed as soon as they can be notified, a union spokesman said.

U.S. HAS RIGHT TO SET MINIMUM TEXTILE WAGE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (UP)—Southern textile manufacturers with government contracts today considered appealing to the Supreme Court a ruling that they must pay a minimum $1 an hour wage. Many southern mills now have an 87-cent minimum.

The United States court of appeals ruled yesterday that the federal government has authority to set minimum wages in the textile industry on a nationwide basis.

The textile manufacturers had contended that under the 1936 public contracts law the Secretary of Labor could only set minimum wages on a local basis.

The labor department said the decision "undoubtedly affects millions of workers" whose minimum wages are guaranteed by the Walsh-Healy act covering plants working on government contracts.

REMOTE-CONTROLLED TRAIN MAKES 10-MILE TEST TRIP

LARCHMONT, N.Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—Seventy-five persons took what was termed the first remote-controlled train trip in this country yesterday.

The group, mostly executives of the New Haven Railroad, made a 10-mile round trip between Larchmont and Rye, N.Y., in a self-propelled rail car which was operated with electronics equipment set up on a Larchmont station platform.

The event was described as nothing more than a demonstration, the railroad saying it has no plans for such operation of regular trains. The electronics equipment was developed by the Union Switch and Signal Division of Westinghouse Air Brake Co.

CITIZENS COUNCILS WANT OPPOSITION TO INTEGRATION

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 2 (AP)—A citizens council rally yesterday endorsed the idea of a south-wide organization to lead a big non-violent public opinion battle against racial integration.

Senator James Eastland of Mississippi proposed the regional commission, which he said should be financed by public tax funds. He addressed citizens council members from throughout Mississippi.

HURT FIGHTING ATTACKERS IN GARAGE NEAR HOME

Arthur Albertstein, 5535 Pershing avenue, was attacked last night by three men as he was parking his automobile in the garage at the rear of his home, he reported to police. Two of the men were armed with knives, he said.

Albertstein said he saw the men, two of whom were Negroes, as they neared the car. He told police he threw his wallet on the floor of the machine and grabbed a wrench. He was knocked unconscious in the fight that followed. He was treated at City Hospital for bruises and a fractured left wrist.

The wallet was not found by the assailants, Albertstein told police. He is a business representative of the United Optical Workers.

FORMER CITY ATTORNEY IN WELLSTON DIVORCED

Mrs. Victor A. Ochterbeck obtained a divorce from the former Wellston city attorney in Clayton yesterday. Circuit Judge John A. Witthaus granted the divorce on grounds of general indignities.

Ochterbeck, elected in April 1954 to a third two-year term in the $100-a-month post, has not been reported seen in the city since last June 27, when he left his law office at 1459 Hodiarnon avenue and failed to return. A successor as city attorney was appointed in October.

Mrs. Ochterbeck testified they were married Sept. 10, 1947. She has not seen her husband since June, she said. She testified she had received only $60 of payments of $135 a month in temporary alimony and $100 on account of attorney fees required under a May 6 court order. She was granted a total of $2500 in alimony yesterday by Judge Witthaus.

Largest Oil Tanker Launched. BARROW-IN-FURNESS, England, Dec. 2 (AP)—The world's biggest oil tanker, the 47,750-ton Spyros Niarchos, was launched here today. Vickers Armstrong built it for Greek shipping magnate Stavros Niarchos, who attended the launching ceremony. The tanker is 737 feet long. Turbines of 20,000 horsepower will drive it at a maximum speed of 17 knots.

CARL BIANCHI PLEADS GUILTY IN 3 CASES

Sentences to Run Concurrently With Present 20-Year Term.

Carl J. (Dutch) Bianchi, former representative of the AFL Hoisting Engineers' Union now serving 20 years in prison for labor racketeering, pleaded guilty of attempted extortion in three additional cases today in United States District Court.

In each case, United States District Judge Ruben M. Hulen imposed a sentence of five years, each sentence to run concurrently with the two now being served. Some counts of each indictment were dismissed when Bianchi pleaded guilty of attempting to extort $23,729 from three contractors.

Lawrence A. Thompson, former business agent of a Cape Girardeau (Mo.) teamsters' union, also pleaded guilty to an indictment in which he and Bianchi were charged with attempting to obtain $21,630 from a contractor. His sentence was set at five years, to be served concurrently with sentences totaling 22 years he is now serving.

Bianchi and Thompson, together with two other convicted racketeers, William Foster and E. M. Secor, officials of the AFL Laborers' Union, were brought from federal prison to answer to additional charges.

Cases involving Foster and Secor were passed to Monday. A racketeering charge involving Lawrence A. Callanan, former boss of the AFL Steamfitters' Union, was passed by Judge Hulen to Jan. 17. Callanan is serving a 12-year term for racketeering.

U.S. BUSINESS MEN, S. KOREA REACH TAX AGREEMENT

SEOUL, Dec. 2 (AP) — The three-month tax dispute between the South Korean government and foreign business men in Korea ended today to the mutual satisfaction of both parties, the American Chamber of Commerce here announced.

The South Korean government had no comment.

The settlement basically provides for future application of a traders' sales tax, amounting to about $850 on $1,000,000 sale, instead of the transaction tax levied by the Koreans. This tax would have resulted in about a $10,000 tax on each $1,000,000 sale.

The Chamber of Commerce said the Republic of Korea agreed to write off between 90 and 95 per cent of what the chamber called unpaid "retroactive taxes."

2 ADDICTS GET 2 YEARS EACH FOR NARCOTICS SALES

Kenneth Earl Shaw, 3700 block of Windsor place, and Alex Black, 3800 block of Delmar boulevard, today were sentenced to two years each by United States District Judge George H. Moore after they pleaded guilty of selling narcotics to federal agents, each on three occasions.

Judge Moore recommended that Shaw and Black, Negroes, both addicts, be confined to the Government hospital at Lexington, Ky. Shaw was on parole from City Workhouse on a one-year prison sentence for burglary and larceny at the time he made the sales.

Assistant United States Attorney Robert Tucker told the court Lila Leeds, a movie actress, who said she was confined to the same hospital for drug addiction for seven and one-half months related she started using narcotics again when she was released. He asserted addicts are not being cured at the hospital but are treated with a substitute to satisfy their craving. Judge Moore said as long as the Government maintains the hospital, addicts will be sent there.

ARCHBISHOP IMPLIES U.S. WOULD MEDIATE IN CYPRUS

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Dec. 2 (AP).—Archbishop Makarios implied yesterday that the United States had offered to mediate the Cyprus dispute which threatens the unity of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's East Mediterranean flank.

"It gives us great pleasure to note the United States is interested in helping to find a solution to the Cyprus question," interested in helping to find a solution to the Cyprus question," the black-robed leader of the Greek Orthodox majority in this restive British colony said in an interview.

The Archbishop has had several talks lately with United States Consul Raymond Courtney.

Britain, Greece and Turkey are NATO members involved in the dispute. Britain intends to hold the island as a Middle East defense base. Greece is sympathetic to demands of islanders of Greek blood for self-determination. Turkey, which once held Cyprus, wants it back if the British leave.

ROOMING HOUSE IS CALLED FIRE HAZARD; $500 FINE

Henry Dawson, 3400 block of Laclede avenue, was given the maximum penalty, a $500 fine, by Police Judge Morris Rosenthal today when he was found guilty of operating a rooming house without a license at 4004 Delmar boulevard. Dawson announced that he would appeal the case.

A housing inspector for the Board of Public Safety, William McCullough, testified that the building was a fire hazard, and eight persons living on the second and third floors used a common bathroom.

The judge said he would assess the maximum penalty in cases involving a fire hazard.

FIGHT BY YOUNG DEMOCRATS ON RIGHTS QUESTION

Battle Over Resolution Looms as Convention Prepares to Hear Stevenson.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 2 (UP)—A fight over civil rights loomed today and delegates to the national convention of Young Democratic Clubs of America prepared to hear an address by presidential candidate Adlai E. Stevenson.

Stevenson was due to speak this afternoon at Municipal Auditorium.

A civil rights resolution commending states which comply with desegregation rulings barely won approval by a resolution committee vote of 9-8.

Most Southern delegates on the committee, and a few Northerners, fought the resolution for fear that it would hurt the Democrats in the South.

However, a "no compromise" argument advanced by California delegates won out.

The issue possibly will be fought out on the convention floor tomorrow.

Kefauver Speaks.

The civil rights argument here last night followed a keynote address by Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, attacking the Administration's foreign policy.

While all candidates for the presidency of the Young Democrats deny any tie-up with the contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination, indications were strong that friends of Stevenson, the 1952 nominee, New York Gov. Averell Harriman and Kefauver are active in the race.

Neil McCall of Alabama, one of two leading candidates, was reported to have the backing of both Harriman and Kefauver, while Colorado's David Bunn was considered in the Stevenson camp.

Talk by Williams. Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams addressed the convention this morning.

Williams told reporters he still objects to the "moderation" stand of Stevenson, the 1952 nominee. Williams criticized Stevenson's position in a talk at Denver last week.

"I am not in a state of war with Governor Stevenson at any time," he said today. "I disagreed with a policy at that time (recently in Denver). I still disagree with it."

Williams told the convention that some people have sought to "make it appear that a crevice has split the Democratic party" because of his Denver speech.

"These fellows either don't understand, or don't want to appear to understand the Democratic party. This is the time of year we hammer out our

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

LONDON, Dec. 2 — Prime Minister Eden told the House of Commons yesterday that the British Government is proceeding with plans to welcome Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev here next April in spite of the remarks uncomplimentary to Britain which they made in their visit to India.

Asked whether he anticipates "good results" from their visit, he replied: "Hope springs eternal."

Some London newspapers, irked by Marshal Bulganin's implication that the Western powers are preventing unification of Germany and Khrushchev's assertion that the Nazis were induced by the Western powers to attack the Soviet Union in 1941, have demanded that Britain withdraw its invitation to the Soviet leaders.

Eden told the Commons that Britain, "with its broad democratic intelligence," is too big to be bothered by such matters.

Last of Quadruplets Dies. ALMA, Ga., Dec. 2 (AP)—Georgia, the last of the Nelson quadruplets, died early today and arrangements were made to bury all four in nearby Broxton this afternoon. They were born to Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Nelson Tuesday.

platform on the anvil of public discussion. Our hammer blows are aimed at the anvil, not at our friends."

Stevenson Ends Florida Swing With Hopes High.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 2 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson wound up his first tour of the 1956 presidential campaign today with his right hand aching from handshaking but with hopes buoyed by a reception his supporters said far exceeded expectations.

His handshaking campaign swing down the Florida peninsula gave him a jump on the field in a bid for the state's delegation to the Democratic national convention.

A Stevenson slate is expected to be entered in Florida's presidential preference primary May 29, but the former Illinois Governor said he was not sure at this time whether he would get a chance to return for more active campaigning.

A complication is that the California primary comes only a few days after the Florida primary and the long jump may present a problem.

"But there is no reason I know of at this time why I couldn't enter both primaries," Stevenson said.

The only primary Stevenson said he had made definite arrangements to enter is the Minnesota primary in early March.

Stevenson's principal competition in Florida is expected to come from Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, who had a big following in the Miami area in 1952.

Stevenson and his party left by plane this morning for Oklahoma City to address the National League of Young Democrats.

AGENT WITHHELD PART OF GROUP INSURANCE COST

Admits Diverting Money to Get Business on 13 Employee Welfare Policies.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—William H. Croland, Newark (N.J.) insurance agent, acknowledged before a Senate Labor subcommittee yesterday that he had not turned in the full premiums on 13 group employee policies.

He took the stand after Fredric T. Suss, a subcommittee staff member, had testified Croland had withheld $164,000 of premiums from welfare insurance programs for industrial workers and paid out the diverted funds to get business.

Israel B. Greene, Croland's lawyer, shouted objections when Chairman Paul H. Douglas (Dem., Illinois), characterized withholding of part of the premiums as embezzlement.

Greene contended many questions asked of Croland were "loaded" and finally requested Douglas to ask Croland specifically whether he considered the transactions as embezzlement.

When the chairman complied, Croland said he did not consider it embezzlement.

Suss previously had testified that Croland joined the C. J. Simons Corp. of Newark, which sent most of its business to the Continental Assurance Co., Chicago, to form a separate enterprise to handle group insurance business.

Firm Made Good $111,000.

Suss said Simons had told him he had no knowledge that premiums had been withheld by Croland. Suss said the Simons corporation had made good $11,000 of the $164,000 due Continental. He said the difference was the legitimate commissions, bonuses and such due Simons corporation on the transactions.

Croland said he had been trying for eight months to obtain certain business covering various labor groups and was then told he would have to pay an administrative fee if he was to get the business.

To obtain funds to make such payments, Croland said, he resorted only to the "net premiums" to Continental. He said that in a few cases the home office had allowed a 6 per cent administrative fee.

It was a mistake "as I see it now," Croland said. He added that the money was paid to individuals about whom he had spoken to Suss.

Suss had told the committee Croland used the diverted funds to pay to various people at the suggestion of Jacob J. Levey, an attorney for various employee funds, who died last August.

"When informed by Levey I would have to pay fees, I agreed," Croland said. "I would be told to whom it was to be paid."

"Filthy, Rotten Business." Senator Gordon Allott (Rep., Colorado), a subcommittee member, said "this was a filthy, rotten business which no respectable business would be connected with."

Croland did not openly dispute the $164,000 figure used by Suss but said at one point "the figure we had under discussion was $80,000." He did not amplify that comment.

Suss said the diverted funds were used by Croland as payments to various people, some unlicensed brokers and most of whom did no administrative work on the policies, as a method of getting the business.

Simons later took the stand and said he had known Croland for possibly eight years before joining forces with him. He said he did not know most of the people to whom Croland paid funds. Simons said he co-signed the checks as a matter of routine.

Croland said Simons did not know he had made the deductions.

The subcommittee is engaged in a study to determine whether Congress should pass new laws to protect labor union welfare funds.

NEW SWISS WATCH SUIT FILED BY U.S.

Firms From U.S., Switzerland Named in Anti-Trust Action.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Justice Department today filed a second civil anti-trust action against leading concerns in the Swiss and American watch industry. It charged a conspiracy to restrain trade in the watchmaking machinery field.

Attorney General Brownell said the action was filed this morning in United States District Court at New York City for the purpose of making Swiss-made machines available to American companies seeking to manufacture watches.

In October 1954, the department filed an anti-trust suit in the same court against 24 Swiss and American watch companies, charging violations of the anti-trust laws and the Wilson Tariff Act in the distribution of watches, alleging they had combined to restrict manufacture at fixed prices.

In that case, the Swiss concerns challenged the right of the American Government to take action against them. The New York court ruled last July that this Government had jurisdiction in view of the continuous business activity of these companies in the United States.

The Federal Suisse des Associations de Fabricants d'Horlogerie, of Bienne, Switzerland, known in the trade as F.H. and its American agent, the Watchmakers of Switzerland Information Center of New York City, headed the list of defendants in the new suit filed today. They had been named in the previous suit.

The new action also named as defendants: Bulova Watch Co., Jackson Heights, Long Island, N. Y.; Hamilton Watch Co., Lancaster, Pa.; Waltham Watch Co., Waltham, Mass.; Elgin National Watch Co., Elgin, Ill.; Carl Hirschmann Co., Manhasset, Long Island, N. Y.; and Russell, Holbrook & Henderson, Inc., of New York City.

The Justice Department said the watchmaking machinery involved in the case is manufactured in Switzerland and marketed in the United States under highly restrictive agreements.

The alleged agreements, the department said, require American users of the machines to confine their purchases of watch parts to Swiss sources.

TEXTRON DEAL TO TAKE OVER WESTERN UNION CABLE FAILS

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—Negotiations by Textron-American, Inc., to take over Western Union Telegraph Co.'s cable system have fallen through. The disclosure came in a joint statement last night from Walter P. Marshall, president of Western Union, and Royal Little, board chairman of Textron-American.

A basic agreement, reached by the two companies last June 30, called for Textron to acquire cable leases under which Western Union rents five trans-Atlantic cables from the Anglo-American Telegraph Co., Ltd. It required the consent of Anglo-American to assignment of the lease and release of Western Union from further liability under the lease which runs to the year 2010.

Anglo-American declined to give that consent, it was said, on the basis that the proposed sale would reduce security of its income and capital.

MOROCCO RAIDS CONTINUE DESPITE SULTAN'S EFFORTS

RABAT, French Morocco, Dec. 2 (AP)—Nationalist raids, sabotage and other violence continued in Morocco today despite Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef's efforts to pacify the country through formation of a new government.

Armed Nationalists wearing helmets and khaki uniforms made several raids last night near Berkane, a town of about 8000 in eastern Morocco near the Algerian border.

On group felled 72 telephone poles. Others burned hayricks, and a third group sabotaged construction materials at Moulaya dam, 25 miles from Berkane.

CHARLES E. TAYLOR

MAKER OF WRIGHT BROTHERS' FIRST ENGINE DESTITUTE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2 (AP)—The man who built the airplane engine for the Wright brothers' first flights at Kitty Hawk, N.C., is in Los Angeles County Hospital—a destitute charity case.

Charles E. Taylor, 87 years old, was admitted to the hospital Nov. 19, suffering from asthma and general debility. It was reported yesterday that he still receives $800 a year from a fund left by the late Orville Wright who, with his late brother Wilbur, made the pioneer flights in 1903. He apparently has no other source of income.

Taylor went to work in the Wrights' cycle shop at Dayton as an $18-a-week mechanic.

A hospital spokesman said the county may place Taylor in a sanitarium or rest home unless a private benefactor comes to his aid.

PRUETT CARTER, ARTIST, KILLS WIFE, SON AND SELF

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 2 (AP)—The bodies of magazine illustrator Pruett Carter, his wife Theresa, and their son, Deal, were discovered yesterday in their $50,000 home in studio city. Police said Carter, 64 years old, had shot his wife and son, then committed suicide. She was 54 and Deal 35.

A revolver was found by the body of Carter, who had been an illustrator for several nationally known magazines. No notes were found.

A friend of the family, Mrs. Grace Kennedy, told officers Carter had been emotionally upset recently, apparently over the family's contemplated move to Carrollton, Ga., their home had been offered for sale and the Carters had been packing for a month.

Deal Carter, a semi-invalid, was a free lance writer.

COUNTY MUNICIPALITIES INDORSE TRAFFIC PLAN

A master traffic control plan for St. Louis and St. Louis county was indorsed yesterday by the executive committee of the St. Louis County League of Municipalities.

The proposal, made by the special committee of the Chamber of Commerce of Metropolitan St. Louis, recommended that the 96 county municipalities adopt uniform traffic ordinances and that the master traffic control plan adopted in St. Louis in 1953 be studied for possible extension to the county.

The league will take up the proposal at its regular meeting Dec. 15. Mayor Sterling P. Davidson of Maplewood, a member of the executive committee, predicted a favorable reception to the plan.

CAPITOL PHONE OPERATOR RETIRE AFTER 42 YEARS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—Miss Nena Thomas didn't report to work yesterday. She wasn't even home to answer her telephone.

That's understandable. After 42 years and millions of calls on the Capitol switchboard she hung up her earphones as chief operator and called it "retired" at the end of the day's work Wednesday.

She remembers back in 1913 when the Capitol had 900 telephones and eight regular operators. There are 2400 telephones and 76 operators today.

Buffalo Steaks.
EDMONTON, Alberta, Dec. 2 (AP)—Five hundred buffalo will be shot next week to keep the Elk Island Park herd within limits that can live on available grazing land. The 250,000 pounds of meat will be sold through normal trade channels by a Calgary firm. About 1000 buffalo will remain in the park.

A.M.A. CONDEMNS FREE SALK VACCINE

Doctors Assail Present Set-up as 'Violation of Free Enterprise.'

BOSTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—The American Medical Association adopted a resolution yesterday condemning free distribution to the public by voluntary health organizations and Government agencies of Salk polio vaccine.

The resolution called on the A.M.A. trustees to call for "immediate termination of such practice" except for individuals financially unable to pay for the vaccine.

A companion resolution condemned the present set up for distributing the vaccine as a "violation of the principles of free enterprise and sound medical practice."

The A.M.A. contended that "once proven," all vaccines henceforth should enter the usual channels of distribution.

The resolution opposing free distribution was introduced by the delegation from Texas, 'Overwork' Stresses.

A psychiatrist told the convention that new bosses constantly demanding more production and never giving praise are to blame for a large proportion of emotional illness.

In a survey of 91 cases of supposed "overwork" stress, Dr. Jackson A. Smith found similar complaints coming from persons in such varied occupations as vice president, office secretary or railroad section hand. He suggested the lowered morale and efficiency apparently would be a matter of economic concern to employers.

Dr. Smith, professor of neurology and psychiatry at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine, found that work itself, apparently, caused only seven of the 91 cases studied.

Unwise Supervision.

He said that unwise supervision, observation of a severe illness in another employee, an already-existing state of tension, or a physical injury were the precipitating factors among the remaining 84 patients.

"Disagreement with immediate supervisors caused 49 patients to become emotionally ill, he reported. The trouble usually began, he said, with the hiring of a new supervisor who "believed the most efficient method of obtaining production was to constantly demand and never praise."

"Except for the wording," Dr. Smith reported, "the complaints were the same whether the patient was one of the lesser vice presidents of a national concern, a secretary of a large office, or a section hand doing manual labor for a railroad."

PLUMBER RECEIVES ONE-YEAR TERM FOR FHA LOAN FRAUDS

Kenneth Asher, a plumber formerly of Caruthersville, Mo., was sentenced to serve one year in prison today by United States District Judge Roy W. Harper. Asher pleaded guilty last Friday of making false statements to obtain Federal Housing Administration loans.

Assistant United States Attorney Forrest Boecker told the court one of Asher's employees in Caruthersville solicited residents for plumbing improvements and Asher made out the papers for the FHA loan. In one case he obtained a loan of $2290, gave the customer $1000 to start a cleaning and dyeing shop and did a small amount of plumbing work in the customer's home, Boecker said. Asher obtained a total of only $1500 for himself in all cases, the attorney said.

In sentencing him, Judge Harper said: "I don't think the defendant is telling the truth. I would be inclined to put you on probation if you told me the truth." Asher's sentence will start Jan. 9 so he can spend Christmas with his family at Stockton, Calif.

EX-LAW PROFESSOR FAILS IN FIGHT AGAINST ALCOHOL

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (AP)—William G. Wood, 68 years old, former law professor whose court-fostered efforts to renounce alcoholism failed, was taken today to Kankakee state hospital as a ward of the state.

Wood was befriended by Municipal Judge Hyman Feldman last January when he showed up in a line of skid row derelicts.

Appointed a consultant to Feldman at a small daily fee, Wood made apparent good progress at rehabilitation until mid-May when he fell back in the line-up of disorderly conduct defendants.

Several further attempts to regain the status of solid, sober citizen went awry, and Judge Feldman ordered a psychiatric examination for the former Kent Law School professor two weeks ago.

Flashes of Life

Chief Offender. FAIRBORN, O. (AP)—Sally Driving day had a special significance for Police Chief J. M. McCalla. He was involved in the first accident of the day—a minor one, however.

Giving Up Nothing. ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—Randolph P. Booker's automobile smashed into a telephone pole and caught fire.

Booker was charged with reckless driving. He pleaded guilty and Municipal Judge A. R. Imes imposed a $100 fine but agreed to suspend it if Booker would give up his license for 30 days. Booker agreed and said, "I don't have anything to drive anyway."

Burned Up at Cook. MOSCOW, Idaho (AP)—College students, who sometimes hang their coaches in effigy, gave the rope a new twist at the University of Idaho. Students at Willis Sweet Hall, a men's dormitory, "hanged" their cook.

TEMPORARY BRIDGE BREAKS 40 FALL IN DRY RIVER BED

EAGLE PASS, Tex., Dec. 2 (AP)—A temporary bridge across the Rio Grande collapsed today, throwing about 40 people 20 feet to the dry river bed and injuring 15 to 20 persons.

The bridge was temporary structure used until the new Eagle Pass international bridge, opened only yesterday, could be brought into use. The old bridge washed out in 1954.

The bridge was made up of the concrete flooring of an old bridge, supported by pilings which had been driven into the river bed three or four months ago.

2 U.N. DOCTORS KIDNAPED BY ARMED BAND IN BURMA

RANGOON, Dec. 2 (AP)—Reliable reports said a band of armed men yesterday kidnaped two doctors, an Italian and an Indian, from a World Health Organization office at Maymo, a hill resort 300 miles north of Rangoon. The WHO is affiliated with the United Nations.

The doctors are N. Postiglione, the Italian, and G. Sanvasivan. Both are serving as advisers to the Burmese government on malaria. They apparently are being held for ransom.

The reports said the WHO office was ransacked by the band.

PARMELLEE CO. FILES SUIT FOR $8,500,000

Result of Chicago Baggage Deal Leading to ICC Head's Resignation.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (AP)—Parmelee Transportation Co. filed suit yesterday seeking $8,500,000 from railroads and others for whom it conducted a depot transfer service for 102 years.

Parmelee lost this business Oct. 1 to a newly organized concern. A Senate inquiry into the deal led to the resignation last week of Hugh Cross, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Parmelee contended 21 railroads, the Western Passenger Association and three Chicago depot companies should pay it $7,000,000 in improperly withheld payments for a passenger and baggage service and $1,500,000 for improper diversion of traffic to other haulers.

Lee A. Freeman, Parmelee attorney, said the suit was an outgrowth of the transfer of the former Parmelee business to the Railroad Transfer Service, headed by John L. Keeshin, Chicago trucking magnate.

Parmelee alleged that despite an agreement between it and the defendants to use Parmelee services exclusively for a set rate, the railroads had employed outside agencies and "concealed and withheld" the true amount due Parmelee.

Coupons for Parmelee transfer service were sold travelers as part of their railroad tickets when their routings required a change of depots in Chicago.

The transfer business was shifted to the Keeshin concern on short notice, Parmelee protested vigorously and for a time competed with the new line for hauls to and from stations.

Reports of the dispute reached Washington and a Senate inquiry was made into the question of whether Cross, Republican and two-term lieutenant governor of Illinois, used his influence as ICC chairman to shift the contract.

Cross was questioned privately and investigators did not announce the result. A Republican source reported that Cross "admitted indiscretion in contacting two railroad presidents but denied soliciting favorable consideration" for Keeshin's firm.

AIRLIFT BEGINS TO COLOMBIA'S FLOODED AREAS

PANAMA, Dec. 2 (AP)—The United States Air Force Caribbean command planned to begin an airlift to flooded areas of Colombia today. Medical supplies requested by a survey team which flew to Barranquilla made up the first plane's cargo.

The survey team estimated half the 110,000 persons living in the flooded Magdalena valley were homeless and said it would be three months before conditions returned to normal.

The floods, which have hit the states of Atlantico, Magdalena and Bolivar, started three weeks ago.

Local supplies of food and medical supplies had been exhausted, the survey team said.

GUIDED MISSILE GUARDED BY 2 JET PLANES CRASHES

ALAMOGORDO, N.M., Dec. 2 (INS)—Air Force officials reported today a guided missile apparently escaped from two "guarding" jet planes yesterday and crashed near Magdalena in western New Mexico. It carried no explosives but did carry classified equipment.

Roads leading into the isolated crash area were blocked off by air police to keep sightseers away.

Officials declined to say whether the B-61 missile, known as the Matador, was being controlled from Holloman Air Force Base or from one of the two jet planes accompanying it.

CIVIL LIBERTIES CHAMPIONS SEE SIGNS OF VICTORY

Courts Have Implemented Integration Ruling, Struck at 'Faceless Accusers.'

WASHINGTON, Dec. (AP)—Freedoms and rights of citizens are being staked out, more clearly by the courts.

Some champions of civil liberties interpret recent decisions as portents of a banner year for them.

With the historic "separate but equal" doctrine of racial segregation dead as a matter of law, courts have been moving into other fields, particularly the controversial question of whether a citizen has the legal right to face his accusers.

He always has had this right in criminal cases, where all the evidence is taken in public and put on the record. But he hasn't had it in all things, such as when he seeks a passport. It's been the practice in passport cases, as in the government loyalty-security program, to rely, in part at least, on "confidential information."

Two Major Decisions.

Courts recently have handed down two major decisions on the "face-your-accuser" issue.

The most sweeping came Nov. 22 from United States District Judge Luther W. Youngdahl of the District of Columbia.

Youngdahl ruled that in passport cases the State Department must put everything on the record so that the applicant "may have the opportunity to meet it and the court to review it."

Unless the Government appeals and gets this decision overturned by higher courts, it means the State Department no longer can use anything in its confidential files in deciding passport applications.

In a 2-to-1 decision Oct. 26, the United States court of appeals in San Francisco struck down as unconstitutional Coast Guard regulations for screening suspected subversives off ships.

The regulations prevented the accused persons from knowing the source or identity of his accusers. In discarding them, the court majority rejected the same general argument that the Government has used in defending the federal employee security program.

Ruling in Peters Case.

The Supreme Court last year avoided ruling on the "face-your-accuser" issue in the case of Dr. John P. Peters. The court overturned on a technicality a loyalty finding against Dr. Peters, senior professor of medicine at Yale University. Thus the issue of whether Dr. Peters had the right to face and cross-examine his accusers was not reached.

Lawyers generally feel that sooner or later the Supreme Court will come face to face with the issue, finding no other way to dispose of a case. The court traditionally avoids ruling on grave constitutional questions when a case can be disposed of otherwise.

Judge Youngdahl said confidential information "is of unquestionable importance to executive officers in performing their duty, but it should be confined for use in obtaining factual data which may itself be used of record."

"When the basis of action by any branch of the Government remains hidden from scrutiny and beyond practical review, the seeds of arbitrary and irresponsible government are sown," he said, adding:

"More and more the courts have become aware of the irreparable damage which may be done, and is wrought by the secret informer and faceless tale-bearer whose identity and testimony remain locked in confidential files."

Coast Guard Regulations.

The Coast Guard court of appeals said were unconstitutional prohibited the phrasing of charges in any manner which would give an accused seaman any information which would disclose the source or the identity of the accuser.

Judge Walter Pope, who wrote the majority opinion in the case involving six merchant seamen, said the "somewhat comparable security program directed at Government employees has been used to victimize perfectly innocent men."

The Government contended, as it did in the case of Dr. Peters, that to disclose the informants would dry up sources of information and could wreck the security program.

"Such a system," said Judge Pope, "might make more work for the investigating officers and pose more difficulties, but security screening would not be destroyed."

Racial Discrimination.

In the field of racial discrimination, the courts have moved far beyond the Supreme Court's 1954 decision holding unconstitutional separate public schools for whites and Negroes.

In separate decisions Nov. 7, the Supreme Court seemingly scuttled the death knell for racial segregation in all places supported by public funds. It did so by affirming a decision by the United States court of appeals in Richmond that segregation is illegal in public parks and playgrounds, and by reversing decisions by two lower federal courts upholding segregation on public golf courses.

The court acted without hearing arguments on the appeals. The court's two actions thus swept away whatever remained after its school ruling of the old "separate but equal" doctrine. Until then, the separate but equal doctrine, originally laid down in 1896, was the landmark for determining legality of segregation in tax-supported facilities. It meant that segregation was permissible when separate but equal facilities, such as schools, were provided for different races.

No Longer the Law.

The court of appeals at Richmond commented in another case now before the Supreme Court that the separate but equal doctrine can no longer be regarded "as a correct statement of the law." This case involves a South Carolina law directing separation of whites and Negroes on city busses.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, taking its cue from the courts, recently ruled out racial segregation of interstate passengers on trains and busses and in their public waiting rooms and restrooms. It gave railroads directly involved in the proceeding until Jan. 10 to carry out its order.

A variety of cases bearing on civil liberties are pending in the courts. One of them may decide whether Congress can engage in "exposure for exposure's sake," with no legislative purpose directly in mind. The issue here is whether a committee can require a witness who doesn't invoke the privilege against self-incrimination to tell about Communist ties in the distant past.

As the law now stands, a witness who refuses to talk about past Red ties, but fails to say his refusal is based on possible self-incrimination, can be well on the way toward conviction for contempt of Congress. But a witness who claims the privilege against incrimination is almost certain, even if indicted, to be acquitted.

Judges here and elsewhere have been quite busy in recent years in acquitting "Fifth Amendment" witnesses. Judicial interpretations of the privilege against self-incrimination hold that a witness who invokes it can refuse to answer almost any question beyond his name.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Mrs. A. Bell, 4823 McCausland, says: "I would like to add my word to that of the many others I have heard say Baker's Hair Tonic is good for dandruff and itchy scalp. It is absolutely the best, and it is a pleasure for me to recommend such a good product."

RULES FTC LACKS AUTHORITY OVER INSURANCE FIRMS

Examiner Says Agency's Power to Police Misleading Ads Is Limited to 4 States.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—A Federal Trade Commission hearing examiner has put a big dent in the FTC's case against 41 accident and health insurance firms charged with misleading advertising.

Hearing examiner Frank Hier, the FTC announced yesterday, has ruled in the case of one of the 41 firms that the FTC's authority over the insurance companies is limited to four states that do not have laws which "adequately prohibit false, misleading or deceptive advertising."

Many of the other companies charged with deceiving the public through false advertising of accident and health insurance policy terms and benefits have similarly appealed on the ground that the FTC's jurisdiction is limited.

The hearing examiner's decision is not final, and is subject to review by the commission. Hier's ruling was on a motion by Federal Life and Casualty Co. of Battle Creek, Mich.

The company asked that the charges against it be dismissed. It also asked that if the charges were not dismissed that they be limited to advertising of its activities in Rhode Island, Mississippi and the District of Columbia.

Hier denied the motion to dismiss the charges, but granted the motion to limit the area involved to the two states and the district.

He said that all other states except Montana and Missouri have laws "adequately" policing advertising.

SAM YORTY TURNS DOWN JOB OFFER FROM GAMBLERS

LAS VEGAS, Nevada, Dec. 2 (AP)—Former Democratic California Congressman Sam Yorty says he turned down a $50,000-a-year job as manager of the Southern Nevada Hotel Association.

Yorty said yesterday he declined the job of promoting good will for the hotels because he wants to continue in California politics. The job was sponsored by the hotels and the gambling interests.

Yorty has been mentioned as a possible candidate against Senator Thomas Kuchel (Rep.), California in 1956.

Diver Trapped 9 Hours in River Rescued; Ready to Dive Again

Diver JOSEPH R. TALLARICO stepping from decompression chamber in which he spent recovery period after being trapped far below surface of Patuxent river near Solomons, Md., for almost nine hours yesterday.

SOLOMONS, Md., Dec. 2 (AP)—Joe Tallarico, apparently unharmed after being trapped nearly nine hours in the chilly depths of the Patuxent river, said today "I'm ready to go down again right away."

The 35-year-old Navy diver walked unassisted last night from a decompression chamber where he had spent four hours after being lifted from the floor of the river, 120 feet down.

Tallarico, with 10 years' experience as a diver, was caught below when his lines became fouled on an anchor attached to a test mine he had gone down to recover.

Fifteen other Navy divers worked in relays before freeing him. In all, he spent a harrowing 8 hours and 40 minutes below surface of the naval ordnance laboratory test facility about 70 miles southeast of Washington.

Tallarico, who never panicked throughout the ordeal, was so recovered from his brush with death that he did not have to go to a hospital after his decompression treatment to avoid the "bends."

Asked if he would do any more diving, Tallarico grinned and said he was ready to go down "right away."

Then he sobered and told reporters: "The toughest part was the cold. After I had been down four hours I got disgusted—I thought I never would come up again."

Tallarico dived from a Navy launch yesterday morning for a routine job. He was to have spent not more than 18 minutes below.

Tallarico had been in the water about 15 minutes when he reported to Chief Boat-swains Mate John H. Smythe of Belfry, Ky., that his air hose had fouled around the mine anchor.

Boatswains Mate First Class William G. Fisher of Williamsport, Pa., found that Tallarico's air hose, and life line had become so entangled that the diver was literally pinned to the mine.

"I struggled for almost 30 minutes, and I had almost worked Tallarico's lines clear when the tide grabbed me and pulled me away," Fisher said. "It was an awful feeling to have to come to the surface without him."

Other divers went down, one after the other, but could not even reach Tallarico in the now-rushing tide.

Finally Chief Gunner's Mate Gray Renegar managed to get to Tallarico and the slow process of bringing him to the surface—along with the mine on which he was snagged—began.

Because Tallarico had been on the bottom so long, under terrible compression, doctors on the rescue launch warned that bringing him up immediately would kill him. So despite the cold and long exposure, the lifting operation halted every dozen feet or so to give his body a chance to adjust.

AIR FORCE FIRED 404 OF 437 OVER DEROGATORY FILE

Were Listed as Security Risks but Were Not Let Out for That Reason, Official Says.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Air Force said today that 404 of its employees listed as fired as security risks were not discharged for that reason although there was derogatory data of "reasonable gravity" in their files.

John J. Grady, Air Force security chief, hastened to tell questioning Senators, however, that he did not mean to infer the discharged employees were Communists or disloyal.

Close questioning of Grady came after a Senate Civil Service subcommittee placed in the hearing record a letter from Secretary of the Air Force Donald A. Quarles saying 404 of 437 discharged civilian employees were fired under Civil Service regulations.

Under President's Order. The letter said 33 were fired under an executive order issued by President Eisenhower in May 1953, dealing with security. But, his letter said, "there was derogatory information coming within the purview of the criteria" of the President's order in each of the 437 cases.

The subcommittee is investigating the controversial security program set up by Mr. Eisenhower's order.

The order provides for dismissal not only of employees of questionable loyalty but also of drunks, blabbermouths and others deemed unreliable. Thus grounds for dismissal overlap those in civil service regulations.

Grady insisted the Air Force separations of 404 employees were "not for some minor matter" but involved information of "such gravity" that charges were brought and hearings held. Subcommittee counsel Paul E. Hadlick told Grady he was making broad statements "indicating these people have Communist tinges."

"Oh, no, I didn't mean that," Grady replied.

Doesn't Impute Disloyalty.

"You don't infer that they are Communists or disloyal or anything of that kind?" asked Senator Olin D. Johnston (Dem., South Carolina), the subcommittee chairman.

"No, sir," Grady replied. Senator Frank Carlson (Rep., Kansas), noted Quarles' letter said there was derogatory data on each of the dismissed employees and said: "The point I want to make is that they were removed and that they had derogatory information in their files."

Hadlick called on Grady to furnish the subcommittee a detailed breakdown of the causes of the dismissal of the 404.

Grady consented but said it would be a big job, taking time, money and effort.

Hadlick insisted that it be done, saying "a great number of government employees have been impugned by reckless use of figures" in the security program.

Johnston had said earlier that he felt the testimony received by the subcommittee "kind of stomps on the numbers game."

He has accused Republicans of "lying with the program."

"I didn't think they would be apt to bring this up in any campaign in the future."

FOLSOM DEFIES INQUIRY, SENDING PLANES TO GAME

McINTOSH, Ala., Dec. 2 (AP)—Gov. James E. Folsom said today he would order every Alabama National Guard plane to Jacksonville, Fla., on the day Auburn meets Vanderbilt in the Gator Bowl there.

Despite an Air Force investigation into reports that air guard planes have made unauthorized trips to take Folsom and friends to football games, the Governor said last night every aircraft under his command that can fly or roll will be in Jacksonville Dec. 2.

He said they would be sent to Florida on a "special weather mission" that would include a "runway landing inspection" during the morning and a "take-off inspection late that afternoon."

It was not immediately learned how many Air Force planes have been assigned to the Alabama National Guard. One Air Guard colonel said that was classified information.

The Air Force announced last Wednesday at Washington that an investigation has been begun into reported misuse of National Guard planes by Gov. Folsom. The announcement mentioned plane trips to Texas early in the football season and another last week from Dothan to Birmingham.

3 HELD ON EAST SIDE, ADMIT STEALING SAFE AND $2800

Three men who were traced through a pawned stolen typewriter were held today in East St. Louis in connection with the theft of a safe containing $2800 from the Sandefur Bakery, 1701 St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis, on Oct. 23. All have signed statements admitting the burglary and theft, police said.

The typewriter, which police said was taken by William Howlett, of the 1600 block of Gaty avenue, was pawned in a St. Louis pawn shop. The records gave Howlett's name and address. A revolver, also taken in the burglary, was pawned, according to records, by Homer Daniels, of the 1400 block of South J street. A different address was given.

The third man, George Curry, of the 1600 block of Baker avenue, a known companion of the other two, was picked up by police. A fourth man is being sought. All are Negroes. Police said they were directed by the three men to a garage at the rear of 2122 St. Louis avenue where they found the safe buried.

DALTON ASKS COURT TO RULE
NEW CIGARETTE TAX LEGAL

Special to the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 2—Attorney General John M. Dalton asked Cole county circuit court to rule the new Missouri cigarette tax law is constitutional in all respects, in an answer filed yesterday to a suit attacking its validity.

Circuit Judge Sam C. Blair, who last week dismissed the original suit attacking validity of the two-cent-a-package tax law, then permitted the petitioners to file an amended action, said the case would be heard Dec. 14.

The Attorney General's answer was to the amended petition filed by Robert L. and Anne C. Brown of St. Louis, doing business as Brown & Sons Tobacco Co., alleging the tax law was not legally enacted. The act, ratified in a state-wide referendum election last Oct. 4, is scheduled to become effective Jan. 1, 1956.

NUCLEAR REACTOR

IS FLOWN IN NOSE

OF B-36 BOMBER

CINCINNATI, G., Dec. 2 (UP)—General Electric Corp. announced today that a nuclear reactor had been flown in the nose of an Air Force B-36 bomber for the first time.

The reactor did not power the plane, the company said.

The tests were made at Fort Worth, Tex., to show that a working reactor, with its shielding and deflection equipment, could be installed and flown in an airplane. The flight also was tested possible radiation damage to the crew and the plane.

The company said that except for the extended nose, the experimental plane was a converted standard bomber built by Convair, which for several years has been under contract to develop an atomic-powered plane.

ALGERIA REBELS UNDEMOCRATIC, GOVERNOR SAYS

He Argues That 'Totalitarian Fanatics' Would Repress Liberties France Grants.

By BARRETT MCGURN

ALGIERS, Dec. 2—Jacques Soustelle, French Governor of Algeria, insisted yesterday that a victory of the Algerian rebels against the French would mean "infinitely fewer civil liberties" for Algerians than they now enjoy as French citizens.

"The rebels in no way represent a democratic or liberal force," Soustelle said in an interview. "A rather large number of rebel documents are now known and are public. The documents, the statements of the rebels and their acts show that they represent totalitarian, anti-Western fanaticism.

"Whatever may be the faults of the French statute in Algeria, and they should be remedied by reforms such as those I have begun to put into action, the French statute gives the indigenous populations infinitely more civic liberties than would domination by the terrorists."

Soustelle pointed out that Algerian rebels are inflicting mutilations or death "day by day against fellow Moslems."

"If the rebel action coincided with the sentiments and aspirations of the Moslems, why would such counter-attacks against fellow Moslems be called for?" he demanded.

Soustelle mentioned no figures but his aids said that 441 Moslem civilians, including five women and three children, were killed by rebels in the first year of the uprising, ending one month ago, and that 301 were injured and 204 missing.

French civilian losses in the same period as a result of rebel attack were 123 killed, 88 injured and six missing, according to the same figures. The French said they killed 2265 rebels and wounded 649 in the same 12 months.

Soustelle pointed out that Moslem native legislators in Algeria who shunned his reform program two months ago as too little and too late are less vehement now and that consideration of the reforms is underway.

"More and more substantial results" will be possible as the present drive for both reforms and "pacification" goes on, Soustelle said.

STUDENT PARALYZED IN 1953 ACCIDENT RESUMES STUDIES

Robert Boll, 23 years old, has resumed studies at St. Louis University after a swimming accident in 1953 paralyzed him from the chest down and forced him to leave school a year before he was to graduate.

Confined to a wheel chair, Boll is able to attend classes two hours a day, three days a week. His doctors have told him he will be able to increase his hours of attendance next semester and move from Firmin Desloge Hospital, where he now lives, to the university campus.

When the accident occurred, Boll was studying electrical engineering, but now has changed to a major in mathematics and plans to teach. Last June he visited the shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes in France. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. William J. Boll, 3139 Mount Pleasant street.

STRIKE SHUTS DOWN ALL DETROIT DAILIES

Free Press Last to Close—City Without Papers for First Time.

DETROIT, Dec. 2 (UP)—Suspension of publication of the Detroit Free Press, forced by a strike of stereotype workers, left Detroit without daily newspaper service today for the first time in its history.

The strike, entering its second day, had forced the Detroit News and the Detroit Times to cease publication yesterday.

The Free Press, Detroit's only morning paper which got out its Thursday editions before the strike began, posted lay-off notices for all supervisory personnel. The lay-offs became effective at the end of the Friday shifts.

Many employees of the Times also were told not to report to work because of the strike. Staff reporters of both the Times and the Free Press are represented by the CIO American Newspaper Guild. The News staff, which is not represented by the Guild, was ordered to report to work today as usual.

Supporting Strikers.

The Guild reporters had gone to work yesterday. The Guild yesterday adopted a resolution supporting the striking stereotypers "to the fullest extent possible."

It said the stereotypers demanded that an extra crew be provided to process color plates and that they be given a full day's pay regardless of how long they work. It said the union also sought overtime pay for handling any material not used on the same day. The newspaper said this would prevent advance work for big editions such as Sunday's except on an overtime basis. All three papers publish Sunday editions. The publishers' group said these working conditions were not provided for in any other newspaper contracts and stated they would add excessive costs to the publishers.

The strike forced both the Times and the News to suspend publication of their first editions yesterday. The presses stood silent for the remainder of the day and last night the Free Press also shut down its shop.

Refused to Cross Lines. Other mechanical union workers refused to cross the picket lines, but the absence of the stereotypers alone was enough to stop all presses.

Stereotypers make the curved plates which roll out newspapers on rotary presses.

The Free Press, in its final Thursday edition, said two demands not dealing with wages caused the strike.

It said the stereotypers demanded that an extra crew be provided to process color plates and that they be given a full day's pay regardless of how long they work. It said the union also sought overtime pay for handling any material not used on the same day. The newspaper said this would prevent advance work for big editions such as Sunday's except on an overtime basis. All three papers publish Sunday editions. The publishers' group said these working conditions were not provided for in any other newspaper contracts and stated they would add excessive costs to the publishers.

BOY HIT BY AUTO SAVED BY ICE; HE SLIDES ON SIDE

MACON, Mo., Dec. 2 (AP)—Icy road conditions usually are blamed for traffic accidents, but a 5-year-old boy here probably owes his life to the slippery pavement.

Ralph Brammer was hit by an automobile yesterday and knocked down. Instead of being run over, he was pushed ahead of the front wheel for about 100 feet, sliding on his side. The driver was unaware of the boy until he heard shouts. The boy was not seriously hurt.

WORLD WAR II BOMBS EXPLODE, 9 ITALIANS DEAD

PLACENZA, Italy, Dec. 2 (AP)—A truckload of salvaged World War II bombs exploded yesterday, killing nine men. The victims were two Italian army artillery experts, two truck drivers, the owner of a salvage plant and four private policemen.

RED CHINESE ARREST 17, CALL THEM CHIANG SPIES

LONDON, Dec. 2 (UP)—Chinese Communist security agents have arrested "a group of 17 people belonging to Chiang Kai-shek's spy organization," the Moscow radio reported from Peiping today.

The Communist broadcast, quoting the newspaper Tientsin Jin Pao, said the spies operated in Tientsin, Shenyang, Changchun and Shanghai.

The organization infiltrated enterprises, educational establishments and organs of public safety to carry out their activities, the broadcast said.

TITO STARTS TRIP TO ETHIOPIA, WILL ALSO VISIT EGYPT

BELGRADE, Dec. 2 (AP)—President Josip (Tito) Broz was en route today to Ethiopia and Egypt for state visits. He will be absent from his country more than a month.

He sailed on the Navy training ship Galeb from the Adriatic port of Sibenik.

The President is to spend about two weeks in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia's capital, returning the visit to Yugoslavia last summer of Emperor Haile Selassie.

On his way home, he will stop in Egypt. Special significance is seen here in this part of the trip since Tito has been mentioned as a possible mediator between Egypt and the West at odds since Cairo's arms deal with Communist-ruled Czechoslovakia.

Tito met Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser last February when Tito was returning from his state visits to India and Burma. Since then, the Soviet diplomatic drive in the Middle East has developed.

GOV. HARRIMAN HITS 'SURRENDER TO BIG BUSINESS'

Eisenhower 'Wasn't Made' to Be President, Democrat Says in Alabama.

McINTOSH, Ala., Dec. 2 (AP)—Democratic Gov. Averell Harriman of New York praised President Eisenhower as a military leader but declared in an interview yesterday that the Republican leader "wasn't made for the President of the United States."

He charged also that Mr. Eisenhower has "surrendered the country to big business and special interests."

The 64-year-old Governor said: "You hear all this talk of great prosperity in our country today, but who's getting the prosperity? General Motors, which is making one billion dollars in net profits this year?"

"The fine Senator from Wyoming, Senator O'Mahoney, has been holding hearings in Washington to see how the national Administration is tied in with big business."

"This is not the kind of America that you and I believe in and not the kind that should exist."

New Orleans Talk Tonight.

Harriman spent that day at the hunting lodge of Representative Frank Boykin (Dem.), Alabama, then left for New Orleans where he planned to make what he described as an important policy address to-night.

Gov. James E. Folsom of Alabama also was a guest at the Boykin lodge. Harriman shot a 22-pound turkey.

Harriman left unanswered questions as to his status as a probable candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination next year. He has said, however, that he is not an active candidate.

He criticized the President's attitude at the four-power meeting at the summit in Geneva.

"He should have gone, yes," Harriman said, "but he should not have embraced them (the Russians) and told the people they wanted peace as much as we."

The Communists have "gained ground" throughout the world during the Republican Administration, Harriman said.

He added that the Russian leaders Mr. Eisenhower "treated as colleagues" at Geneva are trying "to stir up trouble all over the world. They don't want war but they want to stir up trouble."

Stresses Farmers' Plight.

The Republicans' farm policy is "driving the farmers into bankruptcy," he said, and went on to declare that the nation must go back to 90 per cent parity in farm prices.

He termed the proposed Dixon-Yates power contract as "the biggest steal anybody ever tried to put over." Under the proposal, private interests would have built a power plant to supply electricity in the Tennessee Valley Authority area.

Seeking to refute Mr. Eisenhower's description of TVA as "creeping socialism," Harriman said that the "TVA stands in this area and throughout the country for bringing electricity into the homes of our people."

"The Republicans are trying to cut those electric wires."

In introducing Harriman to about 500 political leaders and friends at a barbecue, Boykin said he was "the next President of the United States—I hope."

Folsom did not speak. When Harriman referred to the late President Roosevelt as a great leader, Folsom gave a rebel yell and shouted: "Truman, too."

Folsom has said he wants Truman to seek the presidency again.

FRANCE PAYS $26,693,637 BALANCE ON 98 U.S. SHIPS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—France paid up today, well ahead of schedule, its $26,693,637.16 balance for 98 surplus United States ships bought after World War II.

Maurice Fouse, financial counselor of the French embassy, handed the check to Maritime Administrator Clarence G. Morse, who inspected it with frank curiosity as "the biggest check I've ever seen."

Payments could have been extended to as late as 1965, but Fouse told newsmen France's position had improved and it was happy to be able to make the prepayment. The debt was originally $74,635,005.22.

ALARM WITHOUT WORD 'FIRE!'
GRAND HAVEN, Mich., Dec. 2 (AP)—A 2-year-old who hadn't learned to say "fire" woke his father in time for him to rescue members of the family from their burning home. Douglas Boyer kept screaming "hotty" until he woke his father, Walter, 26. An overheated furnace had set the house afire.

BRITISH, U.S. VIE FOR AIR RIGHTS IN MIDDLE EAST Accord Sought After English Combine Their Companies in Big New Pool.

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio Copyright, 1955
CAIRO, Dec. 2—Britain and the United States are trying to straighten out a serious conflict of aviation rights and interests in the Middle East. The British are combining their indirectly-held air companies in a big new pool, with headquarters in Beirut, Lebanon. The Americans see in this pool an attempt to dislodge them as sellers of aircraft and as trainers of new national lines. The new pool is headed by former Gen. Sir Duncan Cunningham, and consists of a holding company, the Associated British Airlines (Middle East) Ltd. and the Middle East Aircraft Services Ltd. These are owned jointly by British Overseas Airways, British European Airways, Vickers, and Huntingdon. British and American penetration into the nationalist Middle East countries have taken sharply contrasting forms. The American way is to avoid outright ownership and the charges of "imperialism" it often provokes. The Americans hire themselves out as TWA has done with its management contracts to run the national lines in Saudi Arabia and Ethiopia. The British go in for controlling or outright ownership, and control many more aircraft than the Americans. British Overseas Airways, which tops the new pool, also has paramount interests in the National Airways of Iraq, the Sudanese Republic, the British possessions Cyprus, Malta and Eden—all of which have extensive lines—and the rich sheikhdom of Kuwait. The Americans have been uneasy about the next British move ever since the British tried to persuade Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia to throw his managerial contact to them instead of TWA. TWA gets $25,000 to run the Ethiopian line. B.O.A.C. walked in with an offer to pay Ethiopia $350,000 for the contract. Middle East Airlines is moving into the new British pool. Pan American formerly owned a share, but sold out because of reported discord with Arab co-owners.

GOVERNOR ACTS TO BAR GA. TECH FROM SUGAR BOWL

PITT NEGRO, AND LACK OF SEGREGATION ARE ISSUES

ATLANTA, Dec. 2 (UP)—Gov. Marvin Griffin, a strong segregationist, formally asked the state Board of Regents today to forbid Georgia Tech to play Pittsburgh in the Sugar Bowl if Pitt uses a Negro player or if spectators at the game are not segregated.

Pittsburgh has announced that it will bring a Negro player, fullback Bobby Grier, to the Sugar Bowl and that he will "travel, eat, live, practice and play" with the team.

The Sugar Bowl has allocated a certain section of the stadium to Pitt and has no restrictions on integration in that section. It was understood there would be no segregation there.

The State Board of Regents, which has supervision over Tech and all other units of the university system, said earlier through its chairman, Robert O. Arnold, that it would not take up a complaint about Tech playing non-segregated Pitt, filed by the Georgia Citizens Council. Tech Coach Bobby Dodd had no comment on the demand that Tech not play the game.

Dodd said today he was "somewhat surprised" at the development but that he could "make no comment at all on it at this time."

(The Associated Press reported that Chairman Arnold, on business in Mobile, Ala., told news men:

"I respect the Governor of Georgia's wishes as the supreme authority over all state agencies. Those agencies should give consideration to the Governor's wishes.

"However, the board of regents does not have anything to do with the Athletic Association. It is a separate corporation.

"I would think the athletic corporation would give due consideration to the Governor's request.

"The board of regents has absolutely nothing to do with the affairs of the athletic corporation. We select the presidents of Georgia Tech and Georgia and the presidents are expected to operate the internal affairs of their institutions."

(The regents are appointed by the Governor but their terms are long and staggered so that theory at least, no one governor can dominate the board.)

(The athletic corporation to which Arnold referred at Tech is a non-profit corporation with the school's president, Blake Van Leer, at its head. Its board of directors is made up of seven faculty members, three alumni and three students, giving the faculty control.)

Precedent Noted. Georgia football teams have in the past played against Negro players. The University of Georgia, a part of the university system as is Tech, played Pennsylvania in 1952 and Penn. used Negro End Ed Bell. In 1950, Georgia played St. Mary's, where Negro John Henry Johnson was a star back.

The Georgia Governor, a leader in the southern fight against the Supreme Court's decision outlawing racial discrimination in public schools, asked Arnold today to call a special meeting at once to consider his request.

Griffin told his news conference that such a meeting would be held soon, but that he did not know exactly when.

Georgia Tech, which completed a 7-1 season by whipping Georgia last Saturday, was invited to the Sugar Bowl to meet Pitt, the eastern champion.

Griffin released this text of a telegram he sent to Arnold:

"It is my request that athletic teams of units of the university system of Georgia not be permitted to engage in contests with other teams where the races are mixed on such terms or where segregation is not required among spectators at such games."

"No Concession." Griffin added that an "immediate called meeting of the state board of regents to act on my request is vitally necessary at this time."

"The South stands at Armageddon," Griffin said in the telegram to Arnold. "The battle is joined. We cannot make the slightest concession to the enemy in this dark and lamentable hours of struggle. There is no more difference in compromising integrity of race on the playing field than in doing so in the classroom."

The Georgia Legislature has passed and the voters have approved a so-called private school amendment to the state constitution which would permit the closing of all Georgia public schools if necessary to avoid mixed-race classrooms.

"One break in the dike and the relentless seas will rush in and destroy us," Griffin said. "We are in this fight 100 per cent, not 98 per cent, not 75 per cent, not 64 per cent, but a full 100 per cent."

The Governor's action followed by two days the protest by a group of Georgia states rights and segregation leaders which included Roy Harris, a member of the Board of Regents.

No Pitt Comment. PITTSBURGH, Dec. 2 (UP)—University of Pittsburgh officials refused comment today on Georgia Gov. Marvin Griffin's demand that Georgia Tech be forbidden to meet Pitt in the Sugar Bowl if segregation is not maintained.

"We have no comment," Pitt spokesman declared.

Foot-Weary Hawks Lose to Philadelphia; 'Our Worst Game,' Says Coach Holzman

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—The St. Louis Hawks were tired Western Division leaders today as they pulled into this next stop on their current tour.

Plumb tucked out from the strenuous schedule which has had them playing almost daily since last Saturday, the Hawks felt the venal wrath of the Warriors in Philadelphia last night.

Philly, trying to pull away from the rest of the N.B.A.'s Eastern teams, trimmed the Hawks, 115-98, in what Coach Red Holzman described as "our worst game of the season."

Holzman said he believed the grueling part of the schedule, which has necessitated several overnight hops on trains and planes, was beginning to tell on some of his boys.

Pettit Off Form. "Red" didn't single out any one player but it was obvious Bob Pettit was far off his 40-point form of Tuesday night when he almost single-handedly killed the Warriors.

Joe Graboski, Walt Davis and Tom Gola, the three-time All-Americans from La Salle College, kept Pettit pretty much in check, although the Hawks' ace did net 22 points.

He wasn't the driving force of two nights ago, and as his play slackened, it appeared as though his mates did the same.

Even the play of Chuck Share, who has been a surprising performer thus far this season, fell off. The big boy had 15 points to tie with Jack Stephens for runner-up honors, but Share made inopportune mistakes time and time again. In addition, he committed several early offensive fouls which

SAYS BAR WOULD HURT ATHLETICS

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 2 (UP)—Sports Editor Ed Danforth of the Atlanta Journal said today that if pressure is brought on Georgia Tech to pull out of the Sugar Bowl because of the segregation issue, it will "wreck both the University of Georgia and Georgia Tech athletically."

The two big Georgia state schools would be reduced to "playing neighborhood teams" because they would never get another bowl invitation or be able to schedule an inter-sectional game," Danforth said.

Commenting on Gov. Griffin's move to keep Tech from playing Pittsburgh, which has a Negro player, Danforth said Georgia teams would run into the same problem in games with teams from any other section.

He said the issue might affect games already tentatively

Harrison 71, Furgol 73 in Havana Event

HAVANA, Dec. 2 (AP)—Sharp-shooting Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N.Y., led the way into the second round of the $15,000 Havana invitational amateur golf tournament today.

The former Duke University football player posted a 7-under-par 65 yesterday to take a 3-stroke lead for the first round.

Despite a gusty wind, Souchak carded an eagle and six birdies as he completed the opening 18 holes in 34-31 over the 6352-yard narrow palm tree lined course.

Two other pros, Tommy Bolt of Chattanooga and Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., tied for second with 68s. Eight others bettered par with Bo Winingar of Oklahoma City and Art Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa., tied for fourth at 69.

Shelley Mayfield, Westbury, N.Y., ranked sixth with a 70, followed by Doug Ford, Kiamasha Lake, N.Y.; Dutch Harrison, St. Louis; George Bayer, Cincinnati; Wally Ulrich, Rochester, Minn., and Al Beselink, Grossinger, all with 71s.

Defending champion Furgol of St. Louis had a 73, one stroke behind Dave Douglas of Newark, Del., who teamed with Johnny Arellano of Havana for the low-pro amateur net score with 60.

The pros compete in a full 72-hole tourney with the winner getting $2000 first place money. They're paired with amateurs for a chance at a $1500 prize on a net score basis over 54 holes.

Mike Hickey Hurt

Mike Hickey, equipment manager for the St. Louis University basketball team, suffered an injury to his left eye during a handball game at the Billiken gym yesterday. His spectacles were shattered when he was struck in the face and particles of glass lodged in the eye. He is the son of St. Louis's coach, Eddie Hickey.

Preachers at Westminster

Concordia Seminary's basketball team plays a return game with Westminster College at Fulton, Mo., tonight and the Preachers hope to repeat a 62-44 decision gained over that team earlier this season.

A victory would give Concordia a 2 and 1 record to carry to Central College at Fayette, Mo., where it will play tomorrow night.

The St. Louis team never has won at Fayette and it will be renewing acquaintance with two Central veterans, Gerald Linneman and Don Spalding. The 5-8 Linneman is a quick little player who keyed a Central victory over Concordia at Fayette last year. The 6-3 Spalding is Central's center.

History Says All's Well.

L. SERKIN, the tall boy from Brooklyn on the spot as a big man who must come through reasonably well for the St. Louis U. Billikens, shouldn't let the pressure bother him.

He has a number of things going for him, including the history of such matters.

Looking back over the record of Eddie Hickey teams in eight seasons here, you find that the only off years were those in which the center didn't have the opportunity for proper seasoning.

One of those relatively down years was the 17-9 campaign of 1950 in which Bill Hildner was a newcomer as a junior college transfer and Bob Koch just a sophomore. The other was the 14-12 year of 1954, when Jim McLaughlin was a soph.

In other years the pivot man had the necessary experience or had the groundwork to obtain it sufficiently well as he went along. Serkin, as a junior moving up, is in similar position.

Moreover, Serkin's pre-season progress in practice has been encouraging to his coach and teammates.

"He is not too clever or smooth," said Hickey. "But he caught fire a couple of weeks ago, took over the responsibility and started to get the job done."

Need for Power.

DEPARTURE of Jerry Koch and Dick Boushka from the Billikens leaves the team with a real gap in rebounding power. So it was especially cheering when it was reported that in practice Serkin has been doing satisfactorily in working the boards.

The main front line of the Bills will have the 6-8 Serkin pairing with Capt. Jim McLaughlin (6-4) and Joe Todd (6-3). Top forward replacement is the 6-3 soph, Jack Mimitz. With these heights it is apparent that the Bills will need to develop all the rebounding ruggedness they can muster.

But a persistent plugging by Serkin with gradual improvement should help to end and Al should benefit from the regular playing opportunity, something he didn't have when playing behind McLaughlin last season.

In the 1954-55 season Serkin appeared in 14 of 28 games, averaging only 2.2 points per game.

Dribbles. ABOUT to launch his eighteenth season as a collegiate coach, his ninth at St. Louis, the veteran Eddie Hickey is heading into the 300 victory class this season. His won-and-lost record is 291-135, including 159 and 63 with the Billikens. In nine years Creighton he won 132, lost 72.

Pro league fans at the Warrier game here the other night had to wait some 10 or 15 minutes past the scheduled starting time for the tipoff.

It reminded some of the early days of St. Louis U. at Kiel Auditorium before the Bills established a big-league reputation for punctuality.

The Hawks had method in their delay, however. It was they were trying to gain more time for Frank Selvy, who was late in arriving from his service post at Fort Knox, Ky.

Phog Allen of Kansas had another suggestion at the recent coaches conference in Kansas City. He said he believed the "courts should be widened three feet on each side to give back what he calls the "maneuvering room" taken away by the 12-foot lane.

Harry Combes, Illinois coach, remarks the new 12-foot lane seems likely to give the guards more room to drive down the middle. But he doesn't go along with the widely expressed idea that the new lane will bring on more zone defenses.

Jim Enright, Chicago basketball official here recently, says that in practical enforcement the three-second rule won't be applied so as to interfere with a play under way.

That may give time, for instance, for the double cut off, the pivot in which the center moves into the lane, takes a pass, fakes to one cutter, and hands off to another and then gets out of the lane.

Three Mizzou Players On Colorado Team's All-Opponent Eleven

BOULDER Colo., Dec. 2 (INS)—The Colorado University football squad elected three players each from Oklahoma's championship Sooners and the Missouri Tigers on the Buffs' all-opponent team for 1955.

The Buffaloes selected guard Bob Bolinger and tackle Cal Woodworth along with fullback Denny Morris from the Sooners, completely ignoring the national champs' Tommy McDonald, and named end Harold Burnine, tackle Al Portney and quarterback Jimmy Hunter from the Missouri squad.

McDonald's failure to land on the all-opponent team was not the only case of a high-powered player being bypassed. The Buffs also overlooked Colorado A. & M.'s vaunted Gary Glick while naming Dick James of Oregon and Rex Fischer of Nebraska to the other backfield spots.

Arizona Guard Bob Griffin, Nebraska end Jon McWilliams, and Colorado A. & M. center Bob Weber completed the all-foe squad.

Notre Dame, Wisconsin, Arkansas Upset in Basket Openers

Detroit U. Jars Irish First Time In 25 Tries

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—San Francisco University, No. 1 team of 1954-55 and the National Collegiate Athletic Association champion with 26 straight victories in the book, shoves off tonight on a fresh college basketball season already cluttered with wreckage left by a rash of upsets.

Notre Dame, Wisconsin, Louisiana State, Arkansas, Fordham and Idaho State were chopped down right off the bat as the first big weekend of the season got under way last night. A loss at this stage of the long, long season isn't fatal, of course, just irritating.

But should San Francisco and All-America Bill Russell, the Dons' 6-10 center, be knocked off by little Chico State, it would be a fantastic upset. The Dons are favored to repeat as national champs and have almost the same team that ripped through a 29-game schedule with only one defeat last season.

U.C.L.A. spilled the Dons, 47-40, in the third game of the schedule, but San Francisco avenged that lone setback within a week's time.

Ebben Gets 32 Points.

Detroit rocked the Irish, 77-71, beating Notre Dame last night for the first time in a 25-game series dating back to 1911. Bill Ebben, a 6-4 junior, scored 32 points for the Titans, who figured to bring up the rear in their own Missouri Valley Conference race. They beat Notre Dame by hitting 56 per cent of their field goal attempts in the first half.

Coach Bill Callahan said, "We're certainly not a great team, but this was one of our greatest victories. The boys have been pointing for Notre Dame since the first day of practice."

Butler defeated Wisconsin of the Big Ten for the first time in 15 years, 67-63, but had to rally to gain the lead in the last two minutes. Guards Bob Plump and Dave Scheetz topped the scoring with 18 points each for Butler, with Plump netting eight points in the final surge.

Louisiana College, topped by Roger Simpson's 35 points, got almost half its points at the free-throw line—hitting 40 of 60 to beat L.S.U., 84-79.

La Salle Gains Victory. Only three teams among last season's top 10—La Salle No. 3, North Carolina State No. 4, and Dayton No. 9—were active last night and each won handily.

La Salle, with All-America Tom Gola graduated, defeated Millersville, 88-70, with four men in double figures as Jim Collins made his coaching debut. Charley Singley was high with 18.

North Carolina State, barred from N.C.A.A. title play by probation last year, looked every bit a favorite to repeat as Atlantic Coast Conference champion at its made Florida State its thirteenth consecutive victim 88-63. Ron Shavlik scored just 10 points, alternating at center with 6-11 Bob Seitz who shared the honors with teammate Nick Pond as each hit 16.

Dayton followed 7-foot Bill Uhl, who scored 16, to pepper Pepperdine, 75-35.

Elsewhere, Southwest Conference members started their warm-ups with defending champion Southern Methodist belting North Texas State, 82-67, and clashing Texas Christian clipping Austin, 91-79, as Dick O'Neal, fourth among the nation's scorers last season, hit for 32 points. Texas nudged West Texas, 85-73, and Rice beat St. Mary's (Tex.), 83-53. But Baylor lost to Howard Payne, 51-49, on a last-second field goal from mid-court by Stan Owens.

Loeffler's Team Beaten.

Ken Loeffler, who quit La Salle to coach Texas A&M., was handed a 48-43 defeat by Clarence Iba's Tulsa club, co-champs of the Missouri Valley.

In the South, Richmond and Washington & Lee, picked to give West Virginia a tussle in the Southern Conference, won with ease. The Spiders beat Hampton-Sydney, 81-39. W.&L. whipped past Bridgewater, 103-67.

Among the major independents, Niagara beat Buffalo Teachers, 77-51. Canisius defeated Gannon, 91-55. Memphis State walloped Union (Tenn.), 138-70. DePaul defeated Illinois Wesleyan, 88-66. Oklahoma City whipped Emporia State, 63-44, and Temple defeated Albright, 87-56.

Biggest Double Ever for One Rider

Apprentice Jockey BERNIE SORENSON from Denmark points to the odds board evidence of his record daily double payoff at Pimlico. Sorensen rode both winners: Joy Maker and Advice. The payoff of $5932.20 set a new high for Pimlico and was the third largest in Maryland racing history. It was also the largest ever in which one rider rode both winners. Only 14 tickets at $2 each were sold. The American record for a daily double is $10,772.

Baseball Interest Swings To Majors and Chicago as Minors Close Convention

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 2 (AP)—Even before the minor league convention came to an official close today, a majority of the major league executives and field managers had departed for Chicago where the club owners will hold their annual three-day meeting starting next Monday.

Except for the naming of former big league stars Phil Cavarretta and Eddie Joost as managers of Buffalo and San Francisco, respectively, the action was mostly limited to parliamentary business. The minors voted on a number of amendments, passing some but rejecting those which carried more significance.

Among those rejected were the proposals to repeal the bonus rule, the unrestricted draft of first year players, the college rule which would have forbidden the signings of collegians after their freshmen year, the 25-player major league player limit on opening day and a 50 per cent increase in draft prices.

The minors made their annual move to bar commercial broadcasts of ball games on stations outside a club's "home" territory, defined as territory within a radius of 75 miles of the ball park. They also extended president George Trautman's term for another five years after it expires in December of 1956 and appointed an eight-man committee to negotiate with the majors for renewal of the major-minor agreement which expires Jan. 12, 1957.

Lane Close to Deal.

The minors also adopted an amendment that would make a returning service man count on the active list after 30 days. At present he can be carried as an extra man for a full season after his discharge.

National League officials, perhaps roused by the fact that their American League rivals were making all the important player trades this winter, attempted to get something going at the eleventh hour before quitting this city.

Dynamo Frank Lane, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, gathered general manager John Quinn of Milwaukee's Braves, vice president Chub Feeney of the New York Giants and player personnel director Wid Matthews of the Chicago Cubs together and talked shop with them around a breakfast table. The only thing they traded, however, was the check.

All four club executives, however, promised to renew talks in Chicago and at least two, Lane and Matthews, expressed optimism regarding a trade. Lane later talked with General Manager Roy Hamey of the Philadelphia Phillies in an effort to swing a deal for either outfielder Del Ennis or catcher Stan Lopata. The Phils reportedly are seeking second base star Red Schoendienst.

Another report had the Giants offering Whitey Lockman and Pitcher Jim Hearn for Schoendienst but Lane, according to the source, was demanding righthander Ruben Gomez and Catcher West Westrum in addition to Lockman.

The Braves, too, are seeking a second baseman, as well as a left-handed hitting outfielder. The Cubs need a catcher and another righthanded hitting outfielder.

All trade negotiations have been negative to far but it may be that Lane was right when he told newsmen:

"I know we've disappointed you here in Columbus but I think we'll make up for it in Chicago."

O'Malley Has A Plan.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 2 (UP)—Minor league baseball's co-existence pact with the majors was more precarious than ever today after a week-long convention in which the little fellows of the game were rebuffed at practically every turn.

The minors found only one friend in the big top, Walter O'Malley, the president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who acknowledged that baseball has a responsibility to the men who operate franchises in the so-called "cow pasture" and "leaky roof" parks of the nation.

O'Malley, whose Dodger organization still operates or has working agreements with more minor league cities than any other team in baseball, came up with a grandiose plan whereby the majors would split a $3,000,000 television sponsorship with the minors as a subsidy.

manager of their Wichita, Kan., farm club. The New York Yankees have signed a working agreement with the Richmond club of the International League.

$5932 Daily Double; Same Jockey Rides Winners at Pimlico

BALTIMORE, Dec. 2 (AP)—ANISH JOCKEY BENNY SORENSON rode the winners of the first and second races yesterday at Pimlico to provide a whopping $5,932.20 for $2 daily double payoff.

Sorensen brought home Joymaker, $164 winner of the opening race, then rode Advice, $100.80 winner of the second.

Although no such records are kept, it is believed to be a record payoff for a daily double in which both winners were ridden by the same jockey.

The United States record for a daily double is $10,772 established by Joy Bet and Merry Caroline at Washington Park Aug. 14, 1939.

Gardini to Pass Up Davis Cup Action

MILAN, Italy, Dec. 2 (UP)—Fausto Gardini, Italy's No. 1 tennis player, will not play in the 1956 Davis Cup European zone tournament, he said.

Gardini, who has been Italian singles titleholder the last five years, said he planned to devote all his activity to business. Gardini, who played for Italy in Davis Cup interzone finals twice—in 1952 in Australia and in 1953 in the United States—said Nicola Pietrangeli could replace him as Italy's top man.

Bears Play S. Dakota, Loser to Missouri U.

By Bob Broeg
Burton Blair Gullion, the balding basketball veteran who has built better defenses over the years, will send forth tonight an experienced Washington University team eager to wipe out memories of a sub-par Myrtle and Maroon season of 1954-55.

The Bears' opening-game foe at 8:15 at the Field House will be the South Dakota University Coyotes, who last night lost a 71-46 game against Missouri U. at Columbia.

Handicapped by lack of an effective big man—they haven't had one since Bob Kriegshauser—the Bears last year dipped to an 8-14 season. South Dakota won eight and lost 13 before opening the 1955-56 schedule with an easy triumph over Westminster College.

Coach Gullion listed son Bill and Jim Barton to open at the center and Bud Cristall at guard. Cristall is the only senior among the lettermen and the shortest at 6-foot-1 while Medley is the tallest, a modest 6-6 in these days of hardwood giants.

The one non-letterman scheduled to start for the Bears is no greenie, either. He's Art Borchers, 6-3 junior transfer from Shurtleff College. The Illinois backcourt athlete played four years of prep ball at Granite City Community High School, then four years in service competition before enrolling at Shurtleff.

Borchers, who plays forward as well as guard, did not win a front-line assignment without a struggle from Eddie Diamond and Bob Casten. Similarly, 6-8 Ken Wisniewski, a freshman, and Jim Paul, 6-5 junior, have crowded Medley at center.

Barton was the Bears' leading scorer last year with 391 points, a 17.8 average. Cristall, second, had 303 to bring his three-year varsity total to 711 points, just 220 short of Kriegshauser's Hilltop career scoring record.

Like the blond big man since departed, Cristall will have a fourth year. And it'll be a big boost to the Bears if Bud has happy field-goal hunting.

Stewart's 22 Points
By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 2—A tough man-to-man defense that limited the red-shirted Coyotes to seven field goals in each half started the Missouri Tiger basketball team off to a 71-46 victory over South Dakota here last night but didn't leave Coach Wilbur (Sparky) Stalcup too happy.

"We made 17 errors," he lamented, adding that he considered five and a half about par for the course.

Norman Stewart connected with 9 of 24 shots, to score 22 points. The South Dakotans forged to a 20-13 lead in the first half when Missouri players couldn't buy a basket, but a rally touched off by the Tiger rookies sent Missouri ahead 21-20 during a seven-minute period when the visitors failed to score a point. The half-time margin was 30-24 for Missouri.

Eleven of the 14 Tigers who played scored points. In addition to the veteran starters, Redford Reichert, Eddie Ronick, Chuck Denny, Stewart and Lionel Smith, top performances were turned in by Bill Ross, a reserve last year, John Stephens, sophomore center, and Rodger Egelhoff, Jerseyville, Ill., sophomore forward.

Missouri hit 34.6 per cent of its 75 shots, the Coyotes 29.1 per cent of 48 tries.

The Tigers are in action against Purdue at Lafayette, Saturday night.

Same $125,000 Purse For Kentucky Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 2 (AP)—Churchill Downs announced today that the 1956 Kentucky Derby will be run May 5 for a purse of $125,000, the same as this year.

The Board of Directors, at a special meeting, also named Kenneth Coyte as secretary of Churchill Downs, Inc., to succeed Sam H. McMeekin. McMeekin, whose resignation becomes effective Jan. 1, will remain on the board.

Estimated earnings this year were $1.64 a share compared to $1.93 last year. The Board said the reduction was due to an increase in the Kentucky parimutuel tax.

Martinez Stops Greer, Wants to Meet Basilio

Californian Kayoed in 3rd Round

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 2 (AP)—Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., grinned in hopeful anticipation of a welterweight title bout after taking an easy third round knockout win over Ernie Greer, Oakland, Calif., last night.

The classy fourth ranked welterweight, who weighed 149½, toyed with Greer for two rounds and then put the 146-pound Californian down with a ripping right and a followup right. The bout, scheduled for 10, ended at 2:14 of the third.

It was Martinez's nineteenth straight win and his second in eight days.

The early pace was slow, but Martinez promptly opened up on Greer when Referee Joey August and some of the estimated 3500 fans called for action.

After the fight, Martinez said he expected to be fighting welterweight champ Carmen Basilio soon. When shown an Associated Press story quoting Basilio as saying "Martinez talks too much—let him fight someone good and prove himself," Martinez just grinned.

Martinez said earlier, after watching on television as Basilio defended his crown against Tony DeMarco, that he could not either of them. "But I'd rather fight Basilio—he's just my style."

Local promoter Gus Cozza offered an $80,000 guarantee to the winner of the Basilio-DeMarco fight for a title match against Martinez here in March.

Champion One Of Leaders in Springer Trial

HERRIN, Ill., Dec. 2 (AP)—Three dogs, including last year's champion, appeared to lead the field yesterday after the first two rounds of the annual English Springer spaniel national championship stakes at nearby Crab Orchard Lake Wildlife Refuge.

The defending champion is Intl. Fie. Ludovian Bruce of Greenleaf, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Quirk of Greenwich, Conn., and handled by Lawrence R. MacQueen of Potomac, Md.

Also performing well on the first day was Fie. Micklewood Scud, 1953 champion here, owned by Armforth Kennels of Chicago and handled by Steve Studnicki, Frankfort, Ill., and Fie. Shooter's Expeditus, owned by Donald H. Shooter, Arcadia, Calif., and handled by O. H. Kale, Paradise, Calif.

Six dogs broke on point and were eliminated from the starting field of 34. The weather was cold and dry in the morning, but sleet and rain hampered the afternoon session.

Two more land series and a water series will be held today. The event ends Saturday. C. K. Hunter of Chicago was elected president of the National English Springer Spaniel Field Trial Assn. Other officers elected were A. M. Lewis, New York, first vice president; Donald Shooter, Arcadia, Calif., second vice president; Philip D. Armour II, Chicago, secretary and Mrs. Roy B. Chapin Jr., Grosse Pointe, Mich., treasurer. The group voted to hold the 1956 championship trials here next December.

Akins, Unbeaten in Last 9, Meets Logart in TV Scrap

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (UP)—Hard-hitting Isaac Logart of Cuba and tough Virgil Akins of St. Louis meet tonight in a television bout at Madison Square Garden that could easily produce a spring challenger of the welterweight championship. (On KSD-TV and KSD at 9 o'clock, St. Louis time.)

Akins ranks No. 3 in the welter division, Logart No. 6, but Logart is a 6½ to 5 favorite for this return bout.

The only fighters currently rated above Akins in the battle for Carmen Basilio's welter crown are former champions Tony De Marco and Johnny Saxton. Basilio erased De Marco via a TKO Wednesday night in Boston and is to meet Saxton in a title fight in February.

It's a strong possibility that the Akins-Logart winner will earn a shot at the Basilio-Saxton winner in a title fight some time next spring.

Akins, 26, scored a split decision over 22-year-old Logart in their only previous meeting at St. Nicholas Arena on Aug. 8 of this year. That's the only stalin on Logart's 1955 record and since then he has scored impressive victories over Al Wilson and Gil Turner. Akins is riding an unbeaten

Bums May Play All '58 Games In Jersey City

JERSEY CITY, N.J., Dec. 2 (UP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers may play all their home games of the 1958 season in Jersey City but club President Walter F. O'Malley insisted today the Dodgers don't want to make the shift "permanent."

O'Malley made this statement after the Dodgers signed yesterday to play seven home games a season here in 1956, 1957 and 1958 at Roosevelt Stadium.

O'Malley was emphatic that the Dodgers must leave Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, after the 1957 season. And, with the troubles the team has had finding a new home in Brooklyn, he now thinks it's "unlikely" that a new Brooklyn Stadium will be available for 1958.

That's why he insists he regards the Dodgers' deal with Jersey City as "a guarantee to continue to operate our franchise at the nearest possible point to Brooklyn during the period when the new stadium might be under construction."

This arrangement, O'Malley indicated, could mean that the Dodgers will play all 77 of their 1958 home games at Roosevelt Stadium. But it would be just an emergency home.

The Dodgers have no present intention of ultimately transferring the Brooklyn franchise to Jersey City, O'Malley declared.

He called the provision for having an emergency home for use if necessary in 1958 "a long-range safeguard to protect the franchise for Brooklyn and nothing more."

Under the terms of yesterday's agreement between the Dodgers and Jersey City officials, the Dodgers will play seven regular season games (one against each of the other National League clubs), plus one exhibition game in each of the next three years. There is

Wild, Woolly West

The Cowboys Were Generally Poor Shots

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP).

IN the wild and woolly West, it seems, there was nothing wilder than a cowboy's aim. Millions of American kids today take it for granted that the oldtime cowboys were faster than greased lightning on the draw and practically never missed their target in a gunfight.

HAL BOYLE

"The plain fact is," says Herbert O. Brayer, "that cowboys as a group were generally poor shots. Alas, it is all too true. . . . They couldn't hit the broad side of a barn!"

Brayer is no mere killjoy bent on overturning youthful idols. He is recognized as a top authority on the Wild West, and spent years going through court records and getting sworn testimony to debunk the legend that the average cowboy was an artist with a six-gun.

The result of his researches, proving that cowboys missed more often than they hit, are carried in the January issue of the magazine "Guns."

HERE ARE A FEW of his disclosures:

Item: The famous Texas cattleman, Charles Goodnight, told Brayer: "I've known hundreds of the best and worst cowpunchers in the business, and the number of real working cowboys who could hit a man at 50 feet with a .44 or .45 you could count on your fingers and toes. But some of them were pretty fair shots with a rifle—and some were very good."

"The best shots in the cow country certainly were not the cowboys—they were the ones who usually got shot! It was the professional gunslingers who spent their time learning to draw fast and shoot straight while the honest cowpoke was busy branding, driving up the drags, repairing fence, or busting steers out of the bush."

"If there was a gunfight in town in which someone was badly hurt or killed, you could almost bet there was a professional gunman involved, a lawman, gambler, or one of the outlaws who found safety on the frontier."

ITEM: Jim Shaw, a veteran trail rider who became president of the Wyoming Stock Growers Association, said: "I only knew a half dozen real cowboys who were experts with revolvers. My brother could put five out of six bullets into a playing card at 50 feet, but I've seen him miss completely against a live target at 25 feet."

Item: Many cowboys preferred rifles or shotguns to revolvers, and as early as the late 1870s many ranchers forbade the carrying of firearms on the range, during roundups or while on the trail. If on rare occasions they needed a gunman they hired one. They didn't depend on their own cowboys.

Item: In 1881 two rival groups of cowboys got in a gunfight in a Dodge City (Kan.) saloon. More than 100 shots were fired, and the only casualty was a cat. The cowboys could have done better with rocks or beanshooters.

ITEM: In one shooting fracas in New Mexico in 1884, a 19-year-old Mexican boy killed four cowboys and wounded six others, then holed up in a adobe hut and fought 80 besieging cowboys to a draw. Some 4000 shots were poured at him, but at the end of 33 hours the boy surrendered unharmed on his own terms and got off scot free.

Item: Many cowboys kept their guns in such poor condition that if fired they were more likely to blow themselves up than their quarry. In 1887 United States Deputy Marshal Timothy Toombs of the Dakotas said: "Most cowboys are very slow in drawing and unless they take plenty of time to sight their weapons have little chance of hitting even a stationary target."

THE TRUTH IS that many of the cowboys were teen-agers who wore a six-gun only as a badge of manhood—and really didn't know quite how to handle it if they tried to use it in a hurry.

Of course, kiddies, you already knew that the Indian was a pretty poor shot, too. Or did you? Any good modern archer today could outshoot the bow-and-arrow Indian of a century ago.

Who can a kid believe in? Maybe Buck Rogers.

Masculinity Trend

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

AFTER 20 years of marriage, husbands are found to be more masculine than they were on the wedding day—but their wives have become more masculine, too. This is the unexpected finding of psychologist E. Lowell Kelly, reported at a recent meeting of the American Psychological Association in San Francisco.

Dr. Kelly began, in 1934, a very comprehensive study of 300 engaged couples. He wanted to learn what kind of people paired off, and planned to follow them through life to see what happened to them. He has now published his first findings on these couples.

HE HAD EXPECTED to find that both sexes had become somewhat more feminine, in their outlook on life, in their attitudes, tastes, habits, and values. This had been the observation of earlier psychologists studying the same subject. These had concluded that men are most masculine in the high-school period, after which they tended to become more feminine as they were domesticated. Women, on the other hand, seemed to attain the peak of their femininity in the college years and then to retain their femininity for many years. In short, it seemed to be a women's world!

What has brought about this change? Dr. Kelly guesses that it is partly the result of mechanization of the home. With all the machinery, gadgets, electrical equipment in the modern kitchen, women have acquired more of the interest in science and invention, in mechanics and technology, that used to belong largely to men.

MEANWHILE, HOWEVER, men were being called on to fix the vacuum cleaner, washing machine, TV or radio set, electric refrigerator and garbage disposal, in addition to the lawnmower and automobile on which they had previously shown their engineering genius. While the wives' interests were becoming more typically masculine, those of the husbands were becoming more masculine still.

This is probably only a part of the true explanation, but it sounds plausible as far as it goes.

From the point of view of successful marriage, it's a good thing that the trend of men toward femininity has been arrested. It's not a good thing that women are becoming masculinized. They will be wise if they watch themselves carefully. It's no secret that men admire a feminine woman more than they do a masculinized female.

The Fear Of Seeing A Doctor

By Peter Steincrohn, M.D.

THERE are many reasons why people won't go to their doctors. Sometimes patients say they haven't the time. Others tell me they can't afford it. Rarely do they come out with the real reason: fear. You are a normal human being when you are afraid to face an unpleasant truth.

For example, I talked with a relieved, happy woman yesterday. She said: "Doctor, for the past year I've been suffering more than you can realize. Now that I've at last had an examination and you've reassured me that my heart's all right, I can tell you about it. Every time I had a 'skip' I thought my heart was stopping for sure. I was afraid to go to sleep at night because I thought I'd be dead by morning. Yet, I was more afraid of finding out the truth. I couldn't face coming here and have you tell me I had heart trouble. Wasn't that silly? All that time I suffered needlessly. Now that you tell me my heart is normal, what a relief!"

IN THIS WOMAN'S CASE, procrastination produced discomfort, but it was not actually a threat to her life. Even in real heart disease of some types, seeing the doctor a month or two later than you should, you do not necessarily cause irreparable harm.

Heart disease is often reversible. What seems like a hopeless condition at one moment, may be compatible with long life. Unfortunately, this is not true in all disease. There are some, once given the head start, and your race with health and life is lost forever. At the risk of frightening you, I tell you this. And the condition I refer to—which you have probably guessed by now—is cancer.

Of all diseases, this is the one that is cruel and ruthless. It never gives you a second chance if your procrastination has allowed it to spread throughout the body. Here is one disease that you must fight fearlessly from the start. And the first round in that fight is the ability to slug it out; the courage to make an appointment with your doctor to hear the news—good or bad.

That is what takes heart. Most of us would rather postpone the possible verdict of cancer. To me, the saddest part of the day is to see a woman with a late advanced cancer of the breast. For months, such patients have concealed their fears from their families. Day by day they have watched the little lump grow.

THEY HAVE GUESSED cancer, but have not had the courage to hear the truth. Perhaps they didn't want to worry their husbands and children. Perhaps they considered the expense of operation and prolonged hospitalization. Perhaps they were "just plain scared" of the knife.

Whatever the reason, they procrastinated. Meanwhile, the cancer was practically licking its chops in anticipation of having another victim.

The answer is evident. If you have a lump in your breast (or elsewhere) you will have to see your doctor sometime. Sooner or later, you will hear the verdict. Why not now?

Let's Explore Your Mind

By Dr. Albert E. Wiggam

YOUR OPINION — 12-2 YES ☐ NO ☐

Answer to Question 1. VERY rarely. Tests show that women are more sensitive to their surroundings, more restless, and therefore, they tire more quickly of whatever situation they are in. It may be because of these qualities of restlessness and their tendency to be more introverted that they rarely have the cronies and pals that men do. Women don't often go out camping together, unless with some organization. Of course, there are many lifelong friendships among women—but not as many as among men.

Answer to Question 2. True. Science is a recent thing, but it is only a way of thinking. It isn't some new ability. Doubtless the cave men had "geniuses," but they hadn't worked out systems of thinking. The late E. L. Thorndyke said if a man 10,000 years ago had told in advance that if you had 15 coconuts to divide among four people, three of them would get four and one, only three, he would have been considered a magician—even a god. Most people have many times as much ability as they use, mainly because they have never learned how to think.

Answer to Question 3. No. Scolding and punishing may make a child stop biting his nails, etc., but it won't cure the worry and nervousness that causes the bad habits. He will work them off some other way—throwing his clothes around, daydreaming, and on. What he needs is understanding and a feeling of security.

The Right Fabric

By Elizabeth Hillyer

MATCHING SLIPCOVERS AND DRAPERIES.

WHEN one fabric is used for both slipcovers and draperies, it must be the right kind of design. It must be one that looks much the same draped as it does flat—it's this characteristic that does so much to make the combination a success.

Mrs. B. C. W. brings up the subject with this question: "Is it better to buy a plain fabric for slipcover when you buy pattern fabric for draperies? I've never had much luck matching the two. The slipcover always wears out first and never looks as if it matches the draperies very well anyway."

There are plenty of fabrics today that wear excellently for both slipcovers and draperies, Mrs. W. And there are more than there once were that match well when they're used both ways. The trouble you've had comes from choosing a pattern that breaks up as it falls into folds. Make your own test at the store—look at the fabric flat and then drape it. The one you'll like best is designed to change little from its flat appearance as it is gathered.

MRS. N. U. L. "Ours is a house that separates the living room and dining room with a hall that begins at the entrance and continues with stairs going up to the second floor. I believe I'd be satisfied with the same carpet in the living room and hall and for the stairs, but I would like something different for the dining room. Is this the wrong thing to do? If we buy plain gray carpet, would a rug that had some of the same gray in it look all right in the dining room?"

There's no reason why you can't use a rug that's in harmony with the carpet for the dining room. The change of pace would be pleasing, and perhaps more right than matching carpet since you have the definite feeling that gray carpet everywhere would be too much.

A Child Grows Up In Spurts

By Angelo Patri

ARCHIE, now "going on 14" and wanting you to know it, for the past three months has been so unlike himself that he had his whole family on edge. When his favorite aunt called him "Archie," he drew himself to his tallest four feet-eleven and said, "My name is Archibald and I wish you'd remember it."

"Sorry," said Auntie meekly. "I'll try to remember."

When starting for school, or to any place that called for neat dressing, he was in the habit of saying, "Do I look all right Mom?" before going out. Not recently. When his mother put her hand on his upstanding crown lock to brush it into place he wrenched himself away angrily and said, "I wish you'd let me alone."

"Sorry," said Mother. "Your hair is standing on end. Better brush it a little before you go."

BUT TODAY his mother said, "Archibald, please take this box to the rectory. Be careful of it. It is cookies for the party tonight."

"To the rectory? I don't want to go there. Can't Marie go? I don't know who'll open the door. What'll I say? Tell me what to say?"

All of a sudden Archie, aged about 8 or 9, had returned. He was his mother's small son asking for strength to meet a crisis, an errand on which he would have to say something to somebody.

Mother looked at Archibald and said gently, "It will be all right, son. Old Katy will open the door. You know her, and she likes you. Just give her the box and say 'From Mrs. Macalister.' That's all."

CHILDREN do grow steadily, evenly, but in odd spurts, now in one direction, again in another. They stop growing every once in a while and rest. They may even go back a bit. This is quite as it should be. Let them alone, be gentle and understanding, and give them plenty of plain, nourishing food and they will start up again. Once more Archie will give way to Archibald.

This fashion of growing and stopping to get breath, often puzzles teachers and parents. "He loved his music and now for a whole month he seems weary of it."

"She used to be at the head of her class now she's only somewhere in the middle." Wait a little. This pause in growth will soon pass and the old energy return to promote new growth.

Meanwhile, do not nag the adolescent child who appears to be idling; give him a chance to gain power again. If he seems overfatigued, ask the family physician to look him over. Usually all he needs is to be left alone in affectionate understanding.

JIMMY-PROOF: A new padlock and hasp set provides protection against burglars. It's easy to install, has a number of unique features. One is a ball lock—two hardened steel 1/4-inch diameter balls are held by a locking cam which can't be released until double-bitted key is inserted into lock. All rivets and pins have been eliminated so hammer, chisel and crowbar are useless. All installation screws are inaccessible and once the padlock is closed, it's practically impossible to jimmy or force open the bond.

FOR THE CAR: Taking the place of the oil drain plug, a new magnesium alloy device combined with an Alnico magnet is said to increase engine power and extend oil and spark plug life by picking up loose iron and steel filings in the oil system and neutralizing corrosive acids. Maker claims it works in any car using less than a quart of oil in 500 miles. . . . Trip finder is a new idea in motor-ing maps. Small enough to hold in your hand, each one covers a section of the United States. (There are 16 that cover all 48 states). A "slide-rule" insert instantly shows mileage distances between cities.

TWO-WAY TOOL: It's a square and a level combined—and can be changed instantly from one use to the other with a simple wing-nut adjustment. It's an aluminum I-beam 10 inches long, with two unbreakable Pyrex level and plumb vials attached—plus a slotted blade you can slide out to set for 45 to 90 degrees angle. Without touching the blade, you can use the tool as level or plumb; by moving blade into either of its two positions, you can check a square, or rule or check mitred angles.

For the Ladies

UCY GALLANT, which opens tonight at the ST. LOUIS THEATRE, won't win any Academy awards for drama, but it's a natural as a "women's picture" something I am sure the ladies will just adore. In the first place, it's about an independent and beautiful girl (Jane Wyman) who refuses to marry the man she loves (Charlton Heston) for many a long year because she won't give up the high fashion business she builds up in a Texas oil-boom town, starting from scratch by selling her Parisian-made wedding trousseau for $300. And he won't marry her unless she does. Not only does she outsmart all the men in the town who are dubious of her chances of success, but she gets rich, builds a dream-palace store, and gives a fashion show with the most splendiferous styles seen this side of Dior's.

Of course she bags Charlton finally, after he has carried a torch for her for some ten or twelve years, at least, so long I lost track. Anyway, it starts before World War II when he is a simple rancher, skips blithely right through that unpleasant four years of combat with Charlton reading her letters between bombing missions, and lasts right up to the present. By that time Charlton has struck oil and is filthy rich. Everybody is filthy rich, and the lady speculators can gloat over the luxury living of the old-time wild-catters.

This is lightweight but slick entertainment, and that VistaVision color photography is real pretty. I got the same sort of pleasantly detached feeling of vicarious prosperity from viewing it that I would get from leafing through Vogue, House Beautiful and Fortune all in one afternoon.

Fighting Parson

"COUNT THREE AND PRAY" at the FOX is a mildly humorous account of the tribulations of a Union Army veteran right after the Civil War who goes home imbued with religion and determined to become a preacher.

Because he lives in a Southern town—state unidentified—he finds himself highly unpopular at first and has to fight three Confederate veterans his first half hour in town. He doesn't have a church, a gamine girl with a squirrel rifle is a squatter in the dilapidated parsonage and disputes his right to live there, and he finds out he doesn't know the first thing about delivering a sermon. He wins money in a horse race to finance the building of a church, and smites his enemies hip and thigh when they try to break up his services. But his roistering past catches up with him when the town madam, thinking she is doing an old friend a favor, leads her girls to his church in a body, scattering the scandalized respectable parishioners.

"Finally he winds up accused of living in sin with the hoydenish girl, whom he thought was 14 but who turns out to be 18. And at the hearing before a bishop, it develops he never heard of any such thing as being ordained before becoming a preacher.

Van Heflin, an excellent actor, makes the hot-headed preacher quite a character, and the piece has a salty flavor, even though its development is strictly in terms of action rather than ideas. Joanne Woodward, a new actress, is an amusing gamine, and Raymond Burr is the baleful villain.

Tips for Teens

By Elinor Williams

HOW would you like to have a different kind of party this Christmas?

Christmas is a wonderful time for a party, because everybody's in a gay mood and the house looks festive with the tree lighted and the rooms decorated—a good beginning for a good party.

Instead of a tree-trimming shindig, have a Christmas "Swap Party." After Christmas, during the week between the holidays, invite guests to bring a small gift that they'd like to swap—perhaps one from their own tree or stocking or one that they'll buy. Just a little thing. Each gift must be wrapped so you can't peek or guess what's in it—small things wrapped in big packages, etc., to increase the fun and surprises.

ELINOR WILLIAMS

AS THEY ARRIVE, each guest puts his package under the tree. Later, each draws a number and chooses a gift (as his number is called) without touching it beforehand. No help from the audience.

For invitations: Fold white paper in half and draw a large, gaily wrapped gift on the front with a bow of real ribbon on it, if you like. On the front print the words, "Would you like a surprise?" Inside, draw a tree with gifts under it and print, "Then come to my Christmas swap party and bring a small, wrapped gift to swap. At Beth Smith's house, Dec. 23, 8 to 11 p.m."

Games: Start with a "mixer" of famous pairs. Pin a slip of paper with half of a well-known pair on each guest. He must find the one wearing the other half. The last pair matched up must do a forfeit or help serve refreshments. Pairs are "ham and eggs," "pork and beans," "Martin and Lewis," etc.

CHARADES: Act out names of Christmas stories, carols, etc. Group with the most points (10 points for each win) gets candy canes for prizes.

Give each guest a slip of paper with a holiday word scribbled on it (kebabca-package) and the first one to unscramble his wins a prize. Or use the word "Christmas" and give a prize to the one who writes the largest number of words using the same letters.

Refreshments: lime (green) gelatin salads molded in paper cups with pointed bottoms to look like Christmas trees; use shredded cabbage, carrots and bits of pimento (red) in it to look like ornaments. Hot buttered rolls. Pistachio ice cream (green) with chocolate sauce; red and white mints. Cocoa with marshmallows or cold drinks.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cof

FRANK CASE, amiable boniface of the Algonquin hotel, told the story of the day the late DeWolf Hopper protested to him that nowhere in New York could he find his favorite dessert, brown Betty, on the menu. "I'd have it here for you," Case said, "if I thought there would be a reasonable demand for it." "You put it on your menu tomorrow night," proposed Hopper, "and I'll see to it personally that the demand develops."

The next night brown Betty was duly added to the Algonquin bill of fare, and Hopper, much gratified, made a personal tour of every table in the dining room. "I am DeWolf Hopper," he announced to the surprised patrons, "and I personally urge you to sample the brown Betty this evening. It's delicious!"

Hopper then repaired to his own table, toyed with a beefsteak, and summoned his waiter. "Now," he said, rubbing his hands in anticipation, "I'll have a double order of brown Betty."

"I'm very sorry, sir," said the waiter. "It's all gone."

20-Year Career of a Kitchen Band

Only One Original Member Remains, but Horace Mann Mother's Club Group Is Going Strong

By Mary Kimbrough

IF YOU'VE never heard music coming out of boiler tops, funnels, frying pans and curtain rods, drop down to Horace Mann School some Monday evening and listen to the Mothers' Club Kitchen Band. The music admittedly isn't always on key but it's enthusiastic and it's loud.

At present, the club is celebrating its twentieth year in "show business." The aggregation started with four charter members back in 1935, and although three of the four have dropped out, there have always been replacements over the years, and now 14 amateur musicians show up on Monday evenings for practice. Sole survivor of the original foursome is Mrs. Vera Hablutzel, who as the pianist keeps the others on pitch.

They have a cornet made out of a funnel, a curtain rod and clothespins. There's a saxophone made out of a funnel, a stove pipe and tin spoons. A boiler top long wooden spoons and small tin spoons were glued together to make a cello and a smoothly-turned curtain rod is the slide trombone. The banjo is made out of pie pans, the clarinet out of a broom handle and the drums are mostly a salad bowl, washbub and washboard.

Attached to the mouthpiece of each wind instrument is a kazoo, a little tin tube that contains a vibrating piece of thin paper. Even the cello, and banjo players blow on kazoos to add to the general musical melee and help turn up the volume.

Husbands were called upon to design and manufacture the instruments, some of which have even lasted through-out the band's history, passed down from member to member. Usually, when a member's child graduates from school and the member leaves the Mothers' Club, she also leaves the Kitchen Band, but not always. A few of the alumnae are still showing up on Monday evenings at hospitals and other institutions all over town where the aggregation is asked to play.

"We probably play out in public an average of three times a month," said Mrs. Hablutzel. "We don't charge anything, but we do accept contributions, using the money to buy new music and do charity work in hospitals. I think the most we ever got for an evening's entertainment was $25 and the least was $2."

But there's no question about money being the least important matter in the Kitchen Band's public performances.

MEMBERS OF THE KITCHEN BAND OF THE MOTHER'S CLUB AT HORACE MANN SCHOOL SWING IT OUT IN A SPIRITED REHEARSAL. DIRECTING WITH A WOODEN SPOON IS MRS. KATIE WINGMAN. MRS. VERA HABLUTZEL AT THE PIANO IS THE ONLY ORIGINAL MEMBER OF THE BAND FORMED 20 YEARS AGO STILL PLAYING.

The members just happen to like to go out and entertain others, especially older people who are confined to hospitals or other institutions.

Of course, this sometimes leads to slight complications, such as the elderly man in one institution who always wants to waltz away with the leader, and the odd assortment of old-time tunes that the patients ask for. Usually, the band can come up with old favorites.

Their repertoire ranges from the popular classics like "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" to the latest jive. Their principal between-rehearsals activity is listening to the radio or their teenage sons and daughters to catch the melodies of the latest songs, since they hum the tune into the kazoo.

But they throw a little showmanship into the evening too. Occasionally, two trumpet players will rise and play a chorus, or the drummer will put down her drum sticks and salad bowl and pick up an alto sax for a solo. Then the music will tone down while four members stand up and harmonize on "Those Wedding Bells are Breaking Up That Old Gang of Mine."

The director, Mrs. Katie Wingman, gestures with a huge wooden spoon for a baton, and usually does a little dance step in time with the music. She occasionally, however, gets a little over-enthusiastic, and once almost knocked a hospital patient's teeth out when he walked too near the stage just as she gave out with a grand flourish to end a number.

Usually, if they're entertaining at a company party or organization meeting, they're invited to stop the music long enough for some food. Once, they played all evening, drooling as they watched everyone else eat—then were casually dismissed without even a glass of water. Another time they were fed so heartily that they could hardly play.

"WE NEVER are quite sure what we're going to play," said Mrs. Hablutzel. "It really doesn't do much good to make up a program because we get requests from the audience and usually we change it."

"Usually, the band is very well received and the audience keeps asking us to play. Once, though, we were requested NOT to play. We were at a church affair and we marched in playing a loud jive number. The chairman requested that we not play any more selections."

They were at full strength that night, which hasn't always been the case. A few times one carload of musicians has run out of gas on the way and failed to show. Another time, instructed to go to the "temple" for a program, three went to one temple and the rest went to another. They never did get together, but fortunately the majority showed up at the right spot.

Members take the instruments home with them, with the exception of the drums, which stay at school. And more than once the orchestra has been set up on some far-away stage only to find that the drums had been forgotten.

"Once we lost the drum pedal, so we just went out into the kitchen and got the potato masher," said Mrs. Hablutzel. "Worked fine, too."

Present members of the band, some of whom are really accomplished musicians in addition to being expert hummers on kazooes, are Mrs. Hablutzel, Mrs. Berdie Adams, Mrs. Jessie Slinger, Mrs. Viola Herald, Mrs. Betty Cheatham, Mrs. June Feyerabend, Mrs. Clara Watts, Mrs. Minnie Aubuchon, Mrs. Emma Kuehnle, Mrs. Alma Roeder, Mrs. Mary Gene Harris, Mrs. Marge Michel and Mrs. Grace Niedergereke.

And out front with the baton is Mrs. Wingman, who only laughs when the others kid her about her "promotion."

"She started on the drums," said one member, "but she couldn't keep time so we made her director."

Secrets of Charm Hand Care Plan

YOU CAN KEEP YOUR HANDS LOOKING YOUNG.

YOUR hands can play you false, or they can be gay deceivers. They can look so old no one will believe your actual birthdays, or so young no one will believe them. Just make sure the disbelief is complimentary—and it will be if you plot hand care according to this three-part plan.

KEEP your hands supple, the muscles flexible, the flesh firm. Stiff and bent fingers can be avoided with massage and stretching. Make it a point to do these things often, especially when your hands feel cramped: Massage each finger, knuckles particularly, then your palms vigorously to strengthen the little-used muscles at the back of the hands. Stretch the fingers of both hands wide apart and hold them tense to a count of 15 before relaxing them.

KEEP the skin of your hands soft and lubricated. Wear gloves outdoors and indoors for protection from too frequent contact with hard water and soap, and damage from washing and cleaning preparations.

Gloves of rubber or plastic are effective, or you may prefer the kind made of heavy rubber and lined with jersey which go on and come off easily and wear a long time. Avoid grime, sometimes perhaps with canvas gloves, because scrubbing necessary to remove it has a bad effect. Use hand lotion frequently, and occasionally wear night mitts over cream while you sleep.

KEEP your nails in good condition, not longer than good for the work you do, but looking smooth and beautified with polish. If your nails ridge as you grow older, give them this treatment: With polish removed and after soaking, drop a little hot olive oil on each nail and allow it to remain for five minutes. Rinse off the oil and dry the hands. Now, very carefully, file the ridges lightly with the finer side of an emery board. Don't overdo it. Ridding that still shows can be covered with polish—base coat first, two coats of polish and a colorless top coat.

Cookie Suggestion

Want a gently flattened cookie shape instead of a bumpy irregular drop? Measure out tablespoons of the dough on your greased cookie sheet, then flatten them by stamping with the base of an ordinary tumbler completely covered with a damp cloth.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

BRIDGE WORLD magazine recently polled 41 of the country's best-known experts on the question of an opening lead, and the results were rather surprising. This was the situation presented to the experts:

At rubber bridge, with both sides vulnerable, the bidding proceeded:
West North East South
1♣ Dble. Pass 2♠
Pass 3♣ Pass 4N.T.
Pass 5♣ Pass 6♣
Pass Pass Pass
West, on lead against the slam, held this hand:

♠ J98
♥ QJ8
♦ AK1063
♣ KQJ72

What opening lead do you recommend for West?

In all fairness it must be reported that over half of the experts—21, to be exact—came through with the lead that would defeat the contract, but the surprising part is that the other 20 failed to spot the acute danger West would face if he selected any routine lead.

♠ J98
♥ QJ8
♦ AK1063

♠ 4
♥ 10762
♦ J74

SOUTH
♠ KQ1087532
♥ 53
♣ 9

Those experts who advocated the lead of a club or a diamond or a heart did not distinguish themselves as diagnosticians. The fact that South had been so aggressive without an ace in his hand certainly marked him with a tremendously long spade suit, and since he could not know which three aces his partner held, he could not have two losing clubs. Thus, the danger of a throw-in play against West was implicit from the bidding alone, and that being so, West's best defense was obviously to get out of his own way immediately. In short, the right lead was the ace of trumps, so that South could not clean up the hearts and clubs in his own hand and dummy and then put West in with that blank trump ace to force a diamond return from the king. Note that when West gets rid of the spade ace at the go, South is helpless.

Two Weekend Parties For Col. and Mrs. Pratt

By Margaret Allen Ruhl

COL. AND MRS. WALTER MERRIAM PRATT of Boston and Brattleboro, Vt., will be here tomorrow for a two-day stay and will be guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Greve, 13 Westmoreland place.

The Pratts are on a swing through the country for a series of visits to the chapters of the Society of Colonial Wars, of which he is governor general. They will come to St. Louis from Chicago, where they will be entertained tonight by the Illinois Society. Leaving here Monday, they will visit the Kentucky Society in Louisville and the Ohio Society in Cincinnati on their way to Washington and Baltimore. Parties will be given in their honor at each stop.

The Society of Colonial Wars in the State of Missouri will welcome Col. and Mrs. Pratt at an informal cocktail party late tomorrow, shortly after their arrival, at the Greve home.

Sunday afternoon from 5 to 7 o'clock a large cocktail party will be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norris Bradford Gregg Jr., 36 Westmoreland place. Invitations were sent in the name of the governor of the Missouri society, Col. Frederick W. Green (ret.), Col. Green, who earned his military title in World War I, is former president of the St. Louis-Southwestern (Cotton Belt) Railway Co.

Guests at the Sunday party will include members of the Society of Mayflower Descendants in the State of Missouri, some of whom have met Col. and Mrs. Pratt in Plymouth, Mass., and New York during his terms as governor general of that organization, a post he held for several years until 1951 when he was elected to his present office. He also belongs to the Founders and Patriots of America and the Huguenot Society of New England. An Army officer in World War I, Col. Pratt holds a colonel's commission in the Reserve. He is a Fellow of the English Royal Society of Arts.

This will be the Pratts' first visit to St. Louis since they were entertained here by the Mayflower Society when he was on a similar trip in the interest of that organization. The current Missouri governor is Francis York Allen, who was elected at the Camp Day dinner recently at the University Club. Mr. Gregg is a member of both groups; Mr. Greve has been governor of both.

Early December Activities at Junior League

THE EDUCATION COMMITTEE of the Junior League has planned a luncheon program for Tuesday, Dec. 13, starting at 12:30 o'clock at the League tearoom, 4932 Maryland avenue. Mr. and Mrs. James W. Symington (Sylvia Schlapp) are to provide entertainment. Mr. Symington will play his guitar and sing folk songs, hit tunes and holiday carols; his wife will accompany him on the piano.

The Junior League will present its third fashion show of the season on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week at the tearoom. Sponsored by Scruggs-Landervort-Barney, the fashions are inspired by the coming holidays, from at-home gatherings to gala evenings. Luncheon is to be served at 12:30 o'clock.

The clothes will be modeled by the following Junior League members and their children: Mrs. Henry King Carter and King, Mrs. R. Turner Peters and Lisa, Mrs. Robert Adrian Barry, Mrs. Edwin S. Jones, Mrs. William F. Kistner, Mrs. J. Michael Hadley, Mrs. Andrew H. Bauer and Jimmy, Mrs. Richard Austin Gilbert and Laurie, Mrs. Edwin R. Culver III, Miss Katherine Burg and Miss Jane Lester.

Miss Chapline to Be Married Dec. 22

THE ENGAGEMENT of Miss Claudia Beechum Chapline, daughter of Mrs. J. Burwell Chapline of Arlington, Va., and the late Mr. Chapline, to James Nicol Hood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Charles Hood, 6770 Chamberlain avenue, University City, has been announced. The wedding is scheduled for Thursday, Dec. 22, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon at Graham Memorial Chapel of Washington University. Dr. Huston Smith will officiate, with Howard Kelsey at the organ.

Miss Chapline, who makes her home at 7002 Pershing avenue, University City, is a member of the faculty of the college of liberal arts at Washington University where she is teaching dance and continuing her studies in health and physical education. She is also dance therapist at the St. Louis State Hospital.

After her graduation with special honors in art from George Washington University, Washington, the bride-elect studied at Connecticut College School of Dance. She became affiliated with Phi Beta Kappa, Mortar Board and Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities; her social sorority is Sigma Kappa.

Miss Chapline is chairman-elect of the dance section of the Central District Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation. She has shown her paintings at the Society of Washington Artists and the annual Missouri Art Exhibition. Her sister, Mrs. Bertrand Waldo Adkins, lives in Arlington.

White House Conference On Education

By Eleanor Roosevelt

BALTIMORE. I HOPE the delegates in attendance at the White House Conference on Education were encouraged by the speeches made by the President and the Vice President. I confess I found very little that was new in these speeches.

Both of them said that where there were communities unable to meet obligations for adequate education they should have federal aid. That leaves me rather cold because we have known that fact for the past three years and more, and no federal aid has been forthcoming.

When they warn against control by the Federal Government, that is a subject that has been covered over and over and over again.

I CAN REMEMBER years ago the suggestion that the Federal Government should simply set some very limited standards in return for the aid given. Under the standards the school must run so many weeks in the year, teachers must have certain academic standards, and the standards of education must be agreed on at different levels, but the content of the curriculum was always to be controlled by the state, never by the Federal Government.

It seems to me that with a little real effort the proper safeguards could be agreed on and we could begin to meet the crisis that faces us in every part of the country.

I hope that out of the meetings in Washington there will come some definite action that will lead to encouraging legislation in Congress. We have discussed Federal aid too long and done too little, and our children are the ones who are suffering in too many areas of the country.

I WAS SHOCKED to read the other day the revelation by Philip Young, chairman of the Civil Service Commission in Washington, that the commission maintained a card index file with names of 2,000,000 persons "allegedly affiliated with some sort of subversive organization or activity."

He went on to explain that they did not even try to substantiate any of the accusations which they took from many different sources, and he said that perhaps three-fourths of the people dismissed from Govern-

Theta Sigma Phi Party

By Fay Profflet

MRS. JULIA BRAUN KESSLER, editor of "It's All Yours," the teen-written section of Seventeen Magazine, will be guest speaker at a Christmas party for teenage editors to be given by Theta Sigma Phi, professional fraternity for women in journalism, Saturday, Dec. 10, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the County Y. W. C. A., 140 North Brentwood boulevard, Clayton. Invitations have been sent to editors of all the public high school newspapers in St. Louis and St. Louis county and their publication sponsors.

Students will be received by 14 members of Theta Sigma Phi whose names appear regularly on metropolitan newspaper stories or who conduct or produce their own radio and television programs. Special guests of honor will be Miss Jean Shelton of Kirkwood, 1954 winner of the seventeen doll contest, and Mrs. O. Wayne Foster of Creve Coeur, whose daughter, Miss Judy Foster, a freshman at Fontbonne College, is touring Europe as this year's winner.

Skits will be presented by 15 members of the editorial staff of The Kirkwood Call, student newspaper at Kirkwood High School, under the direction of their sponsor, Mrs. Mary Lechhead Williams, and by members of Theta Sigma Phi appearing in a parody written by Mrs. E. Gary Davidson, (Clarissa Start), member of the cast of the latter skit are: Mrs. Kern L. Cochrum (Beulah Schacht), Mrs. C. A. Isbell, Miss Jeanne Bottoms, Miss Dorothy Anne Carroll and Mrs. William A. Zukoski.

The party is being planned under the direction of Mrs. D. Goodrich Gamble and Mrs. Joseph L. Weiner, president and vice president, respectively, of the St. Louis chapter, and Mrs. Horace Barks III, program chairman. Miss Marie Brown and Mrs. Cochrum are co-chairmen of the party. Committee chairmen include Mrs. Jerome R. Wollman, Mrs. John P. Ghiglieri, Mrs. Arnold C. Abrams, Mrs. Donald E. Miller, Mrs. Joseph Pollack and Mrs. James A. Wright.

ment service never had the least idea they were dismissed because of security questions. It seems to me that the Civil Service has a very grave responsibility when it lists against a name the word "subversive" without verifying the information that has brought about the accusation.

MRS. KESSLER... TO BE GUEST SPEAKER.

The Query Club will be entertained at a Christmas party and luncheon at the home of Mrs. James B. Gottsberger, 3126 Russell boulevard, next Friday at 10:30 a.m. The president, Mrs. Fletcher Crowe, will preside at the annual guest day meeting. Mrs. Whately L. Chandler, president of the Eighth District Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs, will give a program. Mrs. Gustave A. Wuest will be in charge of the music and Mrs. Griffith Jenkins will present a Christmas Biblical story.

The St. Louis Safety Club will have a reciprocity tea Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. at Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, Garrison and St. Louis avenues. Mrs. Clinton B. Downs, president, will preside. Miss Lydia Koch, program chairman, will introduce the guest speaker, Mrs. Whately L. Chandler, president of the Eighth District, Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs.

Martha Carr's OPINION

Today's column is devoted to teen-agers who are invited to submit their problems to Martha Carr.

Dear Martha:

I HAVE known a boy for four years, and I know that he has liked me for the past year, but I just thought of him as a good friend. Whenever I needed anyone to take me somewhere, I would call on him. He has gone steady twice in the past year, but would still ask me out and do favors for me. A couple of months ago, I decided I really liked him, but did not let my feelings show. I still call on him if I need someone to drive me some place, as he is not going steady. He still does everything I ask of him. I found out recently that he has told some kids that I asked him out, and put it in such a way as to say I am chasing after him. I asked him and he denied it. I tell everyone, including him, that I just think of him as a friend and that I like someone else. He never asks me out anymore as he used to. But I like him very much, and don't know what to do. Please advise me. PUZZLED.

My suggestion is to stop talking about it and see if the matter won't straighten itself out. It wasn't very courteous of him to imply that you were chasing him, but perhaps you have called on him to help you so often that he was tempted to think you were just making excuses to see him. Don't discuss him with your friends, and if he brings up the subject, be as straightforward as you can. There's no need to be coy at this late date, or to make a point of telling everyone that you like someone else when you're toting a torch for Buster here.

Dear Martha:

I AM 17, and for two months now I've been going with a wonderful boy a few years older. I don't wear his ring, nor have we agreed to go steady, but neither of us goes out with others. Now my problem is, what should I get him for a Christmas present? Also, since his birthday is only two weeks before Christmas, should I give him a gift then, and, if so, what would be an appropriate gift?

READER.

As you're not going steady, and have been dating a comparatively short time, I'd suggest merely a card for his birthday and a gift for Christmas—white pocket handkerchiefs (monogrammed if there's still time), a record album, a special book having to do with his hobby, a billfold, magazine subscription or tickets to some special event, a basketball game, play or concert.

Dear Martha:

WE ARE TWO GIRLS 13 YEARS OLD. We go to the roller rink most every Sunday afternoon, and we would like to know if it is proper to ask a boy to skate with us. There are two boys whom we would like to skate with, but feel it is too forward of us to ask them. Should we wait until they ask us? Sometimes they do, and maybe the next Sunday they don't even look our way. We would appreciate your opinion. My mother says we should wait until they ask us, but we could be old and gray by that time.

TWO FRUSTRATED FEMALES.

I go along with your mother. I think a boy should have the right to ask a girl to skate with him instead of having to look over his shoulder to make sure a gal isn't swooping down on him. Sorry to sound blunt, but I think the boys will like you better if they have to come seeking you out of the crowd.

Send today for Martha Carr's free leaflet for teen-agers, "E for Etiquette." Be sure to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Your Food Problems The Purple Plum Flavor

By Edith M. Barber

IN MY OPINION one of the most useful and interesting of the many canned fruits we like to keep on hand is the purple plum.

Its piquant flavor makes it appropriate for many purposes. Without any extra touches we have a dessert that does not have to be planned ahead. Plums hold their shape nicely and the pits allowed to remain in them add flavor to the pulp and juice.

Of course, they must be pitted if we are going to use them for a cobbler, a brown Betty or a sauce. In combination with a tart jelly they are particularly good with French toast. This can serve as dessert, or as an interesting main dish for Sunday brunch when garnished with crisp bacon.

The northwest furnishes most of our purple plums. These are sometimes called Italian plums, and some of them are dried for market. The flavor is tarter than that of the sweeter California prune and we like them for different purposes.

The flowering plum orchards of the Pacific Northwest are a beautiful sight in the spring and are appreciated for this reason as well as their promise of a fine fruit crop later in the season.

French Toast with Purple Plum Sauce.

One cup current jelly. One cup canned purple plums, pitted and cut up. Two tablespoons lemon juice. Two eggs. One-half cup milk. One-half teaspoon salt. Butter or margarine. One cup corn flakes, crushed.

FRENCH TOAST, GARNISHED WITH A TASTY SAUCE MADE OF PURPLE PLUMS. IS A DISH TO DRESS UP SUNDAY BRUNCH OR ANY INFORMAL MEAL. THE FLAVOR OF PURPLE PLUMS IS ADAPTABLE TO MANY DESSERTS AND SAUCES.

Melt jelly in saucepan with canned purple plums and lemon juice. Simmer until ready to serve with French toast.

In bowl, beat eggs lightly with fork. Stir in milk and salt. Dip slices of bread in milk mixture; turn to coat, then dip slices in crushed cereal, then brown on both sides in skillet. Repeat until all slices are used. Yield: six servings.

Purple Plum Meat Garnish. Ingredients: One-half lemon, remove seeds and slice fine. One garlic clove, chopped fine. Two and one-half cups peeled, canned purple plums, drained. One-half cup canned purple plum juice. One-half cup brown sugar. One-fourth pound (three-fourths cup) seedless raisins. One-fourth pound (three-fourths cup) citron. One and one-half ounces (about one-fourth cup) candied ginger. Three-fourths teaspoon salt.

Cook all ingredients together until tender. Place the purple plum meat garnish in jars and seal them. Makes nearly a quart.

Questions on Christmas Etiquette

By Amy Vanderbilt

THE sending of Christmas gifts and cards can sometimes be a delicate matter, so let's see if my thinking on the subject will be of some help.

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: I have a son, living home, who was recently divorced. His two daughters come here on weekends and we are all on friendly terms with his former wife. Should I, the little girl's grandmother, send a small gift for his wife when I send gifts to the children or just a nice card, and how should I sign the card? We live in the same community. —MRS. M. F."

The former daughter-in-law does not expect a gift from you, I am sure, and might feel the necessity of sending you one should she receive one from you. You can best sense what the relationship is between you. If you are really comfortable about it, send her a Christmas card and sign it by whatever name she still calls you. "Grandma Jones," "Evelyn Jones," "Mrs. Jones" or "Evelyn." If you have always been on a first-name basis, the last suggestion is perfectly all right.

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: For the last six months I have been keeping company with a young, out-of-town man. I have yet to meet his parents. My problem is whether I should send them a Christmas present. If so, what kind of gift would be appropriate? Also, I have met some of his relatives who live in the same city as I. Should I send them Christmas cards? —M. S."

Please do not make any overture to this man's parents. If and when an engagement is announced, it is their social duty to call upon your parents, if possible, or, otherwise to write both you and your parents.

Do not send them a Christmas card, either, but should they send you one (which I think is unlikely) you may write them a little note of thanks, without in any way implying too close a relationship with their son.

Also I would not send cards to the man's relatives in your town if you have merely met them and are not having a regular friendly association with them.

"After all, the kids can't buy much for a nickel so of course they don't have much respect for it," a man remarked at a party where the subject came up. Another man told how he'd felt cheap doling out nickles on trick-or-treat night and had switched to dimes, then gulped when he figured the total outfit. He, too, remembers the $64 question. A mother felt that by example, you could instill a healthier respect for money in your children. Hers, she said, were appalled at a magazine's picture display on easy credit and the fact that one family owned only the wheels of its automobile.

Just what the moral is to all this, we can't say. But we're grateful to that television M.C. for pointing out a kind of moral in the age which has given rise to the scornful, "It's only money."

Remember, kids, it isn't whether you win or lose but how you play the game. Especially when you take home $25,000 as a consolation prize.

Sign of Immaturity

By Ruth Millett

THREE years after graduating from college she gave up her dream of a glamorous career to marry. Now six years later with the responsibility of a house to run, a husband to keep happy and two children to look after she is feeling sorry for herself.

The job of homemaker that she willingly chose instead of ruthlessly going after the career she first thought she wanted has lost its glamour. She is weary of the routine of housework, tired of being "taken for granted" by her husband, bored with being tied down by small children.

She wants to know what she can do to make her life once more seem worth while and exciting. Well, she can grow up. She can smile at her dreams of a glamorous career. She can admit that if she had been driven by the kind of self-centered ambition and readiness to sacrifice personal happiness for hard work needed to take a woman to the top in a career she wouldn't have so quickly settled for marriage.

AND she can look closely at some successful career woman to see if her life is really as glamorous as it seems on the surface or if it is mostly hard work, loneliness and maybe even a substitute for being needed by a husband and children.

And then she can look at all the possibilities for happiness and accomplishment and service in the life she has chosen.

What job for a woman is actually more satisfying than holding the love of a husband, being needed by children, being the one human being who can do the best job of making a home for her particular family?

AND ALL of a homemaker's years aren't the busy, crowded, hectic ones she goes through while her children are small. That is only a brief period in her life. The rest of the years offer all kinds of opportunity for self-development, social life, community work and self-expression.

Any woman who thinks she has shortchanged herself by choosing marriage instead of a career just needs to grow up.

"Oh," she said understanding that he must mean Diane, "sorry, Daddy. Does it matter to you very much?"

"It matters to her," he said dryly. "Diane was a secret in Chicago. She hates it here."

"Maybe it will be different after she has a baby," Lisa said to comfort him. Steve ran his hand over his forehead and shook his head. "I doubt it."

As he spoke he drew to the front of an old house which had been turned into a duplex. It had never been beautiful, but it had the dignity of an old lady whose deficiencies were overlooked because of her size. "Your grandfather Morton and I lived here until his death," Steve explained.

Treading as noiselessly as possible he led the way to the guest room which was across the hall from the bathroom. There were fresh towels on one rack, which proved she was expected, and the large brass bedstead was freshly made. Her father deposited her suitcase and matching overnight bag. If her luggage was any indication, she did not intend to remain long. . . .

He must tell Diane that if she needed him about it, as she probably would. Anticipating a row if he disturbed her, he sat down to smoke until evening came.

Just as he decided he might as well go up now, he heard a door open and the pater of slippers feet on the uncarpeted stairs. Glancing up he saw his wife with a pale blue robe flowing about her. "She looks like a madonna," he thought. "There was nothing madonna-like in the complaining voices."

"What's the matter with you, Steve? Sitting there mooning over the past. You know I can't sleep until you're in bed." Etc., etc., . . . ad nauseum. Steve knew better than to answer the charges hurled against him. If he did the argument would go on indefinitely.

Keep alert—chew gum

Avoid traffic jitters and driving drowsiness. Chew gum while you're behind the wheel. Chewing helps relieve strain and tension—helps keep you feeling fresh and alert for safe driving. Chew any brand of gum you like but chew while you drive. Naturally, we recommend Wrigley's Spearmint Gum—for lively, satisfying flavor and real chewing enjoyment.
